Ag Showcase... Showcases Ag

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

FAIR HILL, Md. — Cecil County, just below the Pennsylvania border, has many claims to fame. Not the least of these claims is the Ag Showcase Day held in conjunction with the County Fair.

"Farmers want to see the new equipment in action side by side with the competition," said Ted Haas, Cecil County extension agent. And see the action they did. Corn planters and choppers. Hay making equipment, mowers, rakes, balers, and ag bag filling. Conventional tillage equipment, subsoilers, chisel plows, and disks. No-till drills. And tractors of all colors and sizes.

"The equipment dealers have been so cooperative," Haas said. "The number of pieces of equipment they have brought out is extremely good. It makes it enjoyable for everyone."

Each year (this makes the ninth year) attendance has gone up. Hass estimated the crowd at 275 farmers.

"At most fair exhibits, the machinery is on display or they show pictures," Haas said. "But at the Cecil County Ag Showcase Field Day they demonstrate the equipment."

Along with Hass, the show committee included Dave Dudkewitz, Sam Orr, Bruce Yerkes, Ed Green-

Ford, Fiat Announce Merger Agreement

TURIN, Italy — Fiat Group and Ford Motor Company announced recently that they have reached an agreement involving their worldwide tractor, farm, and industrial equipment operations.

A new company to be formed will incorporate Fiat's subsidiary, FiatGeotech, and Ford New Holland. Fiat will have an 80 percent majority interest. Ford will hold the remaining 20 percent and will receive a cash payment from Fiat. The agreement to form the new company is subject to government approvals.

The new company intends to preserve the individual market and product identities of both Fiat-Geotech and Ford New Holland.

CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — In the end, simple basics of breeding and techniques of showmanship garnered Annville-based Kelly Bachman three grand championships, one reserve, and four placings in the beef show competition Wednesday at the Lebanon Fair.

Feeser Family Exhibits York Champ

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — A powerful Excellent aged cow by Sexation topped the York County Holstein Show on July 26, claiming the purple champion rosettes for Furnace-Creek Farms, Hanover.

Furnace-Creek Sexation Trudy, EX-90, got judge Ron Woods' nod for senior and grand champion, following her win of the aged cow class. She was also cited for best udder and named best bred and owned of the show for owners Frank and Sandy Feeser, a repeat of the honor from last year's York Holstein competition.

The six-year-old freshened about one month ago, after finishing up with a record of 21,900 milk, 740 fat, 720 protein. According to Furnace Creek herdsman John Doll, Jr., who handled the champion in the ring, Trudy calves every year on schedule and has three daughters, one milking, in the herd. Pairing her with her daughter, Furnace-Creek Ryan Robin, also earned the Feeser family first place in the dam-daughter class.

Reserve senior and grand champion was Sunnybend Mamie Brent Valiant, a senior-two-year-old exhibited by the Tom and June Boyer family's Sunnybend Farm, York.

Editor's Notes, This Week & Next

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION SUPPLEMENT

You will find the beautiful Dairy of Distinction supplement in this issue. Lancaster Farming is proud to help sponsor this program by providing color farm portrait enlargements to each winning entry. These color prints will be on display at Ag Progress Days on Wednesday afternoon in the special events building.

AG PROGRESS ISSUE

Next week's issue will feature full Ag Progress Days preparation coverage. You'll find maps, lists of exhibitors, and program guides to help you find your way over Penn State's research farm at Rock Springs. In addition, a number of extension specialists have prepared articles related to this special event and we have numerous articles that give background on many of the subjects covered during this educational attraction.

MARYLAND DAIRY PRINCESS

On Page B-11 of this issue, you will find the background story on the Maryland Dairy Princess contestants. The Pageant was held on Wednesday evening, and our Maryland Correspondent Eva Martin reports at press time that Stacy Guyton, Jefferson has been named the new Maryland State dairy princess. We'll have coverage of this event next week.

Delmarva Broiler-Fryer Market

Wednesday, August 1, 1990

CORRECTION - ON WEIGHTED AVERAGE AT ASTERICKS.

Movement of ready to cook whole fryers was fairly good for a Wednesday. Supplies were in good balance on the 3 pound and lighter sizes, close on the heavier sizes. Less than trucklot asking prices were steady at 50-64 cents. Live supplies were adequate. Average live weights were lighter than desired but were improving. Processing schedules today were light. The trade sentiment was generally steady. In the parts complex, supplies of breast items were at least adequate, dark meat items were in close balance at most shipping points with some buyer inquiries for late week needs not filled, and wings were irregularly distributed and ranged close to fully adequate.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, August 1, 1990

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS: PART 1 OF 2: FEDERAL-STATE. Trucklot buying interest was mixed and selective. Supplies of breast items were at least adequate but not as freely available as earlier. Legs and leg quarters were in tighter supply and no more than adequate at some points. Wings remained in irregular balance with buyers noting less difficulty in filling orders. Drums and thighs were fully adequate.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

AUG. 6-12, 1990

Aug. 6, Full Sturgeon Moon.

Aug 7, 1782, the Badge of Miltary Merit (or the Order of the Purple Heart) is established by General Washington Aug 9, 1593, Izaak Walton, "the father of angling" and author of The Compleat Angler, is born Aug 12, 1851, Isaac M Singer receives a patent for the first continuous-stitch sewing machine The fish will soon be caught that nibbles at every bait

Ask the Old Farmer: How can I remove water discoloration from chrome bathroom fixures? Chrome polish just makes shiny discolorations! S S, Pa

Wet the fixtures with cool water and wipe with fresh newspaper

Home Hints: Take along a picnic cooler when grocery shopping on hot days Stash all the perishables/meltables in the cooler for the trip home

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: Sunny and warm most of the week. Expect temperatures around 74° F this month (2° above average, 4° above north) Showers end the week.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Cool weather for the first half of the week, then clear and warm Very warm with thundershowers for the weekend

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Showers, heavy in the west, followed by milder temperatures midweek A couple of clear, hot days, ending with thundershowers

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Water everywhere this week! Rain, heavy in the west, diminishes to showers to end the week, becoming hot for the weekend

Bale Accumulator

The Steffen Systems Bale Accumulator conveniently and easily packages up to ten 2-tie bales or eight 3-tie bales into a uniform arrangement which can easily be handled by one of the Steffen Systems loaders. The fully automatic electric over hydraulic controls operate the accumulator without the need of an operator. With its quick and smooth functions, there is no need to slow down the baler to allow for proper functioning of the machine. Also available for use in 2-tie bales is an optional tie bar.

OPINION

Buttered Bread

We often hear that agriculture doesn't have much clout in government because our numbers are so small in comparison to total population numbers. But from recent past events, this idea may not be true.

In recent US congressional maneuverings, farm supporters over-rode attempts to diminish sugar and peanut programs. And the attempt to set eligibility requirements to bar individuals with adjusted gross incomes of $100,000 or more from pocketing federal farm payments was defeated.

Even in Pennsylvania, with all the hoopla over the budget, when all was said and done, farmers received their fair share even though in some areas more would have been better.

In research, "Not as bad as we expected."

In FFA Foundation support, "More than requested."

And you can go down the line to see that agriculture was not left behind. And of course, both parties want to say they helped the farmer the most. And each party wants to blame the other of robbing agriculture of its just dues. That's political rhetoric.

What really determines agriculture's wallop in both the national and state governments is that AGRICULTURE IS A LARGE PART OF OUR ECONOMY. In Pennsylvnia, one in five jobs depends on agriculture. In the national food and fiber sector, agriculture represents 17 percent of the total GNP, 16 percent of employment and 17 percent of exports.

Never mind that farmers are exceedingly outnumbered at the ballot box. When it comes time to appropriate spending to support agriculture, the rest of the people still know which side their bread is buttered.

To Be Aware Of Tobacco Black Shank

Black shank has been positively identified in a tobacco field near Bird-In-Hand according to Robert Anderson, Extension Agronomy Agent. It has been several years since this disease has caused much damage to the tobacco crop in Lancaster County. Black shank can be a serious and destructive disease of Pennsylvania Type tobacco. It is caused by a soil borne fungus which can survive in the soil for many years. A four or more year long rotation is recommended on farms which have had black shank.

Black shank can be recognized by a sudden wilting or drooping of all leaves on a plant. When the affected plant is cut open, the pith of the stalk near the ground level is usually separated into discs similar to those found in bamboo. Internal portions of the stalk are black in color. Similar damage can be found with lightning damage, however the discs are white with lightning damage. Once infected with black shank the plant does not survive.

Best control is with a long rotation or by switching to growing Maryland 609 tobacco.

To Observe Poultry Month

The Lancaster County Commissioners have proclaimed August as Poultry Month. So, this is a real good time to reflect on the impact this important industry has on the economy of Lancaster County. Poultry products in Lancaster County provide nourishment for over nine million people. The value of the poultry products sold totaled over $187 million. It is estimated that nearly 10,000 people are employed in the many different areas of the poultry industry in Lancaster County.

The industry is strong because of the dedicated, well managed poultry farms along with a highly efficient and supportive allied industry. Eggs and poultry meat are two of the most nourishing foods in your health diet. Let's be supportive of this important part of our agricultural economy during Poultry Month.

To Check Leafhopper Injury To Alfalfa

The sudden invasion of potato leafhoppers caught some farmers off guard and inflicted damage to their alfalfa stands. Infected fields appear yellowish or bronzy in color. Their growth is severely stunted, and they may not mature properly. Once the damage is done, these stands will not respond well to spraying.

To speed up recovery of the stand, cut the damaged alfalfa about 4-5 weeks after the last cutting, regardless of its height or maturity.

Then observe the regrowth closely, and spray it for leafhopper control if necessary. To help the stand regain its strength, it will be beneficial to let the regrowth come into bloom before cutting.

To Renovate Old Pastures

Late August and early September are good times to establish a new pasture, or renovate an old one. In fact, this is a good time of the year to make any pasture or lawn seeding. The old sod should be destroyed by cultivation or by a herbicide. After the soil has been treated with lime and fertilizer, according to a complete soil test, it can be seeded and should produce good grazing for next summer.

The advantage of a fall seeding is to permit time for the new plants to become established before the 1991 hot weather arrives. The cool, moist fall months should give the plants a good start. The Agronomy Guide lists some good seeding recommendations.

Background Scripture: Ecclesiastes 3.

Devotional Reading: Matthew 6:22-34.

When I was a student in the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, there were two brothers on the same faculty, Dr. Solomon S. Huebner, the father of insurance education in the USA, and Dr. Grover G. Huebner, professor of foreign commerce. Their divergent personalities and double initials gave rise to nicknames: Sunny Sol and Gloomy Gus. Sunny Sol was the personification of optimism and inspiration; Gloomy Gus, seemed the congenital cynic.

I was one of Sunny Sol's many fans, but I never had any courses under Gloomy Gus. Still, I was told by other student who did that, although his style was not dynamic and inspiring as his brother's, he was nevertheless an excellent teacher whose pessimism could be as valuable as Sol's optimism. At the time, I found that hard to believe.

NEEDING BOTH KINDS

Over the years, however, I have found that in any organization -- business, government, church -- one needs both kinds of people and their influence must be balanced to bring the best results. We need dreamers to create new ideas, but we also need those who can analyze a new idea and be realistic about it.

So, though the Preacher [illegible] seem[illegible] to carry[illegible] eyes [illegible] and his [illegible] tedly-stated conviction that "all is vanity" can try the [illegible] most faithful, still he does have some important things [illegible] [illegible] from the depths of his [illegible] One of these is written in Ecclesiastes 3. For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven..." This is a concept that we often overlook or forget. In the midst of life, we tend to forget that death is every much a part of our destiny as was birth. God creates us with "a time to be born and a time to die" (2a). God created life in a seasonal manner and we must not forget that to be human means to experience all those seasons, even if we don't like them. So the breaking down, weeping, mourning, losing, rending, hating, and even war are all part of the human experience. We much prefer the healing, laughing, dancing, embracing, love and peace, but none of these are constant in a world of free will.

LIFE IS SEASONAL

If the Preacher is saying that there is nothing we can do about these -- and that seems to be what he is saying -- I would not agree. I believe we can increase the experience of love, peace and joy in the world. In fact, that is what Christ calls us to do. My wife, Valere, and I do a great deal to promote and teach health and wholeness. Still, we acknowledge that eventually these bodies of ours will wear out, break down and die -- for that is the way God designed and created us, all of us.

So there is wisdom in the Preacher's admonition to make the most of the time we have. "So I saw that there is nothing better than that a man should enjoy his work, for that is his lot" (33:22). Like that old saying, "Make hay while the sun shines," we need to make the most of the seasons God gives us. As Shakespeare puts it in Julius Caesar: There is a tide in the affairs of men, Which taken at the flood, leads on to fortune. Omitted all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and miseries.

Life must be taken [illegible]

It's no news that improving forage quality can increase milk production. The problem is finding the time to do it, while tending to all your other farm management responsibilities.

If you're too busy to do it all, your Agway Farm Enterprise Salesperson can help. He has the know how, the products and the services you need to get the most out of new seedings or established stands.

- Planning needs
- Selection of proven varieties
- Plant food recommendations
- Weed and insect control where needed
- Custom application service
- Forage preservatives
- Forage testing
- Feeding programs

In short, he can help you better manage all the complex variables that contribute to higher forage quality and a more profitable dairy operation.

Call your Agway Farm Enterprise Salesperson today. He's someone worth knowing.

If your neighbor has higher forage quality than you, chances are he knows someone you don't.

ALLSTAR

Allstar alfalfa-grown by farmers who care about quality. Developed in the Northeast, Allstar is specifically bred with a disease resistance package: Resistant to Verticillium Wilt and highly resistant to Bacterial Wilt, Anthracnose, Fusarium Wilt and Phytophthora Root Rot. Allstar was the top producer at the Mount Joy, PA Replicated Trials in 1989. In the three year summary, it came in third. It has the highest ratings on disease resistance in Penn State's 1989 Alfalfa Germplasm Test. Allstar has fast regrowth and high forage quality which saves money on supplements.

These high yields deliver excellent returns on your seed investment. You can expect to use this variety for long term or short term rotations.

Turfgrass Research Gets Record Funding

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The turfgrass research program at Penn State received a record grant of $125,000 from the Pennsylvania Turfgrass Council for the 1990 research year.

"Research conducted with PTC funds benefits the entire turfgrass industry," says Dr. Thomas Watschke, Penn State professor of turfgrass science. "More than one million acres in Pennsylvania are tied up in the turfgrass industry, including golf courses, home lawns, roadsides and sod farms."

Watschke will use PTC funds to support the Landscape Management and Water Quality Research Center, where a recent project studied the effect of pesticide runoff from home lawns on water quality. The results of the project showed that thick lawns deter runoff and allow water to be absorbed.

PTC funds will also support other research areas in Penn State's turfgrass program.

The Joseph Valentine Turfgrass Research Center, a 10-acre testing site for new turfgrass varieties, will receive new equipment. Two bentgrass varieties developed at the center, Penncross and Penneagle, are used worldwide on tennis courts, bowling greens and putting greens.

PTC money will support research on "bio-rational" means of insect control, which aims to reduce pesticide use. Researchers are looking for a turfgrass species that is resistant to root pathogens, a major problem on golf courses.

The funds will support graduate students studying athletic field management. Their research helps to improve athletic field conditions around the state and may help prevent the one in five player injuries that are field-related. The funds will also support personnel studying turfgrass diseases.

Researchers receiving PTC funds are Watschke; Dr. Joseph Duich, professor of turfgrass science; Dr. Donald Waddington, professor of soil science; Dr. Paul Heller, professor of entomology; Patricia Sanders, associate professor of plant pathology; and Dr. Peter Landschoot, assistant professor of turfgrass science and turfgrass extension.

The Pennsylvania Turfgrass Council has supported Penn State's program in turfgrass research since 1955. In return, research, teaching and extension personnel from Penn State have served as advisers for the council.

Watch Wheat Threshing

DENTON, Md.— The Eastern Shore Threshermen & Collectors Association, Inc. will be holding their 30th annual Wheat Threshing, Steam and Gas Engine Show on August 3, 4 and 5, 1990.

Besides the main attraction of wheat threshing, there will be shingle sawing, rock crushing, sawing on a miniature sawmill, demonstrations using steam engines, antique gas engines, antique tractors, live steam models, antique cars and rides on "Smokey Joe," a miniature steam train which is a replica of the "General" Civil War locomotive.

There will be a daily parade featuring the equipment, a large flea market with more than 125 dealers, and plenty of good food.

There will be plenty of free entertainment with E Z Pickens with Joe Calloway on Friday evening and Country Grass on Saturday evening. Both shows start at 7:30 p.m. Church services will be held Sunday morning at 9 a.m. and there will be gospel music Sunday evening.

Admission and parking are free. The showgrounds are located on Rt. 313 between Denton and Federalsburg, MD. For additional information call (301) 754-8422.

The Robthom Brent-Et daughter is fresh since November, and scored VG-86 in February classification. Still milking at 65 pounds she has a projected lactation of 19,000 pounds. High placings by the ten head in the Sunnybend show string snagged both the premier breeder and exhibitor banners for Tom and June Boyer and daughters Bridgette and Jenelle.

Junior champion honors went to Brodbecks 4-H'er Shannon Doll, taking the top heifer prize with her tall, growthy senior calf, Dar-Dale Russ Becky. She was also named best junior female bred and owned in the show.

Greg Gemmill, Delta took home the reserve junior champion honors with Woodbine Beautician Mim, the winning intermediate yearling. Placing of the two heifers in the junior champion and reserve spot was a repeat of the York 4-H roundup show the previous day.

Jay Howes Reports On Ag Management Services

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Several weeks ago the pages of Lancaster Farming carried the story that I had been hired as manager of Agricultural Services for the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Now, six weeks into the job, I appreciate the opportunity to again use these pages to communicate with the agricultural community of Lancaster County and hope to continue to do so from time to time in the future.

As I reflect on the early weeks on the job, I realize that two questions have repeatedly surfaced. The obvious one is: Why has the Lancaster Chamber established a manager of Agricultural Services? And the follow-up of: What is he supposed to do?

First, let's address the question of "Why The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and agriculture?" The answer comes from the fact that the Chamber is interested in both the economy and the quality of life for all citizens of our area and is firm in its belief that the strength of Lancaster County lies in the three pillars of its balanced economy: industry, tourism and agriculture. Of those three, agriculture not only out-distances the other two in terms of size, but is, in fact, a very stabilizing force for the entire economy.

Furthermore, the community at-large enjoys many "spin-off" benefits from the agricultural sector. The scenic value and traditional image of Lancaster County as a "Garden Spot" is an obvious draw for the tourist industry; the agri-business side of agriculture provides employment and support services for the community as a whole; and, farmland as productive, viable open space, certainly adds to the quality of life of all citizens of the area.

Even with only these factors in mind, it would be ill-advised for the Chamber to ignore agriculture, but there are at least two other key elements involved in the Chamber's thinking. First, individual farmers wholeheartedly embrace and embody the "Private Enterprise in Action" motto of the Chamber and, in fact, are a stronghold of free enterprise and the entrepreneurial spirit that underlies all of the Chamber philosophy. Secondly, even with all the current emphasis on land preservtion and formal efforts in place to achieve this, the Chamber firmly believes that the single best way to preserve farmland is to maintain individual farm profitability at a high enough level that the sale of the land for other use becomes a less attractive alternative. In other words, the best way to preserve farmland is to preserve the farmer through increased profitability.

These considerations led the Chamber to conclude that agriculture was of critical importance to Lancaster County and its economy, and the chamber should become more active in promoting and developing this aspect of the total economy. Thus, the position of Manager of Agricultural Services (or Ag Coordinator as it was known in the developmental stage) was created with the mssion "to enhance the economic welfare of farmers in Lancaster County and thereby provide spin-off benefits to the entire agri-business sector and the community at large."

This is certainly an admirable goal and the job description is further sprinkled with such phrases as "identify the needs of Lancaster County agriculture . . . formulate approaches for problem solving . . . ag development . . . liaison to ag agencies and legislators . . . public relations representative to the non-ag community, etc." Again, these are commendable goals, and the Chamber is sincere in its intent, but the first real job is to refine these general statements of purpose into specific projects or programs. And, to do this while keeping firmly in mind the goal of increasing the economic viability of the individual farm.

To this end, the early phase of my job has largely involved meeting with a wide variety of individuals from a broad cross-section of agriculture in an attempt to get as much input as possible into establishing how and where the Chamber can be most effective.

Now, I would like to solicit your help and ask the same questions of all of you involved in agriculture. What are the biggest issues and problems facing agriculture in Lancaster County? Where are there gaps, or weak links, that we can help fill? What can be done to further maintain and enhance agriculture in Lancaster County? In short, where can The Lancaster Chamber or Jay Howes, as its agricultural representative, be most effective in assisting the county's most valuable industry?

It's a wide-open topic and I sincerely welcome your thoughts. I can be reached at the Chamber offices in Southern Market Center, 100 South Queen Street, P.O. Box 1558, Lancaster, PA 17603, or by phone at 397-3531. Please feel free at any time to pass along your concerns, your observations and your good ideas. I'll look forward to hearing from you.

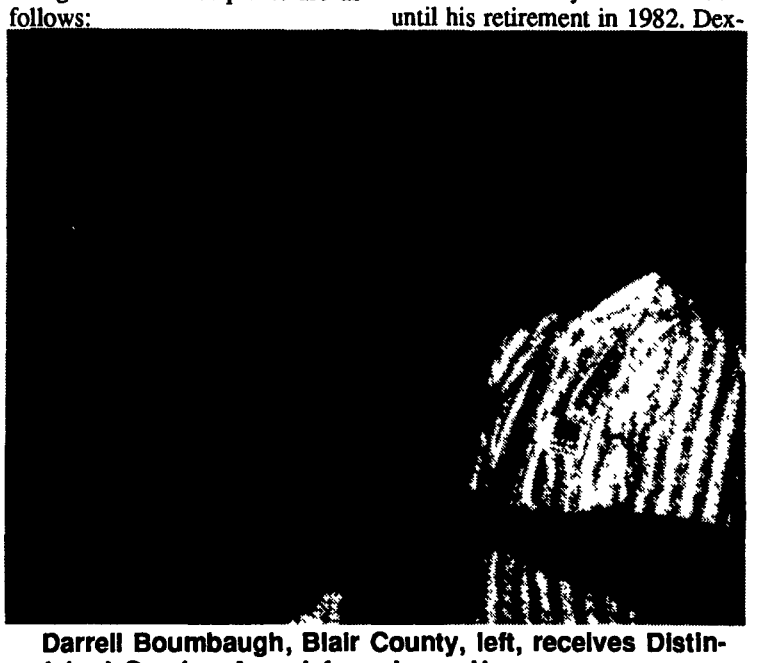
PA DHIA Recognizes Supervisors

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — A number of service awards were presented at the DHIA supervisors summer conference last week. The award background and recipients are as follows:



Darrell Boumbaugh, Blair County, left, receives Distinguished Service Award from Larry Hay.

PUTNAM AWARD

The Putnam Memorial Award was initiated in 1983 in honor of Dexter N. Putnam for his contributions to PA DHIA. Putnam was an extension dairyman from 1957 until his retirement in 1982. Dexter's dairy extension responsibilities included working with DHIA supervisors to improve their accuracy in reporting data on DHIA forms. The Putnam Award is given annually to the supervisor who commits the fewest errors per 1000 cows tested. Supervisors may only win this award once. The winner receives an engraved Cross pen & pencil set. David Shenk III, Perry County, was this year's winner.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

Seven Supervisors from across the state received the coveted Distinguished Service Award. They are Cindy Davis - Erie County; Darrell Brumbaugh - Blair County; Ron Morgan - Mifflin County; Nelson Kreider - Lancaster County; Linda Wagner - Wayne County; John Rolar - Cumberland County; and Shane Henry - Cumberland County. In addition, 72 supervisors received awards of merit.

1989 ROOKIE OF THE YEAR

The Rookie of the year award was established to honor new supervisors who have shown exceptional aptitude in learning the job of the DHIA Supervisor. These individuals must have worked between 6 and 18 months and demonstrate outstanding cooperation with the state and local DHIA organizations in conducting an efficient and accurate testing program.

The award consists of an engraved plaque. This year the field staff had a difficult choice to make since there are several very good new supervisors.

THE HOLLINGER AWARD

The Carl B. Hollinger Memorial Award was started in 1977 in honor of Mr. Hollinger who was a fieldman for PA DHIA from 1951-1974. The winner of this award is selected by the employees who work in the Central Milk Testing Lab, to recognize the outstanding supervisor for excellence in neatness and accuracy of samples and barnsheets. Criteria used in selecting the winner include order and neatness of the barn sheets, neatness in sample packing, size of samples, method of ordering supplies, and cooperation with the lab. The award winner receives an engraved desk set. The 1990 winner is Ralph Rudy, Centre Co.

THE SUPERIOR SUPERVISOR AWARD

The purpose of the Superior Supervisor Award is to honor those supervisors who deliver exceptional service to Pennsylvania's dairy farmers, promote good public relations, and provide up-to-date records for all of their members. The individual receiving this award must be full time, and have a minimum of 20 years of service. He or she must have previously received the distinguished service award, and have qualified for the award of merit for the current year. The award consists of a plaque and check for $100.00. Jay Mylin, Lancaster Co. is this year's winner.

ULTRAFLO OUT-PERFORMS CHAIN

45 Million Birds In 5 Years Prove It

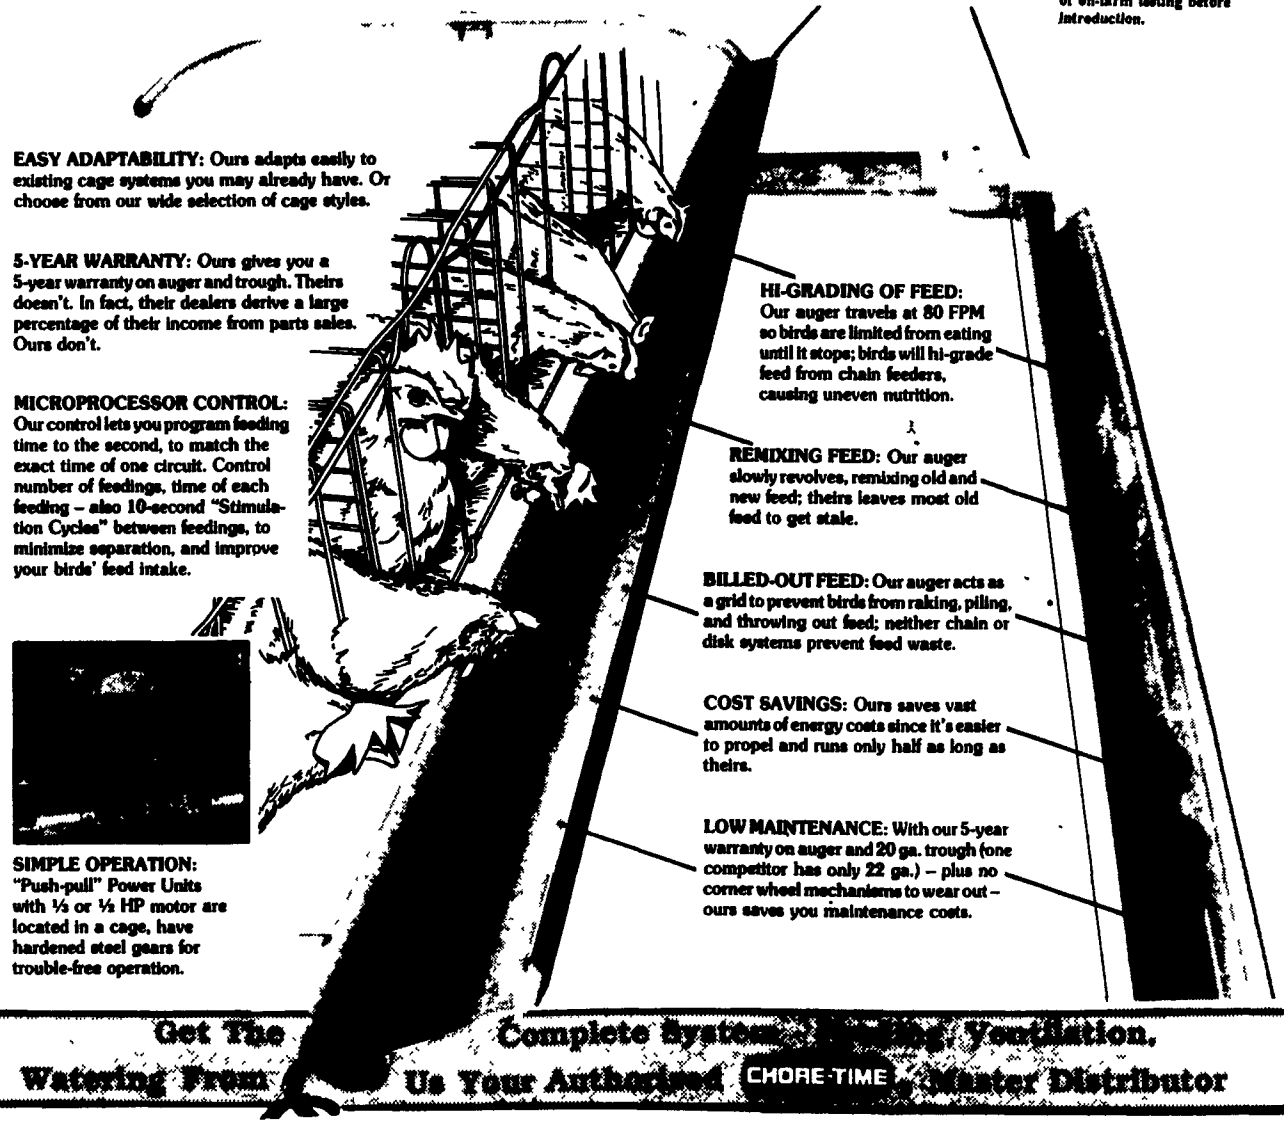
Chore-Time's ULTRAFLO® feeder for layers, pullets and breeders

We have probably been too modest up to now about the merits of our new generation ULTRAFLO® cage feeder vs. the old style chain feeders some of our competitors are still trying to sell you. In fact, the only negative comments about our feeder come from our competition, not our customers. So we would like to point out the bare facts:

FEED SAVINGS: On-farm results show a feed savings of ½ lb. per 100 birds per day – over $10,000 per year savings on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year.

TROUBLE-FREE DESIGN: Our feeder has only two moving parts – the one-piece auger plus each drive wheel; their chain has more. Our corners are heavy 12 ga. zinc plated tubing for long life; their corners have a reputation for trouble and short life.

PROVEN DESIGN: Over 45 million birds are already on our feeder worldwide. Also, it was proven in 5 years of on-farm testing before introduction.



EASY ADAPTABILITY: Ours adapts easily to existing cage systems you may already have. Or choose from our wide selection of cage styles.

5-YEAR WARRANTY: Ours gives you a 5-year warranty on auger and trough. Theirs doesn't. In fact, their dealers derive a large percentage of their income from parts sales. Ours don't.

MICROPROCESSOR CONTROL: Our control lets you program feeding time to the second, to match the exact time of one circuit. Control number of feedings, time of each feeding – also 10-second "Stimulation Cycles" between feedings, to minimize separation, and improve your birds' feed intake.

HI-GRADING OF FEED: Our auger travels at 80 FPM so birds are limited from eating until it stops; birds will hi-grade feed from chain feeders, causing uneven nutrition.

REMIXING FEED: Our auger slowly revolves, remixing old and new feed; theirs leaves most old feed to get stale.

BILLED-OUT FEED: Our auger acts as a grid to prevent birds from raking, piling, and throwing out feed; neither chain or disk systems prevent feed waste.

COST SAVINGS: Ours saves vast amounts of energy costs since it's easier to propel and runs only half as long as theirs.

LOW MAINTENANCE: With our 5-year warranty on auger and 20 ga. trough (one competitor has only 22 ga.) – plus no corner wheel mechanisms to wear out – ours saves you maintenance costs.

SIMPLE OPERATION: "Push-pull" Power Units with ⅓ or ½ HP motor are located in a cage, have hardened steel gears for trouble-free operation.

FiatGeotech is based in Italy and has plants in Italy, Brazil, France, and the United States. FiatGeotech has more than 13,000 employees and relies upon 2,300 dealers worldwide. Its revenues in 1989 reached $2.3 billion.

Ford New Holland is headquartered in New Holland, Pennsylvania, and employs nearly 18,000 people in plants and offices primarily in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Belgium, and Brazil. There are 3,700 Ford New Holland dealers worldwide. Revenues in 1989 were $2.8 billion.

Based on their 1989 results, FiatGeotech and Ford New Holland had sales of 95,000 agricultural tractors and an additional 30,000 tractors produced in joint ventures or under license. Sales of other agricultural and industrial products totalled more than 54,000 units.

Cesare Romiti, Fiat's president and chief executive officer, said, "Our primary objective, in creating this new company, is to profit from the existing strengths of the two subsidiaries. We recognize that these two organizations, when combined, will complement each other remarkably well with a truly global presence in virtually every world market. This agreement, once again, demonstrates Fiat's longstanding tradition of internationality."

Ford Motor Company's president and chief operating officer, Philip E. Benton, Jr., said, "It is clear to us that Fiat considers agricultural and industrial equipment to be an integral part of its core business strategy and stands ready to support the new company in the continued development of best-in-class products of the highest quality.

Lancaster's Chet Hughes Promoted

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Chester D. Hughes of the Lancaster Cooperative Extension staff of The Penn State University has been promoted from the rank of associate extension agent to extension agent, according to Jay W. Irwin, county extension director. The promotion became effective when the trustees approved the budget.

Hughes came to Lancaster in April 1982 and is responsible for the total livestock programs for both the adult and the 4-H youth. He has served as an important liaison between the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry and the county pork producers in gaining approval of vaccine use in the pseudorabies problem. Hughes was directly involved in the organization of the Lancaster County Sheep and Wool Growers Association and annually conducts shearing schools that have trained 65 shepherds from ten different counties.

In the 4-H Livestock Program, Hughes' work has produced nine state winning livestock and meats judging teams. He has won national honors in the National Association of County Agricultural Agents Public Information Awards Program.

Hughes is a graduate of Penn State University where he earned his B.S. degree in animal industry. Chet, his wife Marie, daughter Allison, and son Andrew live in Rawlinsville.

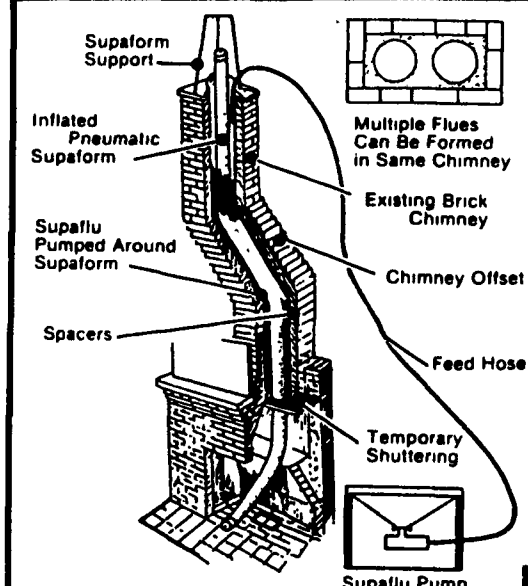
CHIMNEY PROBLEMS?



Supaflu Fights Hot Chimney Fires Before They Begin.

Creosote build-up, cracked chimney tiles, decaying mortar and hog trapped gasses. This is the way dangerous and damaging chimney fires start. A trained Supaflu chimney professional can spot these hazards in a hurry and take care of them almost as fast. A fast cast-in-place Supaflu installation makes your chimney better than new, safer than new. A smooth, strong Supaflu lined chimney fights creosote build-up and eliminates hot trapped gases, dramatically reducing chimney fire dangers.

Auctioneers Attend National Convention

BALTIMORE, MD — C. Sherman Allen and Rich Burrows from the Firm of C. Sherman Allen, Auctioneer and Associates of Conneaut Lake, PA was among auctioneers throughout the United States and Canada who attended the 1990 National Auctioneers Association (NAA) Convention.

The Convention, which had its theme, "The Wave Of The Future," was held July 10-14 in Baltimore, Maryland.

Workshop subjects at this years convention included the various aspects of conducting real estate, personal property, commercial/heavy equipment and agri-business auctions. The increasing ecomplexity of today's business world makes education programs like these indispensible.

There was also a workshop for auction personnel, and a seminar that included a presentation from Penny Larson, representing The Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC).

The 1990 International Auctioneer Champion was selected at the convention, and three members were recognized for their contribution to the profession by their induction into the NAA Hall of Fame. Wayne Stewart, of Audubon, IA, was installed as the 1990-91 president of the 5,000 member organization.

The 1990 National Bid Calling contest was conducted at the National Convention with 46 contestants representing 29 States and Canada. C. Sherman Allen, Auctioneer from Conneaut Lake, was among the top 15 finalists. The 1990 International Champion Auctioneer was Neal Davis of Beebe, AR; First Runner Up was James G. Blocker, of Waterboro, SC, and Second runner up was Robert G. Frey of Archbold, OH.

The National Auctioneer Association is Headquartered in Overland Park, KS. The NAA and State Associations continue to improve the auction industry through professionalism, education and communications.

C. Sherman Allen and Rich Burrows are available in this area to meet your needs through the Auction Method of Marketing.

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. — Enos B. Heisey of the J. Omar Landis Auction Service in Ephrata, Pa. was among auctioneers from throughout the United States and Canada who attended the 1990 National Auctioneers Association (NAA) Convention.

The convention, with its theme "The Wave Of The Future," was held July 10-14 in Baltimore.

Workshop subjects at this year's convention included the various aspects of conducting real estate, personal property, commercial/heavy equipment, and agri-business auctions. The increasing complexity of today's business world makes education programs such as these indispensable.

There was also a workshop for auction support personnel. The Certified Auctioneers Institute, an NAA affiliate, held a seminar that included a presentation from Lamar C. Kelly, director of asset and real estate management for The Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC).

The 1990 international auctioneer champion was selected at the convention, and three members were recognized for their contribution to the profession by their induction into the NAA Hall of Fame. Wayne Stewart, CAI, of Audubon, Iowa, was installed as the 1990-91 president of the 5,000-member organization.

How KINZE designed the world's best Auger Wagon.

Youth Dairy Cattle Competitions Add New Class

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

SOUTH LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Except for Lancaster County's FFA and 4-H dairy competitions, trying to find a larger county-level dairy cattle competition than that offered at Lebanon Area Fair each year would be hard to do.

The quality of all breeds was high according to judges who officiate at more than a half dozen county competitions each year.

Holstein judge Creedin Cornman from Carlisle was judging the Lebanon Fair for the third time.

"They were all quality, super, a real good bunch of cattle that were well bred and well fitted," Cornman said. "You guys are going to do real good at the district 4-H show," he added.

Cornman, whose son Steve took over his own dairy farm in Carlisle two years ago, has been involved with dairy competitions since 1945. He showed at the state Farm Show when he was 10 years old.

"The quality (of Lebanon cattle) runs deep in every class. I gave four to five blue ribbons in some classes," Cornman said. He explained that outside of Lebanon and Lancaster counties, the normal maximum number of blue ribbons is three.

Two days of competitions in dairy included not only breed competitions, but showmanship and fitting as well.

The results of the competitions in 4-H showmanship saw Kynel Bomgardner, of Annville, take grand champion, Becky Hostetter reserve and Stephanie Wagner take third.

Garrett Mase, Lebanon, was named 4-H grand champion fitter and Timothy Vail was reserve. For her age class, Kristen Hoffer took a top showman and reserve fitter trophies.

Top FFA fitter was Kathy Mase.

In breed competitions, results were:

On the right, Garrett Mase holds his trophy for being the top 4-H fitting champion for his work on this Brown Swiss calf. Taking a reserve championship trophy is Timothy Vail who worked on Holstein calf. Standing with the two champs are judge Leslie Rhoades.

Top showman, or showwoman in this case, is Kynel Bomgardner, who is flanked on the left by judge Chris Wood and Lebanon County Dairy Princess Teresa Hill. Taking second place is Becky Hostetter and third, Stephanie Wagner.

Lebanon Area Fair Sees Changes

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

SOUTH LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — This year's Lebanon Area Fair saw a number of changes, some perhaps not so visible to visitors, but very important for participants.

The week-long fair, like a miniature state Farm Show, has been held for 33 years to highlight livestock, produce and household wares of the county. It is dominated with 4-H and FFA participation, but is open in most catagories to all county residents, whether they are farmers or not.

Some visually evident changes to the 1990 Lebanon Area Fair include relocating the amusements rides to allow for better parking, the addition of a pig racing display, a 2¼ -mile fair race and expanded 4-H and FFA competitions and automotive weight-pulling contest and monster truck events.

Not as evident, but perhaps more significant, are changes to youth livestock competitions.

Lebanon County Dairy Princess Teresa Hill stands with David Lentz who holds the heifer he groomed and the tool that helped him earn the very first dairy fit-out competition at the Lebanon Area Fair. A timed event for 4H and FFA during which a contestant must prepare his or her animal for showing, Lentz was judged to have done the best job from a field of about 15 entrants. Along with recognition, the title carries a $50 savings bond.

Also a first at the Lebanon Area Fair Kynel Bomgardner, right, holds her Holstein calf and takes first place for having the best bred and owned entry at the Lebanon Area Fair. The competition was started to encourage and reward county 4-H youth who, instead of buying top quality animals, breed for top quality. In addition to the animals, the competitors' 4-H project book is also judged. Standing behind Bombgardner is county Dairy Princess Teresa Hill. From the left are judge Creedin Cornman, from Carlisle, and runner-ups Jesse Bomgardner with a Holstein and Judy Mase with her Brown Swiss.

For the first time, fair officials through the aid of community sponorship for awards have offered a Best Bred and Owned contest for almost every type of animal catagory included.

Also, the dairy competition included a Fit-Out competition. It is a timed competition, participants groomed their animals as though preparing for a actual judging contest.

A wool promotion competition was added this year also. Called the Sheep lead line, the object of the contest is to "give spectators an opportunity to see the best of the sheep industry represented in an attractive manner," according to the 84-page fair premium book.

4-H and FFA members aged 8 to 21 are eligible and similar to a fashion show, model either 100 percent wool, or 70 percent wool blend clothes while walking with a yearling ewe.

The physical changes to location and schedule were done for public appeal and at suggestion of the public. Fair officials are very open to ideas for improvement, according to chairman Benjamin Bow. A suggestion box is located in the fair office.

Additions to the 4-H and FFA events are a result of a need to keep competition between children less influenced by parential affluence, and to promote interest in a more complete involvement with agricultural production.

The Fit-Out for the dairy is a natural turn of events, according to Kenneth Winebark, county extention agent and leader of the county livestock club.

According to Winebark, since sheep and beef competitors have been able to compete in blocking contests for years, it seemed only right to offer the same for dairy participants.

The difference in terminology, between "blocking" and "fitting," is merely a matter of semantics. Both words mean to prepare an animal for a show.

During the Fit-Out, participants bring an unprepared animal into the show ring and are given a specific amount of time in which to groom the animal. The first year winner for dairy was David Lentz who received a $50 savings bond.

As of Thursday, with prizes offered through Agway, the Best Bred and owned competitions saw Tony Ebling take a $50 savings bond for the best rabbit, Daryl Grumbine for pigs, John Harnish

Fair Contest For Sheep, Goats

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

SOUTH LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Compared to hogs and cows, dairy goats and sheep breeds contests saw limited participation at the Lebanon Area Fair this week.

The lack of numerous participants didn't mean a lack of quality in animals, however.

Sheep and goat judge Harold Harpster, Boalsburg, said the sheep and goats were all of good quality.

In the goats he took a fondness to a Nubian kid shown by Jennifer Ungemach, forgoing a larger Toggenburg milking doe which had slightly wide teat placement.

He said the kid was growthy.

In sheep competitions, Harpster was complimentary on both the sumpreme champion ewe and the supreme champion ram.

The ram was a Dorset, owned by Daryl Grumbine, Myerstown.

The ewe, a Suffolk owned by Benjamin Bow Jr. The Bow family has a herd of sheep, but they are bred for meat and wool Bow purchased the show quality Suffolk animal within the last year using money he saved over the years by competing in various sheep contests.

The results of the goat and sheep competitions were:

'Excellent Show' Of Steers

Kelly became grand champion in the 4-H market steers, open show market steers, and in the breeding class for her Angus and Simmental/Angus crosses. She was awarded reserve champion in the 4-H beef blocking contest and placed first in the medium weight classes for both the 4-H and open market steers. She was second in the 16-19 year division for the 4-H beef blocking contest.

What impressed the judge — Conrad Grove from Downingtown, an Angus breeder and director of the National Angus Association — was the overall condition the contestants placed the animals.

"They know what they're doing," said Grove. "They presented these animals in the best condition I'd like to see. I'm very impressed with these animals."

In the 4-H market steer division, all animals were bred and raised in Lebanon County. Estimates indicate about 70 percent of all steers in the Lebanon Fair were bred right in Lebanon County.

Grove was also impressed with the entries for the open market beef show.

"I think when you are looking at the ideal for the industry, you are looking for the steer at about the 1,100-1,250 (pound) weight, steers that are going to get into the choice grade," he said. The industry demands a minimum amount of weight in the lower and side sections of the animal and a high per-

The 4-H showmanship grand champion award was presented to Kelly Bachman, Annville, for this Simmental/Angus cross. The steer was bred by Elmer Stehman and purchased by Kelly during the Dutch Country calf sale last October.

Short Supplies, Increased Demand To Push Milk Prices

LOUSIVILLE, KY — Critically short milk supplies due to extreme heat, humidity and drought conditions, coupled with a strong demand for milk and other dairy products, will result in higher milk prices for Southeast dairy processors and consumers alike in August and later this fall.

Suffering from below-normal rainfall and a heat wave which pushed temperatures up to 100 degrees or more in some parts of the region in May and June, dairy herds in the Southeast have been experiencing extreme heat stress. In such adverse temperature, dairy cows eat less forage and produce less milk. For the second quarter of 1990, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported that milk production in the region declined 0.06 percent. During the first four months of 1990, however, demand for milk in the region increased 2.54 percent compared to the same period in 1989, according to the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board in Arlington, Va. As a result, milk production is not keeping up with increasing consumer demand, making supplies extremely short.

In addition to the extreme heat and humidity, the increasing exodus of farmers from the dairy business due to the low prices they have received for their milk, and the high prices paid for cull dairy cows sold for beef also have contributed to the region's tight milk supplies. With less local milk production and increased sales, dairy industry analysts believe that the Southeast could be in the same situation it was last year when millions of pounds of costly supplemental milk were transported into the region from outside sources to meet customer demand.

Another important factor impacting southeastern milk prices is the Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) Series price. The M-W Series price is used in most areas of the U.S. to determine the price of fluid milk. Over the past three months, the M-W Series price has increased by $1.26 per hundredweight or approximately 11 cents per gallon and it is expected to continue to climb significantly through the remainder of 1990.

The increase in the M-W Series price, coupled with tightening milk supplies and the increased demand for milk in the Southeast, will be reflected in higher prices to dairy processors and consumers alike next month.

Dairymen, Inc., is one of several farmer-owned, milk marketing cooperatives in the Southeast which supplies raw milk to customers in the region. The cooperative is owned by 5,000 member dairy farmers located in 17 Southeast, Mid-Atlantic and Midwest states. The cooperative is headquartered in Louisville, Ky.

Fall Holstein Championship

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)— The Pennsylvania Fall Championship Show will be held on Friday, September 7, 1990, at the Penn State Ag Arena.

This year's judge, Richard Keene of Gilbertsville, N.Y., will start the show at 9:30 a.m.

Along with selecting the winners of each class, Keene will also be choosing the winner of the 1990 Keystone Three-Year-Old Futurity. This year's Futurity Champion will receive over $750 in prize money.

The Junior Holstein Members will receive recognition separate from the adults. Each class will have ribbons for both junior and the open show placings. There will also be champions selected from the junior exhibitors.

To participate in the 1990 Pennsylvania Holstein Fall Championship Show, send entries before August 27 to: Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801.

Wheat Seed May Be Limited For Pa.

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Supplies of wheat seed grown in Pennsylvania are expected to be limited this fall, said Fred Lepley, vice president of sales and marketing at Hoffman Seeds, Inc.

The apparent shortage has resulted from the excessive and continuous rains that fell during the week of July 9.

"The rains prevented local seed producers from harvesting their wheat crops on time," said Lepley. "As a result, seed germinated on the stalks in the field, making it useless for fall seed."

Hoffman Seeds was able to harvest only 10 percent of its available crop for seed. Lepley anticipates getting additional seed from the Midwest, which carries a good reputation for quality wheat seed.

The shortage will have several repercussions on Keystone state farmers.

"Farmers should not go to their bins for seed this fall," said Lepley. "Because the seed has already germinated in the field, it will not germinate again."

Beyond that, Lepley recommends farmers order their favorite varieties early this year to make sure adequate quantities are available.

He also recommends farmers pay particular attention to germination tags to ensure the seed they are purchasing has 90 percent or better germination.

Changes

for beef, and Jennifer Ungemach for goats.

Best bred and owned dairy cattle received more and higher prizes. The top three owners of the best bred and owned dairy cattle each received $100 savings bonds. And this year's best of those three, a calf owned by Kynel Bomgardner, earned an additional $100 savings bond.

There were no entries for horses, although the competition remains open to youth interested in doing their own breeding.

The reason for such a competition is several fold, according to Kenneth Winebark, county agent and head of the county livestock club.

"It was added to encourage our youth to expand into a breeding project," Winebark said. "It broadens their base and teaches them more about breed and a vast array of things involved in the whole industry such as how markets dictate changes in breed characteristics, the role and nature of genetic transmission, and also better management."

"And perhaps above all," Winebark said, "it provides an opportunity for parity among all youth, because the influence of parents' financial status is minimized."

He said that the reason the competition was able to be offered this year was because "We didn't have any financial support in the past. Agway came through.

"We talked about what we could do to strengthen the whole 4-H program and this is an area that would strengthen the whole program," Winebark said.

1990 BARN PAINTING Latest Developments

1. PREPARATION - High volume water blasting at 1,000 lb. pressure re-surfaces barn siding into a smooth (like new) appearance!
   a. Performed by professionals quickly at reasonable cost.
   b. By yourself with your own or rented equipment.
   c. Or other more conventional methods.
2. APPLICATION - To insure better adherence to this super prepared surface, use the best fine bristle brush in four directions to evenly distribute the recommended mil thickness of seal coat coverage.
3. SPECIALIZATION - Every barn is different but generally it's best to use a high quality mildew resistant product, specially formulated to meet the requirements of this partially weathered wood that was and will be weather stressed.
4. WARNING - The modified oil latex is less effective as a wood preserver and actually increases nail & metal deterioration. Deal with home people. At their rates, I could double mine.

"OUR BETTER CROPS AND BETTER PRICES AT LESS COST"

PROGRAM IS WORKING OUT BEAUTIFULLY. FARMERS ARE HAPPY.

One planted about 20 acres white soybeans for our non toxic $12 market for human consumption. He said on the phone they are clean of weeds with no herbicides and they grew fast. A lot of farmers have been on easy street even before this, using our soil minerals, soil bacteria and soil conditioners. Then they were weaned. The authorities named it right — "low input farming." This kind of crops make much better livestock feed according to overwhelming reports. A customer farms 4 farms on our program without chemicals. He said he bought a new 4 bottom plow J.D. tractor with the money he saves on chemicals, drugs and vet bills! He said he counted 44 earthworms in a shovel of soil as big as a man's head. He has trillions of free subsoilers and fertilizer factories! There would be much more to say.

NON-TOXIC SPELTZ WANTED for local, U.S. and overseas in hugh quantities, at $.10 per lb. yields more grain and straw than oats and wheat, and is better food and feed. It is becoming popular because our nutri-carb fertilizer brings out its great potential yields and feed value. Sow in Sept. or very early Oct. We can give you the 800 number of the company that wants it desperately to fill their orders.

SO YOU WEREN'T ABLE TO JOIN THE 87 DAIRY FARMERS ON OUR RECENT BIG VALLEY DAIRY TOUR?

HERE'S A SAMPLE OF WHAT YOU MISSED AT THE FOUR FARMS (EACH HERD AVERAGING OVER 60 LBS. MILK!):

"One-year delay of the first payment on my Harvestore structure fit into my program nicely."

"DHIA income over feed costs in the area of $1,900 per cow."

"Excellent dry matter intake of Harvestore haylage even in this heat."

"Cows have a better appetite over the hot summer months."

"I spend only 4½% of my monthly milk check on purchased supplements"

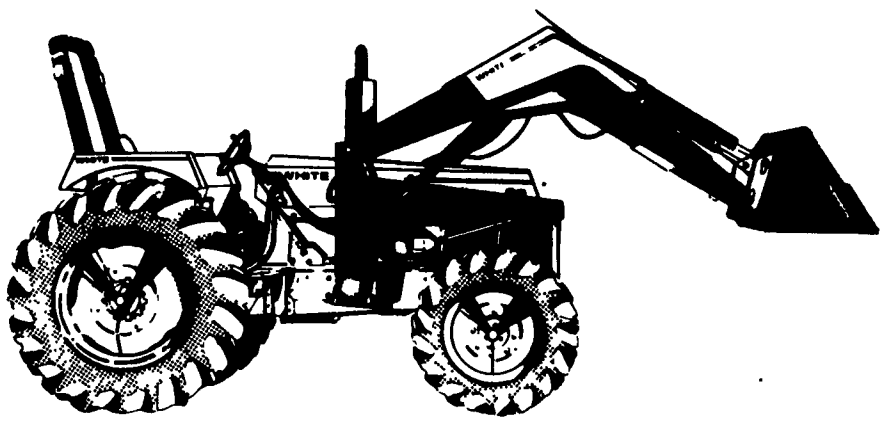
WHITE FRONT END LOADERS



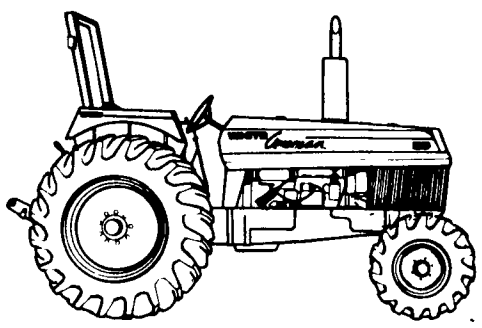
White Loaders Are Convenient, Easy To Use And Even Make Your Chores Fun.

The White 1170 and 1185 front end loaders are sized to perform those tough everyday jobs. Whether its loading, hauling or digging, the 1170 and 1185 loaders are a pleasure to operate. Plus you can store these loaders anywhere at any time with quick attach mounting and an integral storage stand.

For a real workhorse combination, team up a White 60 or 80 with an 1170. Or choose an 1185 loader with your White 100, 120, 140 or 160. Both offer hydraulic self leveling that keeps the bucket level all the way up.

Less worry and hassle. White loaders can make your work a lot easier.

ALL-PURPOSE AND FIT FOR THE FIELD.



The All-New American Series from White Farm Equipment

Dependable and rugged, White's all-new American Series has power for the field. Powered by a Cummins 4-cylinder engine, both 60 and 80 hp models really get you through the field...at an operating cost that leaves more for your bottom line.

And the American Series is available in your choice of four historic colors: Oliver Green, Minneapolis-Moline Gold, Cockshutt Red and White Farm Silver.

We've equipped the American Series with standard features that give you the best of the "utility" and "row crop" worlds.
- Cast iron main frame
- 6-speed transmission
- Adjustable 3-point hitch

And you can choose from options that give you even more big tractor performance.
- Posi-trac full power front axle
- Electronic 3-speed power shift
- 2nd and 3rd remote detent valves

COVER MORE ACRES ON LESS FUEL

New Cummins Engine is turbocharged and aftercooled and puts every ounce of its mass to work converting fuel to horsepower.

Fuel economy and high torque are combined in the White 140. So when the going gets tough and rpm drop, the White 140 lugs ahead with a productive 26% torque rise.

Combine the fuel economy with the other new features of the White 140 and you have a 137 PTO HP tractor that can do the job for you.

Miniature Horse Farm Operated By Dairy Princess

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW TRIPOLI (Berks Co.) — When Suzann Moyer was 7 years old, she got her first horse. Her uncle, who is a jockey, taught her to ride. Since then, her dream was to board horses as a business. Last year, the 16-year-old discarded that dream when she visited a miniature horse farm.

"I want to breed and show miniature horses," she said. "They are so lovable and adorable."

Unlike full-sized horses, miniature horses have more of the temperament of a dog, are lovable and become emotionally attached to their owners. They weigh between 150 to 200 pounds.

According to Suzann, miniature horses were bred down to their small stature during the 16th century. In the 1800s, they were used in West Virginia and in Kentucky coal mines.

To receive registry, a full-grown horse must measure 34 inches or less in height. Colts are given temporary papers until they are 5 years old, at which time they are measured and if 34 inches or under receive permanent registry papers.

The horses feet need more care than the average horse since they are too small to be shoed. The tails usually drag on the ground unless trimmed and the mane grows the same size as a regular horse's mane.

Costs vary according to quality, but the horses average between $2,000 and $10,000. The same conformation — correct legs, ears on top of the head, eyes nicely set, slim neck, straight top line, and a dish above the nose — that is desired in a regular horse is desired in the miniature ones. Breeds include Arabian, Appaloosa, and Palmino.

"The smaller, the more valuable the horses are. I heard of a stallion that sold for $150,000," she said.

Generally stallions are smaller than mares so that the mare can foal easily.

Suzann lives on the rambling 864-acre dairy of distinction farm, best known as Junge Farms, New Tripoli. Robert Junge, who owns the operation farmed by Suzann's parents, Ray and Karen, offered to help Suzann get started in the miniature horse business. They viewed a video from a large Texas farm that showed miniature horses. Suzann picked out 15 that she liked. On the day of sale, Junge had a direct line to sale and gave bids over the phone. Three were shipped to the Junge farm in May 1989.

The horses were kept in calf pens until September. Then a pole building with stalls was constructed on a nearby farm that Suzann christened Mini-Meadows Farm. It now has stalls for 10, a washer room, and tack room. The building is big enough to add 10 more stalls for the expansion Suzann hopes for in the future.

Suzann has four registered Arabian bred miniature horses in black, white, and brown shades. She prefers black.

A healthy colt was born in December, but died three days later. "He looked great and acted fine, but there was a total change in weather — really damp."

An autopsy revealed a bladder blockage. Suzann believes that colts are generally born healthy, although delicate like a newborn baby.

She plans to add more soon. In the meantime, she is doing a lot of research by attending clinics and horseshows.

Suzann spends a lot of time brushing the horses. Recently she bought a cart to teach the horses to pull. Although adults can not ride them, the horses are strong enough to pull adults on a cart. Small saddles are available for children to use while riding.

To prepare the horses for shows, Suzann will teach them to jump and pull carts. There are many categories in which to enter the horses at shows such as pleasure classes.

Each day, she feeds the small horses half a block of hay, two small cups of sweet feed, and gives them a bucket of water. The horses are vaccinated, dewormed, and given the same shots as a big horse.

"It's a trend to have a miniature horse for a pet," she said, "and that has made it a profitable business. If you have the right genetics and type, you have a good market for the horses."

Named the Berks County Dairy Princess, Suzann takes her promotion job seriously. A month after she assumed the duties, she had logged 1,100 miles. When she attended the three-day dairy princess seminar, she became homesick for milking cows.

She also jogs, attends aerobic and karate classes, skis and rides horse.

Unlike many of her peers, Suzann is home schooled. She likes it, "Because if I understand the concept in the subjects I'm studying, I can fly through the textbook," she said. She hopes to finish 12th grade by December.

After graduation, she will work fulltime on the farm and expand her miniature-horse business.

The miniature horses are used mostly for showing and pulling carts, but children the size of Michael can ride the small horses. Suzann assists him, but she hopes to get a saddle for the miniature horse.

Berks County Dairy Princess Suzann Moyer poses with her two favorite miniature horses, stallion on left is I'm Terrific II, and on the right is Tiny Bubbles.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Kabobs grill perfectly when some ingredients are microwaved first.

Often when grilled (or broiling) food on a stick, quicker-cooking vegetables end up charred before all the other foods — usually meat and firm vegetables - are done.

The solution is to microwave the longer-cooking foods before threading them on skewers along with more-tender uncooked foods. Then you'll find every food on the stick cooks to the perfect doneness and is finished in about half the normal grilling time.

Today's recipes give you two supereasy kabob recipes where this technique is used. Sausage and Vegetable Kabobs call for precooking fresh sausage in water for a few minutes until sausages are done. Then the onion and green pepper pieces are added to soften them slightly during a few minutes of standing time. Cut the sausages into fourths first for the quickest cooking. Use a plastic-wrap cover or a tight lid to hold in steam.

In Vegetable Kabobs the potatoes are precooked in water until slightly tender. For extra flavor, add your favorite herb during cooking. The onions and green pepper pieces are softened slightly by microwaving very briefly. Thread the well-drained vegetables alternately with uncooked mushrooms. Toward end of grilling, add a cherry tomato to each skewer tip.

Sausage and Vegetable Kabobs go well with a rice side-dish, cabbage salad and French bread. Vegetable Kabobs are a perfect accompaniment to grilled poultry or meat. Start grilling the poultry or meat outside while precooking the potatoes and onion slices in your microwave. Thread the vegetables on skewers and place them on the grill five to 10 minutes before your entree is cooked. Everything will be done — juicy and perfect — when you're ready for dinner.

Sausage and Vegetable Kabobs

1 pound (4-5) Italian sausages or fresh bratwurst
½ cup water
1 medium green pepper, cut into 1-inch squares
1 small onion, cut into 8 wedges
1 can (8 ounces) pineapple chunks, drained

Prepare grill so it's ready for cooking in about 10 minutes.

Cut each sausage in fourths. Place sausages and water in a microwavable 2-quart casserole; cover with lid or plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 3½ to 4½ minutes, stirring once, or until sausages are no longer pink. Working quickly, stir in green pepper and onion pieces; re-cover and let stand 5 minutes. Drain sausages and vegetables. Separate onion wedges into pieces. Thread vegetables, sausage and pineapple on 4 or 8 wooden or metal skewers. Grill over medium heat, turning occasionally and brushing with barbecue sauce, until sausages are browned (about 6 to 8 minutes per side). Makes 4 servings.

Vegetable Kabobs

1¼ pounds new red potatoes (6-8 small potatoes)
½ cup water
½ teaspoon dried rosemary or thyme
1 medium onion
1 medium green pepper, cut into 1-inch squares
¼ cup water
16 medium mushrooms
½ cup olive or vegetable oil
2 teaspoons barbecue spice or salt-free seasoning
3 large cherry tomatoes

Prepare grill so it's ready for cooking in about 10 minutes.

Cut each small potato in half. (Cut medium-size potatoes in fourths.) Place potatoes, ½ cup water and rosemary in a microwavable 2-quart casserole; cover with lid or plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 6 to 8 minutes, stirring once, or until potatoes are almost tender. Drain in colander and let stand to cool slightly. Meanwhile, cut onion in half, crosswise; then cut each half lengthwise, into fourths. Separate the fourths into pieces. Place onions, green pepper pieces and ¼ cup water in same casserole; cover and microwave (High) 1 to 1½ minutes or until peppers just turn bright green. Thread potatoes, onions, green peppers and mushrooms alternately on 8 wooden or metal skewers; set aside. Stir together oil and barbecue spice in a heat-resistant dish. Grill kabobs over medium heat, turning occasionally and brushing with oil mixture, until vegetables are done and lightly browned (about 5 minutes per side). Add a cherry tomato to each skewer toward end of cooking. Makes 8 servings.

Variation: Use a favorite herb butter or a store-bought Italian salad dressing instead of oil and spice mixture.

Questions and answers -

Q. Is it possible to microwave regular popcorn? We grow our own popcorn, and I don't have good luck popping it in my microwave.

A. Yes, it is possible to microwave regular popcorn, but it should be done only in a special microwave popcorn popper. An ordinary microwave-safe plastic bowl or glass bowl should not be used because the plastic can melt or overheat or the glass can shatter (especially with added oil). A brown paper bag should not be used because it can catch on fire.

To help make your popcorn pop better, try restoring moisture to your popcorn, or keeping it in the freezer. To restore moisture, sprinkle about one tablespoon water over a pound of popcorn. Cover the popcorn tightly and shake several times for the next two to three days.

You might also try popping corn a little longer than the last time — but do not continue microwaving once popping has stopped. That will just burn the popcorn. However, no matter what kind of popcorn, microwave popper, or microwave oven is used, there usually are more unpopped kernels than when conventionally popped.

Q. Can you scald milk or cream in the microwave?

A. Yes. Place milk or cream in a microwave-safe measure about double the amount of milk or cream. (For example, put 1 cup of milk in a 2-cup measure). Microwave on High until very hot (tiny bubbles start to form around edges and a thin film starts to form on the milk's surface). Allow about 2 to 2½ minutes per 1 cup of milk or cream. If you have a probe, set it for 175 degrees.

Questions for Joyce?

Do you have a question about microwave cooking? Send it to Microwave Minutes, c/o Extra Newspaper Features, P.O. Box 6118, Rochester, MN 55903. Please include a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope.

Recipes in this column are tested in 600- and 650-watt microwave ovens. With an oven of different wattage output, timings may need slight adjustment.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

They're everywhere, they're everywhere!

Spiders.

Entry to our Sunday School classroom Sunday morning brought immediate immersion into a discussion on these eight-legged critters. What spun this web of debate among our third and fourth graders was the new movie titled "Arachnophobia." This particular phobia, logically, being a fear of spiders.

Now, really. As if there aren't enough genuine things to fear and be frustrated by in this world without paying to be terrified by something as harmless as a poor, innocent spider, blown beyond life-size on wide screen.

But then, I've never been afraid of spiders. How could you be terrorized by something you've lived with all your life and that has never done you a moment of harm? Frustrating, maybe. But terrifying? No way.

Not so for lots of other folks. One example of arachnophobia remains as clear in my mind as if it had happened yesterday, not twenty-plus years ago. A group of us were eating in a local restaurant, when one of the young women in our party suddenly froze, just absolutely froze, in her chair. It was a couple of minutes before we could even wring from her the reason.

Merrily crawling its way up the wall opposite our table was a small spider. And just seeing it there so frightened her that she literally could not move.

A dear friend in on the pre-Sunday School discussion notes that she and her sister have established a household spider ranking system. Small spiders might be "two tissue" ones, while a large, fat spider can go as high as a "four tissue" measure. The determining factor here is how many facial tissues it takes wadded together to safely whack and dispose of the unwary, and unwanted, web spinner.

Spiders co-exist with us here on the farm on literally every nook and cranny -- and we have lots of nooks and crannies galore. This summer, perhaps in honor of the opening of "their" movie, the spider population seems more abundant, and has arrived earlier, than usual.

While I'm perfectly willing to peacefully share some space with spiders, their home-building, food-snagging habits are what bug me. Spiders can string webbing from curtain to window, from hanging lights to picture frame, from knickknacks to cupboard shelves in less time than it takes to return the vacuum cleaner to the closet after sucking up a bagful of dusty spider condominiums.

And while spider webs may festoon your living quarters on a regular basis despite your cleaning efforts, they seem to light up in highly-noticeable neon the moment company stops by.

Still, spiders are far more welcome here than a host of other bugs with which we must contend. Like flies. I despise flies with a passion because they dirty-up everything they sit on for more than 15 seconds, spread diseases, lay eggs which hatch out into ugly, crawly maggots. I mean, have you ever been awakened at 3 a.m. by a spider buzzing in your ear?

Mosquitos rank right up there on the pest scale with flies. Likewise wasps or hornets. And just the sight of a tick gives me the itches all over. Spiders at least eat lots of harmful pests. What do mosquitos, ticks and wasps bite into?

Right. Us.

Big, green tomato hornworms are yucky. Thousand-leggers are disgusting. Colorado potato bugs do infinite crop damage, as do Japanese beetles, leaf hoppers, corn borers, alfalfa weevils and a whole host of moths which lay eggs that hatch into crawly things that make their livings inside fruits and veggies.

No, give me a couple of domestic spiders any day.

We are, however, short at least one spider in this household of many, one which met its demise in a rather bizarre manner. As the computer printer was spewing out paper a few days ago, I noticed a dark spot along the tear strip edge. First thought it was a flattened tick, until I looked closer and saw longer legs. One very dead spider had made an unplanned trip around the paper roll, flat out.

I've been wondering. Is that what you call a computer bug?

Exercise Your Options

NEW YORK, NY — Americans today are taking an unprecedented interest in the relationship between diet and health. But, like most complex issues, this relationship is not one dimensional.

"Diet can be very helpful in preventing or reversing arterial plaques, for instance, but diet is just part of the bigger picture," said Lisa Stollman, M.A., R.D., of the Francis Stern Nutrition Center at the New England Medical Center. "People tend to overlook the importance of other non-dietary factors and their influences on health."

In an interview for Dairy Council Inc., Stollman cited heredity as a major factor that cannot be dismissed. "We find that people often go one of two ways. Either they think that through diet alone they can overcome genetic predispositions for certain health problems or they completely ignore diet assuming there is nothing they can do, so why try," said Stollman.

According to Stollman, both views are rather extreme. "Although diet and heredity are major influences, there are ways to combine diet with other strategies to effectively combat high cholesterol and heart disease," she said.

Exercise is an excellent way to augment a healthy diet that includes all four food groups in controlling risks. "Not only is exercise beneficial in helping maintain proper body weight, which also impacts risk, but it also helps strengthen the heart muscle and lower cholesterol," said Stollman. "You don't have to train for the Olympics, but you do have to incorporate regular, vigorous exercise into your schedule several times a week. To make sure you stick with it, choose several different activities that you like and alternate so that you don't become bored."

The problem often is that people with high risk look at only one factor and make only one change to lower risk, she believes. "You have to approach controlling cholesterol and reducing the risk of heart disease from several angles and that requires changing more than one habit; it requires changing your attitudes," said Stollman.

"Keep in mind that controlling risk is affected by more than just diet. Exercise more, quit smoking, moderate alcohol consumption, treat high blood pressure if applicable, maintain an appropriate weight and eat a balanced diet from all four food groups (milk, meat, fruit/vegetables and grain)," said Stollman. "This is the most effective strategy for controlling risk."

Two Dairy Council Women Receive Awards

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Jan Stanton, executive director of Dairy Council, Inc. with headquarters in Southampton, was recently awarded the 1990 Business Associate Award from the New Directions Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association. Stanton was honored for her work in the nutrition education field and for her creative leadership of the Dairy Council during the past three years she has served as executive director.

In addition, Susan Snyder, administrative assistant of the Dairy Council was named one of the top ten businesswomen of 1990 by the New Directions Charter Chapter. Snyder has worked for twenty-four years at the Dairy Council, serving the organization on an administrative level as well as serving as assistant secretary for the Dairy Council's Board of Directors. She has held offices with the New Directions Chapter.

The American Business Women's Association has over 2,100 chapters throughout the United States with over 150,000 members. The goal of the organization is to support and recognize women in business. This recognition honors both the women and the organizations they serve.

OSWALT by J-STAR Model 180 and 230 TMR/HAY PROCESSORS

These Oswalt Mixers do a better job of mixing and carry the industry's only five-year mixer warranty!

Mix and process your rations and hay... the Oswalt way

Better design and more know-how have made Oswalt the leader in mixing.

Oswalt TMR/Hay Processors are clearly superior in their ability to mix all types of ration ingredients including dry hay. A reel type mixer, particularly when fully loaded retains a quantity of the dry hay in the center of the reel which then simply turns over with the reel and receives little mixing. Your hay just gets a free ride and your final mix is uneven at best. In an Oswalt TMR/Hay Processor, the hay is processed and evenly and aggressively mixed throughout the ration. It has no place to hide.

A key element of mixing dry hay into a ration is processing the hay while all ration ingredients are being mixed. That means tearing the hay apart and reducing fiber length during the mixing process.

In an Oswalt, the notched bottom auger working against the shear shelf does the primary job of tearing the hay slabs apart and reducing the length of long hay stems.

The aggressive square top augers (a patented Oswalt exclusive) grab the hay slabs and finish the processing job.

Pickles Your Family Will Relish

Cucumbers may be harvested at almost any stage of development before they begin turning yellow; however, gherkins should be about two inches and dills about five inches in length. Use odd-shaped and more mature cucumbers for relishes and bread-and-butter style pickles.

Use white vinegar when lightness of color is desired. Use cider vinegar for added flavor, aroma, and a darker color.

Use fresh whole spices. Ground or powdered spices darken pickles and relishes.

Use white sugar for light, clear color; brown sugar for darker, richer color.

Use the freshest produce you can obtain, otherwise the pickles will be hollow and shriveled.

Use pure granulated salt, not table salt. Look for the words pickling, flake, barrel or kosher on the salt label.

Do not use too many spices, and do not overboil the ones you do use, as either excess will give a strong, bitter taste.

Kettles and pots should be stainless steel or unchipped enamel. Spoons should be stainless steel, unchipped enamel or wooden. Do not use brass, copper, galvanized, iron or zinc utensils.

MUSTARD PICKLES

7 quarts small cucumbers
1 quart vinegar
3 quarts water
1 cup dry mustard
1 tablespoon alum
1 tablespoon saccharine
½ cup salt
⅓ box (1.25 ounces whole allspice)

Mix all ingredients except cucumbers and boil. Add cucumbers and leave in liquid a few minutes until color is altogether green. Jar cucumbers and add juice and seal.

Boyds, MD

ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE

3 cups zucchini, grated
1 grated onion
1 cup biscuit mix
½ cup vegetable oil
½ cup grated cheese
½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 eggs, beaten

Combine ingredients and bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

SWEET CHUNK PICKLES

10 medium cucumbers
8 cups sugar
2 tablespoons mixed pickling spice
4 cups vinegar
5 teaspoons coarse salt

Cover whole cucumbers with boiling water. Allow to stand 24 hours, drain. Repeat this procedure for the next three days for a total of four times. On the fifth day, drain; slice in ½ -inch pieces. Combine sugar, vinegar, salt and spices. Bring to a boil and pour over cucumbers. Let stand two days. On the third day, bring to a boil and seal in hot, sterilized jars. Use what cucumbers that are available and mix syrup to cover the sliced cucumbers.

DILL CROCK PICKLES

Boil:
3 quarts water
½ cup white vinegar
⅓ cup pickling salt

Put in large glass or crock:
cucumbers
12 cloves garlic
16 stalks dill
12 grape leaves

Pour boiling water mixture over cucumbers. Weigh down with clean stones or heavy dishes.

Let set at room temperature for three to seven days. Check periodically when crisp and pickles have changed color. Drain. Add 3 quarts water and white vinegar. Store in refrigerator until crisp. The longer they are stored, the better they get. Will keep for two years.

Colleen Ingalzo
Pine Grove

SWEET DILL PICKLES

4 cups sugar
4 cups vinegar
¼ cup coarse salt
1½ teaspoons tumeric
1½ teaspoons celery seed
1½ teaspoons mustard seed
Cucumbers
Onions
Dill heads

Combine sugar, vinegar, salt, turmeric, celery seed, and mustard seed; stir until sugar dissolves. Slice cucumbers and onions in a sterile gallon jar. Pack tightly as you dice the cucumbers; adding fresh dill heads or dill weed for every 2 or 3 inches of cucumbers. Fill jar with syrup. Cover with lid. Refrigerate for at least 5 days before using. Keep refrigerated until used.

Featured Recipe

When selecting sweet corn, look for fresh green husks. The ears should be filled to the tip with no gaps of missing rows, with kernels just firm enough to puncture easily under the slightest pressure.

For best results the ears should be served immediately or refrigerated until cooking to preserve the corn's sugar content that begins turning to starch within hours of being picked.

In addition to its fresh picked flavor, sweet corn is a good source of vitamins A and C, and a single ear contains only 90 calories.

Although sweet corn is must popular served on the cob, it can be served in casseroles, soups, and fritters.

CORN PUDDING

2½ cups corn kernels, cut from freshly picked corn, drained with liquid reserved
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
Corn liquid and enough light cream to make 1 cup, heated to a gentle simmer
¼ cup chopped, seeded green pepper
½ cup chopped, seeded red pepper
2 eggs, separated, yolks and whites beaten separately
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
¾ cup chopped ham, cooked bacon, turkey, or chicken

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Butter a 2-quart souffle dish or other deep baking dish. Spread chopped ham, cooked bacon, cooked turkey or chicken on the bottom of the dish. Melt butter or margarine in saucepan, stir in flour. Cook until roux forms (blended). Slowly whisk in heated corn liquid and cream. Whisk until sauce is smooth and hot. Stir in drained corn and the chopped peppers. Gently bring to a boil and reduce heat.

By the ladleful, add one cup of the corn mixture to beaten egg yolks, then return corn and egg yolk mixture to remainder in saucepan. Gently simmer and stir for several minutes until slightly thickened. Add salt and paprika.

Serves 5 to 6.

QUESTION — Verona from Virginia requests recipes for zucchini bread and diabetic recipes for vegetables, meat, fruit, and desserts.

ANSWER — Thank you to a Leetonia, Ohio, reader and to Tracy Marchini, Narvon, for sending recipes for baked beans that were requested.

Jenny Lou's Baked Beans

½ pound bacon ends
1 pound box light brown sugar
2 40-ounce cans northern beans
1 14-ounce bottle catsup

In a large dutch oven, brown chopped bacon ends until crisp. Add the remaining ingredients and bake at 400 degrees for 1 hour.

Hungry Jack Casserole

1 pound ground beef, browned
1 teaspoon salt
16 ounces pork and beans
¾ cup barbecue sauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 can Hungry Jack biscuits
1 can Cheddar cheese

Combine first six ingredients and cook until bubbly. Pour into 2-quart casserole dish. Cut biscuits in half to make 20 halves. Place cut-side down on ground beef mixture. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Preserve Pickles

CROCK PICKLES

12 to 18 medium cucumbers
Dill and garlic clove
Heat and cool:
1 cup vinegar
10 tablespoons salt
10 tablespoons sugar

Alternate a layer of cucumbers, dill, and garlic. Add vinegar mix. Store until cucumbers ferment. Eat or store cucumbers in refrigerator.

ANSWER — Ruth Rebert, Hanover, wanted a pizza dough recipe that had been printed last year in this column. Thanks to Ruth Stoltzfus for sending it.

Pizza Dough

1 tablespoon yeast dissolved in ¾ cup warm water
1 tablespoon oil
2 cups high gluten flour
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt

Combine flour, sugar, and salt. Add oil to yeast and water mixture. Combine with flour. Knead 5 to 10 minutes until smooth and satiny. Place in lightly greased bowl. Turn dough over so the surface doesn't dry out. Let rise 20 to 30 minutes. Pat dough into a 15-inch circle on a lightly greased and cornmeal- dusted pan. If the dough won't spread, let it rest 10 minutes. Bake at 500 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes.

ANSWER — Sheila Hamersky, Manahawbin, N.J., requested a recipe for butter cake that is wet and buttery. It is eaten plain or with cherry, strawberry or blueberry topping. Thanks to a Leetonia, Ohio, reader for sending a recipe.

Ooey-Gooey Butter Cake

½ cup butter
1 box yellow cake mix
1 egg
8 ounces cream cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
3½ cups confectioners' sugar

Mix first three ingredients and press into a greased 13x9-inch pan. Combine other ingredients reserving 2 tablespoons sugar for topping. Pour over cake mixture and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool. Sprinkle with remaining confectioners' sugar.

QUESTION — R. Stoltzfus, Narvon, would like a recipe for chess pie. Thanks to Tracy Marchini, Narvon, and to Anna Rodilosso, Berlin, N.J., who sent recipes.

Chess Pie

1 cup brown sugar
½ cup margarine
2 eggs, beaten
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup raisins
¾ cup chopped nuts

Cook raisins in water until plump. Drain, then mix with the other ingredients.

Pour into an unbaked pie shell and bake at 350 degrees or line miniature muffin pans with pie pastry. Fill with chess filling and bake in 350 degree oven until golden brown.

Chess Pie

½ cup butter
1½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
3 eggs
Pinch salt
¾ cup pecans, chopped

Melt butter; stir in sugar and vinegar. Bring to a boil. Beat eggs well; add butter and sugar mixture. Beat well. Stir in vanilla and salt. Pour into crust. Bake for 25 minutes at 325 degrees. Sprinkle with nuts and bake another 15 minutes or until golden brown and mixture is set. Cool completely. Serve with whipped cream.

ANSWER — D. Love requested chicken fried steak. Thanks to Kathleen Haak, Bainbridge, N.Y., for sending the following recipe.

Chicken Fried Steak

1½ pounds boneless round beef steak, ½ -inch thick
1 tablespoon water
1 egg
1 cup soda cracker crumbs, 28 squares
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup vegetable oil

Cut beef steak into 6 serving pieces. Pound each piece until ¼ -inch thick to tenderize. Beat water and egg; reserve. Mix cracker crumbs and pepper. Dip beef into egg mixture, then coat with cracker crumbs. Heat oil in 12-inch skillet. Brown beef in skillet, turning once, 6 to 7 minutes. Remove beef. Keep warm until ready to serve.

(Turn to Page B9)

THICKENED MUSTARD PICKLE

2 gallons cucumbers, sliced
½ cup salt
2 quarts onions, sliced
2 red sweet peppers
2 quarts vinegar
5 pounds sugar
4 teaspoons mustard seed
6 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons turmeric

Slice cucumbers in thin rings and sprinkle with salt. Let stand until morning and drain. Slice onions and chop peppers. Mix vegetables together. Combine sugar, spices, flour, and turmeric, add vinegar. Bring to a boil and cook until slightly thickened. Add mixed vegetables and bring to boiling point. Pack in jars and seal. Keep mixture boiling while you put in jars. Put lids on and seal.

3 cups chopped sweet green peppers
3 cups chopped sweet red peppers
1 cup chopped onion
¾ cup pickling salt
2 quarts water
1 quart ice
2 cups sugar
4 teaspoons mustard seed
4 teaspoons turmeric
4 teaspoons whole allspice
4 teaspoons whole cloves
1½ quarts white vinegar

Add salt, ice, cucumbers, peppers, and onions to water and let stand 4 hours. Drain and cover vegetables with fresh ice water for another hour. Drain again. Combine spices in a spice bag or cheesecloth bag. Add spices to sugar and vinegar. Heat to boiling and pour mixture over vegetables. Cover and refrigerate 24 hours. Heat mixture to boil and fill clean jars while hot, leaving ½ -inch headspace. Adjust lids and process for 10 minutes.

RED CINNAMON PICKLE RINGS

2 gallons cucumbers
2 cups pickling lime
8 quarts water
1 cup vinegar
2 tablespoons alum
1 bottle red food coloring

Peel and cut out centers. Soak overnight in above ingredients. Drain and rinse well. Put pickles in large kettle and water enough to cover. Simmer for 2 hours. Remove pickles. Combine the following:

2 cups vinegar
2 cups water
10 cups sugar
6 sticks cinnamon bark
1 package red candy hearts

Bring mixture to a boil and pour over rings. Let stand overnight. Drain and reheat syrup. Pour over pickles. Let stand for three days. On fourth day, pack rings in jar and pour boiling syrup over them. Seal.

Cook's Question

Vanilla Mousse

2 egg whites
½ cup powdered sugar
2 cups heavy cream or evaporated milk
¾ teaspoon vanilla

Whip the egg whites until stiff, gradually adding ¼ cup sugar. Whip the cream or evaporated milk until stiff with the remaining sugar. Stir the vanilla into the cream, and gently fold the two mixtures together. Pour into a chilled mold and freeze 3 hours before serving. Makes 1 quart.

ANSWER — Ann Miller, Alliance, Ohio, requested a recipe for peanut cookies. Thanks to Lillian Horning, Lebanon, and to Debbie Martin, Myerstown, for sending recipes.

Double Treat Cookies

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
6 ounces chocolate chips
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup peanut butter
1 cup chopped, salted peanuts
1 cup brown sugar

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Beat together shortening, sugar, eggs, vanilla, peanut butter, and brown sugar. Combine both mixtures. Stir in peanuts and chocolate chips. Shape into small balls. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 350 degrees for 18 minutes or until brown.

ANSWER — Christine Jefferson, Gettysburg, wanted a recipe for walnut ice cream topping to can. Thanks to D. Weaver, Ephrata, and to Joanne Fritz, Ickesburg, who sent recipes. One doesn't have directions for canning, but maybe you can adjust it.

Walnut Syrup

1 cup white corn syrup
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon maple flavoring
1¼ cups chopped walnuts

In a heavy saucepan, combine corn syrup, water, and maple flavoring. Add walnuts. Cover and simmer over low heat for 25 minutes. Cool and refrigerate.

Walnut Sauce

2 cups sugar
1 cup hot water
1½ cups walnut pieces
1 teaspoon vanilla

In heavy 10-inch skillet over medium-high heat, heat sugar, stirring constantly, until it begins to melt. Reduce heat to medium low, continue until sugar is browned. Carefully stir in hot water and continue stirring until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat (mixture will be very thin). Stir in walnuts and vanilla. Pour into jars; cover and store at room temperature. Serve on ice cream or cake. Makes 2¼ cups.

Make Food Dollars Count

We all want the most for our money, but it's especially important for people with limited resources. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service has published four brochures to help low-income families get maximum food value for minimum money. Called "Make Your Food Dollars Count," the brochure series is primarily for familes who receive food stamps, but the advice is sound for all. One brochure, for example, discusses ways to reduce sugar, salt, and fat in the diet. It includes sample menus and basic advice on reading food labels. Others look at the benefits of fruits, vegetables, and legumes. The brochures are available at no cost from the Food and Nutrition Service, USDA, 3101 Park Center Drive, Alexandria, Va. 22302.

Ice Cream Celebration Delights Kids

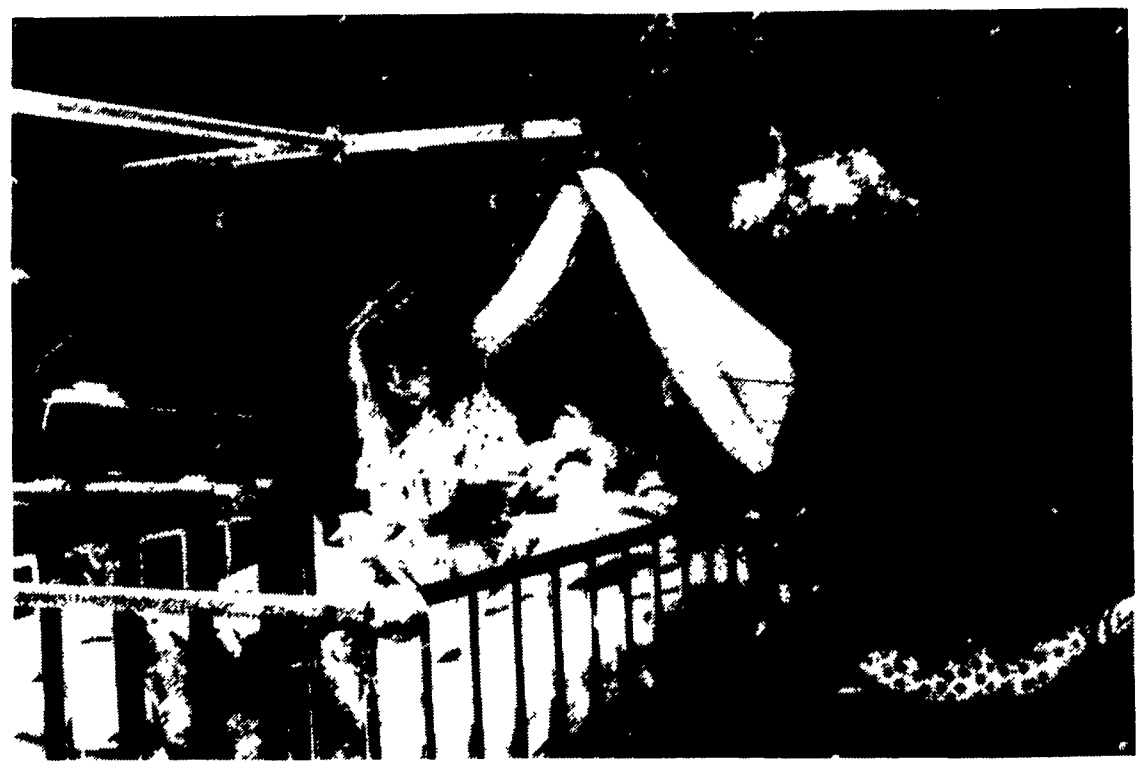
For a few brief hours, on Tuesday, July 17, the young patients of the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, forgot about their health concerns and enjoyed games and activities. The cause of the celebration was the annual Summer Love Sundae promotion. The patients were the guests of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and the Erie County Dairy Promotion Committee.

The patients and their families enjoyed ice cream sundaes and visiting with Mary Werner, state alternate dairy princess; Rebecca Cass, Erie County dairy princess; and Melissa Curtis, Erie County alternate dairy princess. The princesses posed for photos with each of the patients, and the patient got to keep the picture as a memento of the ice cream day festivities.

The lawn of the hospital was filled with laughter as clowns entertained the children. The festive atmosphere was enhanced by the balloons and decorations.

The patients cherished the cool treats, and the new found friends that they made that day. Despite being confined to hospital beds and wheelchairs, the young ice cream lovers' spirits were sky high with delight.

The Summer Love Sundae Tuesday promotion was conducted by the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program as part of its on going advertising and public relations campaigns.



The clowns paused from handed out balloons to watch Stephanie enjoy her ice cream sundae, her first in many months. Stephanie has been a patient at the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Erie for a long time.

Seated on the Capitol steps, these two boys were part of the 12,000 people who enjoyed ice cream sundaes during the ice cream promotion in Harrisburg. More than 600 gallons ice cream, 27 gallons Hershey's chocolate syrup, and 60 pounds of chopped peanuts were consumed.

An ice cream celebration was held at the New Day Camp for troubled youth at Laurel Hills State Park. The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program donated the ice cream sundaes and organized games and skits for kids.

Hi,

My name is Joseph Zeager. I am six years old and will be in first grade at Turbotville Elementary School. I like to help my dad and grandpa on the farm. I go for tools when the tractors break down, and I help grandma feed the calves. We have 50 cows, 10 chickens, and a lab dod named Blackie. I go to St. Andrews United Methodist Church, Milton, where I sing in the choir and belong to the Tiger Scouts. When I am not helping at the farm, I like to swim, fish, play baseball and football. Goodbye,

Stacy Guyton Named Maryland Dairy Princess

EVA MARTIN
Maryland Correspondent

FREDERICK, Md.— Five young ladies competed for the Maryland dairy princess crown on Wednesday night at the Holiday Inn, Frederick.

Contestants included the following:

Cynthia Rose Fell

Cynthia is a resident of Rising Sun, Md., and represents the Upper Shore District. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fell and a 15-year-old student at Rising Sun High School. Cynthia is a member of the National Honor Society, president of Students Against Drunk Driving and junior class secretary. She plays varsity basketball, softball, and field hockey. She works on the family farm and enjoys showing cattle at county, district, and state shows. Dairy judging, dairy bowl, public speaking and bicycling have been her 4-H projects.

Heather Frey

Heather is the 17-year-old daughter of Cletus and Janice Frey from Smithsburg, Md. She will represent Washington County in the contest. She graduated from Smithsburg High School and plans to attend Hagerstown Junior College majoring in accounting. Heather was a member of the basketball and track teams and has been a 4-H member since she was nine years old. Her Guernsey cows and heifers have won many ribbons at county, district and state shows. Her farm chores include helping with the milking and feeding the calves.

Stacey Guyton

Stacey graduated from Brunswick High School as valedictorian and plans to attend Virginia Tech this fall majoring in dairy science. She will represent Frederick County in the contest. Her parents are Wilmer and Joann Guyton from Jefferson, Md. Stacey has excelled to the National Dairy Judging Team and enjoyed a trip to International competition in Europe this summer. She holds the position of dairy herdsman on their family farm. Her 4-H projects include dairy and public speaking. She enjoys showing their Holstein and Guernsey cattle. She is listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students, secretary of National Honor Society, and student council treasurer.

Stacy Guyton of Frederick County was chosen. Jennifer Trout representing Baltimore-Harford counties was named runner-up. More details and pictures of the pageant will appear in next week's issue of Lancaster Farming.

Tanya Iager

Tanya, the 17-year-old daughter of Gene and Kathy Iager of Fulton, Md. will represent the South Central District. She has been involved in the 4-H dairy calf project for seven years, showing her Holstein animals at various shows. She enjoys dairy judging and also is a junior leader in their dairy goat club. For nine years she has owned and raised registered dairy goats. She is a substitute calf feeder and "gopher." In the summer, she spends hours mowing grass to keep everything looking neat and clean. She will graduate from Atholton High School where she participates in the marching and concert bands. Tanya has volunteered the past two years as a guide for the Howard County Special Olympics.

Jennifer Trout

Jennifer is the daughter of Stephen and Margaret Trout of Forest Hill, Md. She will graduate from North Harford High School in 1991 afterward she plans to study veterinary medicine. Jennifer is president of her 4-H dairy club, Future Professionals and Student Government Association; secretary-treasurer of Future Farmers of America and treasurer of National Honor Society. She enjoys field hockey, softball, varsity club, and serves on the yearbook staff.

Her farm chores include feeding calves, heifers and cows, milking cows, mowing hay and other general barn chores. She will represent Baltimore-Harford counties in the dairy princess contest.

SUN Crowns Shawn Hoffman

JUDY PATTON
Centre Co. Correspondent

SELINSGROVE (Snyder Co.) — Culminating Dairy Week at the Susquehanna Valley Mall in Selinsgrove was the June 23rd crowning of the new SUN Area Dairy Princess — Shawn Hoffman.

Raised on a dairy farm which has 150 Holsteins, Shawn does daily barn chores and shows cows in 4-H. She is a student at Middleburg High School in Snyder County, where she is in chorus, student council, and S.A.D.D. Her hobbies are playing the piano, volleyball, jogging, swimming, and bowling. She is the daughter of Sidney and Susan Hoffman.

Alternate Dairy Princess for 1990-91 is Kelly Jean Reich. She was also selected Miss Congeniality by the other princess candidates. Also from Snyder County, Kelly is a graduate of West Snyder High School. Her parents, Gerald and Linda Reich, have 80 Holsteins on the family dairy farm. Kelly plays trumpet, piano, and accordion, and she hopes to become a florist.

The other two contestants were Michelle Dugan of Montour County and Francine Martz of Northumberland County. Michelle is a student at Warrior Run High School and is very active in 4-H, in which she shows her three Jerseys. She is the daughter of George and Barbara Dugan.

Francine, who is a student at Line Mountain High School, plans to have a career in animal husbandry, focusing on genetics. She works part time on the family farm and is active in FFA and 4-H, in which she shows her Guernseys and Jerseys. She is the daughter of Bryon and Patricia Martz.

In the skit competition, Shawn used a cow hand puppet named Calcium to point out the virtues of consuming dairy products. Kelly used a cow made out of milk cartons, while Michelle talked about chocolate milk as she wore a brown cow costume. Francine was half-cow, half-little girl and carried on a conversation between the two halves.

The four contestants also competed in a fashion show, personal interviews with the judges, and answering an impromptu question. The judges this year were Jane Marhefka, a retired home economics extension agent from Mifflintown; Donald Cook, a dairy farmer from Drums and a member of the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Board; and Judy Patton, a correspondent for Lancaster Farming from Centre County.

The Dairy Princess Pageant was sponsored by Boscov's Department Store, where it was held, and supported by several contributors. Janet Reynolds was the pageant chairman for the SUN Area Dairy Promotion Board, which includes representatives from Snyder, Union, Northumberland, and Montour counties.

A 120-gallon ice cream sundae put together by Turkey Hill Dairy at the Susquehanna Valley Mall the night before the pageant was distributed to shoppers by the dairy princess candidates and 1989-90 Dairy Princess Jody Klinger. A petting zoo with dairy heifers, exhibits in the mall, and a huge cow in the parking lot also highlighted June dairy month.

The Dairy of Distinction Awards, which go to a committee's choice of the best looking dairy farms in the SUN area, were also given at the Dairy Princess Pageant. This year's awards went to: Richard and Betty Weller, Middleburg, Snyder County; ERKA Farms, Ernest Adam and family, Richfield, Snyder County; and Locust Row Farm, Richard, Anthony and Jackson Klinger, Winfield, Union County.

Lehigh Valley Farms Directory

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.)— A new farm market directory from Lehigh County Extension brings the best of the countryside to area residents this season. Fresh from Lehigh Valley Farms is a free listing of 167 area farmers with fruits, vegetables, plants, animal products and other local specialties for direct sale to consumers.

The listing includes the producer's name, address and phone, the products, when they're generally available, and a map showing general locations.

"Food shoppers will be impressed, even surprised, at the variety and quality of area-grown products," according to Jeff Patton, extension marketing agent in Allentown. Among the surprises besides taste, freshness, value and variety is a recently appreciated virtue of farm foods: minimal packaging. "There's hardly any waste when a product is handled once from the farm to the market, and again to the consumer's kitchen," observes Patton.

Consumers can get a free copy of Fresh from Lehigh Valley Farms by contacting the Lehigh County Extension Office on Dorney Park Road, phone number (215) 391-9840. Similar guides for farms in Berks, Bucks, and Montgomery counties are also available.

Laundering Techniques For Beginners

There has been a marked increase in the number of children with a single parent or working parents who have less time for household chores.

Consequently, even though statistics show that women are still doing the laundry, they often receive help. It is important that the whole family learn proper laundering techniques.

Begin by acquainting your family with the use and care guides for the washer and dryer. Then set the standards for doing the job and supervise their initial attempts. Show them the proper techniques for sorting clothes into loads, setting controls, and using soap or detergents and additives. The following tips may help.

Prepare clothes for washing by shaking off loose dirt, emptying pockets, closing fasteners, removing any unwashable items, and tying sashes and strings.

Check for spots and stains and keep a stain removal chart handy to serve as a reference for pretreating any heavily soiled items.

Sort the laundry according to color, fabric and garment construction, and its degree of soil.

Load the washer loosely since the clothes need to move freely through the water and extra room helps prevent wrinkles. Mixing items of different sizes results in better cleaning.

Select the proper water level, temperature and cycle and add your soap or detergent according to product label directions. The amount needed may vary with load size, degree of soil, hardness of the water and the water volume of the washer used.

When using additives such as bleach, detergent boosters or fabric softeners, carefully follow the instructions on the label to get the most product effectiveness.

Set the correct temperature and time for clothes that can go in the dryer, since overdrying causes them to shrink, wrinkle or cling to each other. When the cycle ends, remove immediately to prevent wrinkling.

Also teach your family to care for your appliances by cleaning the lint filters and cleaning up any spills for detergents or laundry aids. Initial time spent in introducing a novice to correct, safe and energy-efficient procedures will save time in the long run and help avoid possible damage to clothing.

Proper Use Of Hand Irons

An electric steam hand iron is a useful tool, but it must be used properly to maximize its efficiency and eliminate fabric damage.

The temperature of electric hand irons must be carefully controlled. Always use the setting recommended for the type of fiber being ironed. Fabrics requiring low temperature settings should be ironed first to avoid damage from an iron that is too hot.

If you are not sure of the fiber content start with a low heat setting and test the temperature of the iron on an area of the fabric that is not visible, such as a seam or facing. Gradually increase the heat setting until you locate the best setting for removing wrinkles without damaging the fabric.

Most hand irons have a smooth polished metal plate, which is excellent for giving cottons, linen and pure silk a hard press. Even the hardest of wrinkles can be removed by misting, then ironing the area dry. However, such a treatment may cause glazing, shining, or seam impressions on wools and man-made fibers.

To avoid glazing there are Teflon plated irons or Teflon shoes which can be slipped on the iron to help lower the heat and reduce the chances of fabric damage. These shoes are available in fabric stores. One advantage of the shoe is that it offers you both options. It can be used on a smooth plated iron for heat sensitive fibers and then slipped off to take advantage of the smooth polished plate for a hard press.

Always be sure your iron is turned off before plugging and unplugging it from the outlet. And, let the iron cool before putting it away.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 1

Berks Society of Farm Women Group 1 met at the home of Donna Haas, Douglassville, with an indoor doggie roast.

Sixteen members answered to roll call by answering the question: "What did you do on July 4th?"

Mrs. Esther Burndt, president, conducted the business meeting. The family picnic will be held on August 19, in Levengood's Grove, Douglassville, R.D. 2 at noon.

Next month's meeting will be held at the home of Dorothy Bock, Boyertown, August 8 and entertainment will be Bingo.

At Lebanon Area Fair

Contestants Promote Wool

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Tuesday was a lucky evening for Princess, a Dorset yearling. She claimed top placings in both the junior and senior division for the two young ladies who participated in the Lebanon Area Lead line.

Becky Klinefelter gave the sheep a smooch and said, "We won because you are so well-behaved."

And Princess was. Unlike several other sheep that stubbornly resisted being led, Princess stepped charmingly beside both Becky and Jamie Irwin as they paraded around the show ring during the two separate competitions.

It was the first time that the Lebanon Area Fair held a sheep lead line competition, which promotes the beauty and versatility of wool.

During the sheep lead line competition, eight contestants modeled wool clothing while leading a sheep on a halter. Both the sheep and the person who leads the sheep are judged for general appearance and conduct. The young women are also judged for their ability to handle the animal while walking around the show ring and on the originality and construction of their wool outfits.

According to Jamie, when Becky first heard about the competition, she did not want to enter because she had trouble leading her sheep. But her mother insisted so Jamie offered to share her docile Princess for the event.

In the junior division, 10-year-old Becky Klingfelter modeled a 100 percent black wool suit, a wide black brim hat with a red-plaid ribbon, red leather gloves, and black heels.

Becky owns three registered Dorsets, and is the daughter of Rich and Deb Klinefelter, Annville.

Other winners in the junior division included second-place Leah Bomberger who modeled a purple skirt and plaid vest. Melissa Moyer who modeled a 100 percent natural wool jumper took third place, and Nicki Shea with her Irish knee length shorts, white satin blouse, and Irish accessories placed fourth.

In the senior competition, Jamie Irwin sported a 100 percent wool Scandinavian patterned sweater, hat, and gloves with black wool leggings and leather boots trimmed with wool. Thirteen year-old Jamie has a registered Dorset, Corridale and two cross breeds on her Royal sheep Farm.

Krista Heffner struck a professional image with her wool blend business suit accented with a wool paisley scarf. Third place went to Amy Smith who wore a gray wool skirt, maroon sweater, and paisley printed scarf. Fourth went to Alice Smith who wore a gray wool skirt, red sweater, and wool red-plaid scarf.

Judges were Sarah Fleener, a purebred Hampshire breeder; Anne Staver, a 4-H leader for 25 years; and Tillie Spangler, who has a European fashion shop at 3rd and Cumberland Streets.

New Holland L-550 Series skid-steer loaders handle loads with greater efficiency. Model L-550 loaders are highly maneuverable, and can lift up to 1,700 pounds (SAE). Their longer wheelbase lends greater stability and the exclusive boom lift linkage lets you put the load right where you want it. A faster boom cycle time speeds up your loading and unloading jobs. High performance is a standard with New Holland loaders. Stop in and run one today.

Berks Farm Women Involved In Community Service

VAL VANTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

READING (Berks Co.) — Scenic River Days are definitely an urban affair. The Schuylkill River cuts between the cities of Reading and West Reading the metropolitan centers of Berks County. Ethnic food stands line the footpath beside the waterway. Musical groups cover the spectrum, country, folk, and rock. Scenic River Days would seem to be a city celebration of diversity. So how did the Berks County Farm Women set up their exhibit at the festival?

"It's a great opportunity to educate the public," explained county President Janet Schlegel. "We're more than sewing," she added.

Consumers pause at the pink and yellow display, trying to match crops with finished products. "They're having an awful hard time with this one," said Pearl Hoffman, a member of Farm Women Group #6. Picking up the bag of dark colored sorghum syrup, she explained that most folks thought it was maple syrup.

"If they read the information on the display, it's in there," Ellen Snyder added.

Afternoons are quiet at the festival so Janet took a few minutes to sit down by the river and talk about the Farm Women's organization while Pearl and Ellen watched over the contest.

"There are 12 groups and we have about 200 members in Berks Co. Groups meet in people's homes each month. Most are 20 to 25 members. The size is limited by the number that you can fit in a house for a meeting. Some groups are close to thirty," Schlegel said.

The numbers aren't the most impressive part of the Berks Farm Women. The organization's expanding role in the ag arena as well as their community service work belie the Farm Women's at-home image. Janet is one of many members working to change the concept that Farm Women is just pots and pans.

"We have to get beyond sewing to be a viable organization and achieve our purpose as an agricultural organization," she explained.

No one could accuse Janet of being a homebody. A farm wife, she has just recently become more involved in ag issues. After my daughter, Heidi graduated from school, I had more time to be active," she explained.

For the past three years Janet has represented the Farm Women on the agribusiness committee of the Berks County Chamber of Commerce. Janet is an active member of the public relations sub committee. There she helps with the planning for the annual Farm-City banquet.

She also co-chaired the extensive ag activities at the Scenic River Festival with Gary Fisher. "We need to speak out for ag. There are a lot of obstacles for agriculture today and we need to continue to educate the public if we are to survive."

Clyde Myers, Berks County extension agent, has been impressed by the contributions the Farm Women are making. "They are very creative and progressive in their efforts to educate the public. They are also offering a lot of leadership in these efforts.

The Farm Women's service record is exemplary. The Berks County organization is fifty years old and the groups' history extolls any number of ways that the Farm Women have improved the quality of life for others. Among the contributions was money for the Berks County 4-H building, dairy princess program, and scholarships for FFA'ers.

The Berks Heim, the county home for senior citizens, is among the most popular. "Mary Frizz, the immediate past county president is the treasurer of the Volunteer Service Board for the Berks Heim. This gives us a chance to get involved in lots of activities there. We recently sponsored a bus trip for the residents. They toured points of interest in the city, and, I understand, the residents loved it. Individual groups have adopted residents. They visit and help with meals.

"In June the Farm Women ran a hamburger truck for the Heim festival. Basically it's a party for the residents to come and enjoy."

Twice a year the Farm Women run a Bingo party at the Heim. "We bring the prizes, the angel food cake and the volunteers," Janet said.

In a time when volunteerism is at a low, Farm Women aren't short of helping hands. "We never have problems getting help. Sometimes it's just one woman from a group. Sometimes a group sends a car load. We always seem to get enough ladies to get involved."

Mary Fizz arrived to help man the booth. Her enthusiasm for the Heim and the Farm Women just shines. "When one of the residents sees you and wants to talk, it just makes my evening. They're so happy to see us. You never have to worry about getting bored because the Bingo parties are never the same thing twice."

The Farm Women also make donations to the Hamburg Center. "This year the county sent money for Easter baskets for the residents. Individual groups also make donations and some of the groups buy Christmas gifts," Janet explained.

Socially and educationally the Farm Women are also busy. Each year they have a two-day convention sponsored by a county group. "We'll be holding the Spring Fling next year at the Sheraton Berkshire. We expect close to 1,000 people to attend. Dotty Stricker is organizing the event and she is already busy," Janet explained.

"Conventions are wonderful. I like to call them my mini-vacations," Mary added.

The Farm Women are also sponsoring an excursion to Europe to see the Oberammergau, the Passion Play in September.

The one thing that Janet would like to see is more young women like Mary in the organization. "It's hard for young women to become involved. They have to take jobs and they need time with their families. I'm a member of the state membership committee and we're going to be meeting soon to discuss this state wide problem." According to Janet there are a number of items under consideration including possibly limiting the state convention to one day.

Yet when present young Farm Women discuss why they like the organization so much it's the old-fashioned values that they mention. "We share a lot at our meetings about our families and travels. We have educational programs on youth and safety. One of my younger friends, Sandy Manbeck was asked by her husband, why she kept going to these Farm Women meetings. She told him, 'I can't quit now they've taught me so much.' I think the older and younger ladies have a lot to share with each other," Janet explained.

Mary concurred. "My mom and aunt were charter members of group four so I guess I've been a Farm Women member for thirty years. You don't have to be a farm woman, but you do have to like getting involved."

Mary recruited her friend Sally Gillespy two years ago. Sally is a working woman who doesn't live on a farm but she does like Farm Women. "I really enjoy the company and getting together with the women. I'm also interested in farming issues."

Too many meetings may be tough on working women but Janet doesn't feel that has to be a deterrient to becoming a Farm Woman. Most groups now have hot lines. If you can't make a meeting you just call and catch up on the news."

The festival begins to get more active as the dinner hour approaches. Mary and Sally have taken over booth duties from the older members. Mary explains the contest to a father and daughter while Sally gets settled in for a busy evening. Janet takes off to help with an apple dumpling eating contest, another agricultural promotion event.

While it may not be exactly what the Berks County Charter members would have expected 50 years ago it holds true to the purpose of the Society of Farm Women; to contribute to the power and influence of farm women; to increase the influence of the farm home; to contribute to the community service of farm women; and to develop better living and working conditions in farm homes in Pa.

Janet Schlegel, Berks County president of the Society of Farm Women, reflects on the expanding vision of the organization.

Who Cares About Teen Moms?

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Adolescent parenthood has been called a "syndrome of failure." Early parenthood often results in a failure to stay in school, to control family size, to enter the work force, and to create a good home for offspring.

Parenthood is a demanding job for any person. For the teenager, it may be even more stressful and place the teen mom at risk for financial, social, and emotional depression.

Penn State Cooperative Extension in Dauphin County is sponsoring a volunteer program entitled "Mentor Mother" to help teen moms meet their personal needs and improve their parenting skills. The goal of the "Mentor Mother" program is to help the teenage parent feel better about herself and function more effectively as a person and mother. Volunteer moms provide the teens with a new outlook, skills, and ideas. The teen moms receive individual time and attention from their volunteer mentors.

Penn State Cooperative Extension is recruiting volunteer mothers who care enough to serve as role models for teen moms. A volunteer's commitment will be for one year with one Saturday morning training per month, plus time with the teen mother. For more information and an application call: Mentor Mother Program, Dauphin County Cooperative Extension, 1451 Peters Mountain Road, Dauphin, PA 17018 (717) 921-8803

A healthy diet is important for everyone, but it is essential for pregnant women, nursing mothers, and young children. For members of this group in low-income families, eating well can be difficult. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service has programs to help them. The WIC (Women, Infants and Children) program provides vouchers that can be redeemed at stores for foods to provide nutrients that may be lacking in their diets -- foods such as baby formula and cereal, milk, eggs, cheese, fruit or vegetable juice, dry beans and peas, and peanut butter.

Computer Camp Builds Confidence, Skills

MARY LAEGER-HAGEMEISTER
Dauphin Co. Correspondent

NEWVILLE (Cumberland Co.) — It started with a "Willow In The Wind" and ended with a pizza party. Fourteen youth, ranging in age from 12 to 16 years, recently completed a week-long 4-H computer camp at Big Spring Middle School, in Newville. In between were numerous activities and an opportunity to get to use computers and publish a newsletter.

A computer sales representative from Newville, Vic St. Vincent, contacted Anthony Betonte, Cumberland County 4-H agent, concerning the beginnings of a 4-H computer club. From that, one thing led to another. Anthony was able to secure a grant to purchase computer programs for use with 4-H'ers. The next obstacle was to attract the interested youth and available computers. This led Anthony to Mr. Gow, the principal at Big Spring Middle School, who offered support for the 4-H computer program to be held at the middle school during summer school. In this way, the computers would be available as well as space.

In addition to Gow's support, Anthony enlisted the support of Anne Fulker, counselor at the middle school, and Mary Laeger-Hagemeister, extension home economist with responsibilities in Dauphin and Cumberland counties. Another key player was Bob McClure who agreed to be the instructor for the computer portion of the camp. Pooling all of these resources, Anthony organized a week of "4-H Computer Camp" for the human computer as well as the technical computer.

The 14 youth who participated were recruited through the use of posters in the school and on the school buses, 4-H newsletters, and the local newspaper. Mrs. Fulker was very instrumental in accomplishing this important task since she knows the students more intimately than any one else on the planning committee.

Since the theme for the week was computers, the mastery of the technical computer was a key factor in the goals for the week. However, part of the goals were also to build the self-esteem of the individuals as well as their ability to learn to work as a team. Therefore, for half of the camp, Mary worked with them on a variety of self-esteem building activities and team strengthening activities. "It is important for the kids to feel good about themselves in order to achieve their goals so one of the goals for this week was to get the kids to be able to identify some of their strengths," said Mary. Anthony commented that "While knowing how to use computers can get them jobs, they also have to know how to work with others and try to solve problems. That's why I asked Mary to do team building activities with them."

By the end of the week the 4-H'ers had compiled a newsletter to share with their parents at "Show-off Night" consisting of articles each one had written. The newsletter also gave the group an opportunity to learn to work together. Groups were assigned various activities such as editing, artwork, and making certificates of completion, all means of helping to build a team and individuals within the team.

Completing a week of hard work and creativity the group journeyed to the Electronic Data System in Camp Hill to see first hand a large computer system at work. It was a real highlight for everyone. Probably the favorite part of the day for the kids though was the pizza party following the tour.

When asked what the future plans are for this particular 4-H project, Betonte explains that he is planning to meet with the School Age Child Care (SACC) program and the teachers at the school to see how it can be implemented during the school year. One thought is to target younger children and let those who completed this summer session be peer teachers.

"Fit Kids" class taught the participants the importance of taking care of the human computer.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The day we planned for months finally arrived and so did our driver from the limousine service -- right at our front porch. He drove us to J.F. Kennedy Airport in New York where we met eight others who were going to tour Denmark, Sweden and Norway. The limousine service was more economical and much more convenient than flying. There was a total of 44 people from California, Texas, New Mexico, Oregon and 11 other states in our group.

We felt as though we arrived at Manchester, England, at midnight but actually it was 6 a.m. their time. A smaller plane flew us to Copenhagen, Denmark, where we met 42 of our fellow tour members. Our hotel was remodeled from a 1700's warehouse and had massive oak supports and huge brick arches in the hallways.

As it was a sunny, pleasant day we set out to see the town. One block, with outdoor pubs, was closed to traffic and pedestrians walked everywhere. We took a boat ride on the canal and into the harbor going under 12 bridges. The next morning we had breakfast with a Japanese tour guide.

One of our group had an unfortunate incident as her pocketbook was stolen and she had to get a new passport at the American Embassy and also cancel all of her traveler's checks. Later her purse was found in a trash can minus the cash.

The country of Denmark is made up of 488 islands but only 97 are inhabited. Copenhagen has 250 parks but only five million people. They export two-thirds of their butter, cheese, and ham. Their taxes are very high but then their education through the university is free as is their health care.

Our elaborately furnished bus with telephone, kitchen, televisions, air-conditioning and toilet took us to see the Little Mermaid in the harbor. We also saw the changing of the guard at Queen Margarthea's palace. In every city we were given ample time to shop for gifts and souvenirs. Our lunch was a sandwich made with three slices of bread which we ate in a park. This was topped off with an ice cream cone that had a blob of strawberry marshmallow on top.

We changed our money for kroners at the bank and then visited the 1585 Kronborg Castle out in the country. It was surrounded by a moat and it had an enormous ballroom and big tapestries on the walls. In the evening we visited Tivoli Gardens, an amusement park with restaurants. Everything is very expensive here as one dollar of our money equals only 60 cents of theirs.

READING (Berks Co.) — The Historical Society of Berks Co. is trying to find the names and locations of the Lancaster County craftsmen who carved these birds and rooster.

The birds were probably carved in southern Lancaster County and the rooster in the area of Reinholds. John Rohrer, from Rothsville, carved horse-drawn farm implements, circa 1910, and Peter Brubaker, a shoemaker, from northern Lancaster County, carved horses for his grandchildren.

If you have examples or information, contact Anne Goda, curator, Historical Society of Berks Co., 940 Centre Ave., Reading, PA 19601, (215) 375-4375.

Yeutter Outlines Farm Bill To Farm Women

WASHINGTON, DC — As Members of Congress continue to debate the 1990 Farm Bill, they should "learn from history" and avoid the temptation to increase loan rates, emphasized Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter. Speaking at the annual Farm Women's Leadership Forum, Yeutter said we're hearing the same arguments now that we heard in the early 1980s. "Congress approved higher loan rates to provide an additional safety net and make us feel better," explained Yeutter. "As a result, we priced ourselves out of the world market."

Yeutter urged the 140 farm women attending this Forum from June 7-9 to help "sustain the momentum" from the 1985 Farm bill and build new market opportunities. "Too many people believe farm subsidies are synonymous with farm income. But I think many farmers prefer to get most of their income from the marketplace."

The Forum is held each year in Washington D.C. to help farm women become better informed on key agricultural issues ranging from the 1990 Farm Bill to animal welfare issues to food safety concerns. It's the only national meeting that encourages farm women from different states and farm organizations to learn and work together on common concerns.

Other speakers at this year's Forum included Rep. Vin Weber (R-MN), Rep. Jim Jontz (D-IN), Deputy Under Secretary for International Affairs and Commodity Programs Ann Veneman, and Australian Wheat Board Vice President Dennis Wise. In addition, several workshops focused on how to deal with upcoming agricultural challenges such as "How to deal with food safety scares" and a panel discussion on "Emerging Issues in the 1990s." A special computerized seminar allowed teams of farm women to be a Congressmen for a two-year term and make all of the necessary decisions—from voting on controversial issues to generating campaign funds for re-election.

The 1990 Forum attracted an impressive group of farm women from 28 states during the three-day session. Participants represented a diverse set of interest groups such as American Agri-Women, American Farm Bureau Federation, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., American National Cattle Women, National Pork Council Women, National Wool Growers Auxiliary, useable information on legislative and regulatory issues which affect agriculture, to educate farm women about the political process with an emphasis on effective lobbying skills, to develop and "fine-tune" communication and media skills, and to encourage cooperation between all sectors of agriculture.

The Forum is sponsored by several companies who contribute time, money, and other valuable resources to make this unique training program possible. Sponsors include: American Cyanamid, Monsanto, Chicago Board of Trade, DuPont, Deere & Co., Case IH, ICI Americas, Miller Brewing Co., FMC, Cargill, National Agricultural Chemicals Association, Ford New Holland, Geo. A. Hormel & Co., Dow Chemical, Northrup King, The Upjohn Company, Rhone Poulenc Ag Company, Elanco, Pioneer, Sandoz Crop Protection Corporation, American Feed Industry Association, Kent Feeds, and Agri-Pulse Communicatuons.

Bacon Still American Favorite

CHICAGO, Ill. — Bacon usage is locked into a perpetual tug-of-war. Its good taste pulls consumers toward it, while health concerns push them away. But, according to a study partially funded by the pork checkoff, bacon remains a favorite in the American diet.

The study was co-sponsored by the National Livestock and Meat Board's Pork Industry Group, through a National Pork Board grant, and by the American Meat Institute. Directions Research, Inc., Cincinnati, Ohio, interviewed 800 primary grocery shoppers and 500 randomly selected bacon users. In addition, purchasers were asked to identify the bacon consumption habits of all household members.

"The primary message I find in the study is that consumers still have problems understanding the concept of variety and moderate for a healthy diet," said Bruce Paterson, Ph.D., director of programs for the Pork and Deli/Prepared Meats Division of the Meat Board. "There is still work to be done to educate consumers."

The findings suggest that most consumers would be surprised at the difference between their nutritional perceptions and reality. For example, a three-slice cooked serving of bacon contains no more fat or cholesterol than an ounce of cheese.

Consumers pointed out that bacon's packaging could be improved. More than 80 percent of the interviewed consumers said they repackage bacon. Furthermore, twice as many people are likely to eat bacon away from home than to prepare it themselves. "Clearly, bacon is a more appealing product away from home than it is at home," according to Directions Research.

"It appears that packaging and convenience of bacon affects purchasing habits as much as health concerns. It would definitely be worth the industry's time and effort to develop more user-friendly packaging," said Patricia L. Pines, American Meat Institute vice president.

Among the other conclusions generated from the consumer interviews are:

• Consumer usage of bacon is extremely broad. Nearly 90 percent of households purchase bacon for home use at least annually, 60 percent make monthly purchases, and 30 percent of all meals away from home include some bacon.

PFA Hails Court Decision

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — "We are jubilant with Pennsylvania Commonwealth Court's decision (July 27, 1990) to uphold the integrity of the Agricultural Area Security Law (Act 43), and the reasonable exercise of authority by the Agricultural Lands Condemnation Approval Board (ALCAB)," said Keith W. Eckel, president of the Pennsylvnaia Farmers' Association.

Commonwealth Court for the second time upheld ALCAB's rejection of two requests by Northwestern Lehigh School District to condemn farmland owned by the late Raymond C. Snyder and his widow, Elma Snyder, for construction of a school building. The Snyder farm is part of an agricultural security area, established under the guidelines of Act 43.

"Act 43 is important to agriculture's future," Eckel said, "and ALCAB's authority to review farmland condemnation is critical to agriculture's continuity within established agricultural areas."

The court previously upheld the decision by ALCAB to deny the school district's authority to condemn the Snyder farm. It ruled the school district failed to show that there wasn't any reasonable alternative to the use of the Snyder farm as the construction site, which is required by Act 43.

PFA, the state's largest general farm organization with more than 23,000-plus members, had filed a "friend of the court" brief with Commonwealth Court supporting ALCAB's ruling. It agreed with ALCAB that the school district was not entitled to a second hearing on the proposed Snyder farm condemnation.

PFA was a major backer of the enactment in 1981 of Act 43, which established the procedure for protecting farms and farmland through voluntary formation of agricultural security areas.

"Local government's authority to take private land through condenmation proceedings for public benefit may be important for furthering the common good of citizens," Eekel explained, "but, the authority granted ALCAB under Act 43 to protect agricultural regions from needless use by governments is equally important to all citizens."

Act 43 gives ALCAB the authority to review land condemnations proposals in designated agricultural security areas. It requires ALCAB to make certain that the proposed land use of land is necessary, and proposal is the only reasonable option to fulfill a legitimate public need.

The school district's previous appeal to Commonwealth Court challenged the constitutionality of Act 43 and ALCAB's authority to restrict land condemnations in agricultural security areas. The current appeal challenged the authority of ALCAB to deny the school district a second hearing to establish "need" for condemning the Snyder farm. Both were rejected by the court.

Board OK's Schuylkill Farmland Protection Plan

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approved a Schuylkill County program to save prime farmland, state Agricultural Secretary Boyd E. Wolff announced today.

Authorization for Schuylkill to begin easement purchases raises to seven the number of counties with approved plans under the state's $100 million farmland protection program.

"Saving Schuylkill County's prime agricultural land is in the best interests of the county and the region," Wolff said. "Cash receipts from the sale of farm products contribute $35 million annually to the county's economy."

Schuylkill ranks among the top 10 counties in the state in the production of oats, potatoes, hogs, chickens and eggs.

Wolff, who serves as chairman of the preservation board, said the Schuylkill currently has $480,000 — from state allocations and matching county funds — for easement purchases. Under the program, counties buy easement rights from owners of prime farmland who agree to maintain it for agricultural production.

Other counties with programs in operation are Berks, Bucks, Chester, Lancaster, Lehigh and Montgomery. Five others — Adams, Centre, Cumberland, Union and York counties — have submitted drafts for programs to the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Farmland Protection.

To date, easements have been purchased for five farms located in Lancaster County. Other applications are pending.

4-H'ers at N/W Pa Contest

Nine Warren County 4-H'ers competed in the N/W Pa. 4-H Family Life Day, on July 19 at Westminster College.

Those participating in 4-H Fashion Revue senior level were Candy Hitchcock and Daniel Rolls of Stateline Lads and Lassies, and Tracy and Carrie Black of the Lottsville Stitchems. Junior level participants (under 13 years as of January 1) were Julie Martin of Lottsville Stitchems, Brenda Ludwick, Amanda Hitchcock, Priscilla and Olivia Rolls of Stateline Lads and Lassies Club. Mindy Landers of 4-H Thumper and Variety Club will be the narrator.

These teens were selected at the county fashion revue held July 10 at Heritage House in Russell. According to Phyllis Wright, extension home economist, the judges selected the winners according to sewing skills and modeling abilities of the 4-H'er, and the accessories for the outfit. The judges for the event were Julie Thompson of Sugar Grove, Sandy Thompson of Lander, and Betty Przepiora and Holly Butryn of Mariner's Rose of Jamestown. Betty and Holly also presented a program on "Accessories Make the Look" for the participants, leaders and parents.

Livestock Auction August 11 at Wayne County Fair

The 14th annual Wayne County Junior Livestock Sale will be Saturday, Aug. 11, at 7 p.m. at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

All prospective buyers will be treated to a beef barbecue from 5 to 6:30 p.m. prior to the sale.

It is expected that 30 steers, 115 hogs, and 45 lambs will be offered for sale. All will be of market weight with the steers weighing about 1,000 pounds liveweight, the hogs approximately 200 pounds, and the lambs 100 pounds.

The sale steering committee consists of Clyde Eltz, Ellis Dix, John Marshall, Robert Terrel, Robert Muller and Jim White. Jack Bunnell will be the auctioneer.

4-H Equestrians At County Horse Show

Lebanon County 4-H horse project members rode their way to district competition during the Lebanon County 4-H Horse and Pony Roundup held Sunday, July 22 at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds.

Thirty-eight 4-H members participated in the show, which featured numerous English, Western, and Gymkhana classes.

Members receiving first, second, and third place awards were eligible to advance to the District VI 4-H Horse and Pony Show to be held Saturday, August 18 at Lower Hopewell Horse Center in Brickerville, Lancaster County.

Bucks-Montgomery 4-H Swine Show

Hard work and proper management really paid off for Eric Lachman of Doylestown at the annual Bucks-Montgomery 4-H Swine Show and Sale held recently at the Quakertown Livewstock Auction.

Eric's entry was named grand champion animal, as well as Bucks County champion. Leidy's Meats of Souderton, represented by Tom Leidy, was the buyer of the grand champion animal, paying $3.20 a pound.

The reserve grand champion was the entry of Brian Mentzer of Royersford, whose animal was bought by Hatfield Quality Meats for $1.90 a pound. Brian's animal was also named Montgomery County champion. The Montgomery County reserve champion was shown by Shawn Mentzer of Royersford whose pig was bought for $1.05 a pound by Gary Kratz of Kratz's Feed in Creamery.

The reserve Bucks champion was shown by Millie Dignetti of Upper Black Eddy and purchased by Leidy's Meats for $.95 per pound. Hatfield Quality Meats was the buyer of the champion pen and paid $.69 per pound to the owner Jesse Ruth of Pineville.

Additional buyers for the sale included Fisher Chiropractic of Douglasville, Keystone Farm Credit of Silverdale, Moyer & Son, Inc. of Souderton, Wayne Marcho of Marcho Veal in Harleysville, George's Foodliner in Bethlehem, Collegeville Agway, Sanford Alderfer Auction Company in Skippack, Quakertown Veterinary Clinic, Wegman's Caterers of Stonersville, Richard Knarr of Birdsboro, Hollingsworth Company of Phoenixville, John Wamper and Erdenheim Farms in Flourtown.

One of the highlights of the show was the naming of the showmanship winners. Judge Ted Teaford of Bath, Pa. named Lauren Bergey of Telford the grand champion showman. Karyn Allebach of Harleysville took reserve grand champion showman. Both girls are members of the Montgomery County 4-H Livestock Club.

Light Weight (190-210 pounds)
1 Amanda Rice, Doylestown, 2. Carrie Truehart, Norristown, 3 Chris Rainer, Chalfont
Medium Weight (215-225 pounds)
1 Jenny Ruth, Pineville, 2 Sue Truehart, Norristown, 3 Ed Buckman, Perkasie

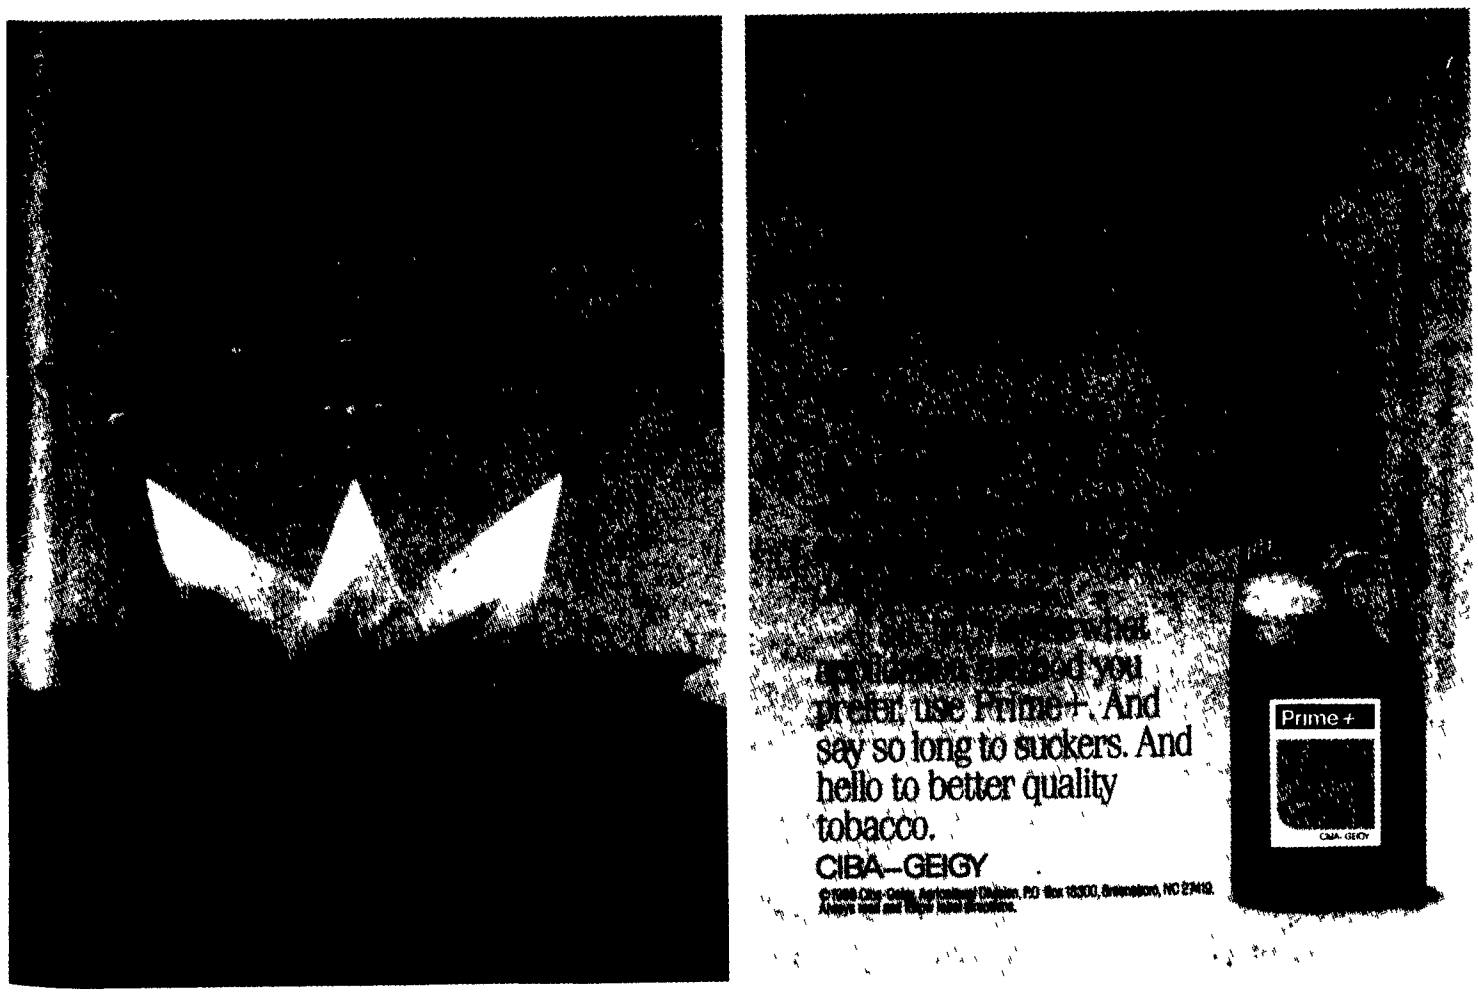
4-H'ers At Citizenship Washington Focus

Four Warren County teens joined 40 other Pennsylvania 4-H'ers for a week study course, Citizenship Washington Focus, July 15-21, at the National 4-H Center near Washington D.C.

Andy VanOrd of Russell, Mark Lauffenburger of Warren, Jolynne Brown of Lottsville, and Andrea Hazeltine of Pittsfield will join 4-H'ers from seven other states to gain a better understanding and involvement in civic responsibility, government operations, and current issues. The program combines educational workshops, field trips, and professional speakers on youth issues, the 1990 Bush administration's agenda, U.S. constitution, and various branches of the federal government.

According to Phyllis Wright, 4-H coordinator, upon returning to Warren County the youth will be responsible to practice leadership skills in citizenship and to develop a plan to encourage other teens to take part in learning the democratic process at local, state, and national level.

The teens will be meeting with Congressman William Clinger on Capitol Hill to discuss issues affecting youth and families. The 4-H'ers will also be touring Washington's cultural and historical sites.



Cumberland Co. 4-H Beef and Lamb Club

Cumberland County 4-H Beef and Lamb Club members invite you to their 1990 roundup sale Friday, August 10, 1990 at 7 p.m. at the New Carlisle Fair livestock show ring.

The animals will be shown on Thursday, August 9. The sheep show is scheduled for 9 p.m. and the beef show is scheduled for 6:00.

RYE SEED

New Danko Rye Seed offers many advantages including yields approximately as high as wheat (up to 80 bu/acre) plus high resistance to winter injury, lodging & sprouting.

Danko is a fine-seeded rye variety & Davey-Joan's of Williamstown, New York is a major propagator and source of Danko rye seed in the U.S. They report that even with this year's above normal (25") rainfall in their area in May, June & July they have experienced no lodging or sprouting.

Danko can be planted from the 2nd week in September to November 1st. The ideal time is the first week of October. It grows later in the fall & starts earlier in the Spring.

Davey-Joan's has clean seed available in both bulk truck or trailer loads and in bushel bags at $6.00 bagged or $5.50 bulk per bushel - FOB Williamstown, N.Y. Please call for quotes on tractor trailer load quantities.

Get outstanding value in EVERY Eby trailer.

Whether it's a top-of-the-line Ruff Neck or an economical Wrangler, you know your livestock trailer is built to last if it's from Eby.

Aluminum construction is one of the main reasons these trailers are so durable and reliable. They'll never rust through or need welding. In fact, without ever being painted, an Eby livestock trailer will stay looking new for years.

Standard features make your Eby trailer a profitable investment. Extra-heavy axles, brakes, wheels and tires. Thick aluminum sheet flooring. Sturdy posts and rails. Even an aerodynamically designed front end is standard.

Whether it's a Wrangler or deluxe Ruff Neck, the trailer you buy will be the trailer you need.

CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction.
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot - never needs painting.
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work.

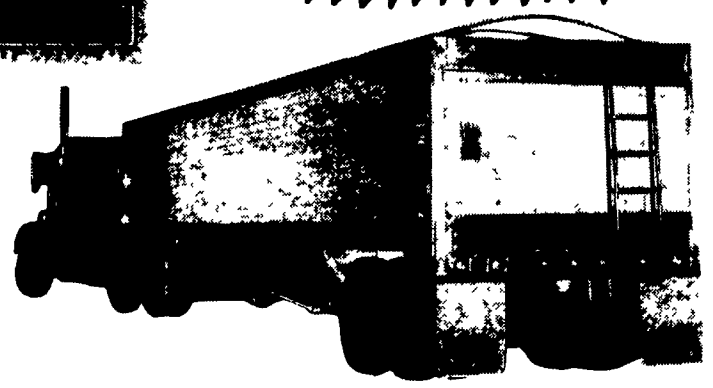
GOT GRAIN & FREIGHT TO HAUL? SEE THE NEW 1991 SUPER C CONVERTIBLE HOPPER



Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough...the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aero-dynamically designed to reduce wing drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

Kelly Morris Has Supreme 4-H Champion

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

The Fawn Grove 4-Her's four-year-old Guernsey entry took the breed champion honors, then topped the best of four other breeds to win the coveted supreme champion title.

While this was the fourth time for Beas Bonus Tinkerbell to top the York Guernsey classes at the annual roundup, it was her first to take the supreme honor. She is sired by Lyndale Bonus J Telestar, and was bred by Joseph Kilgore Delta. Tinkerbell completed her most recent lactation with a record of 13,560 milk and 719 fat from a 5.3 percent fat test.

Kelly is the daughter of Robert and Beverly Morris, Fawn Grove, and has been exhibiting dairy cattle with the Milk and Money dairy club for six years.

Reserve senior and grand honors in the Guernsey breed went to Annie Rauhauser's senior two-year-old. Lilac-Springs Mel Marie was also named best Guernsey bred and owned for the 16-year-old Dover 4-H exhibitor.

Holstein senior and grand champion honors went to Richard Bupp, Seven Valleys, exhibiting three-year-old Bupplynn Valiant Amy-ET. Reserve senior and grand Holstein was the four-year-old dry cow, Dar-Dale Sexation Christy, exhibited by Danny Cole, Glen Rock.

Kim McCleary, Stewartstown, dominated the Brown Swiss classes, taking the top three honors. Her Beaver Creek Danny Bertie, a six-year-old showing dry, was named senior and grand champion. Kim's aged-cow herdmate, to the champion, Brookdale Telstar Nina, took the reserve spots.

Mark Lucabaugh, Spring Grove, was named the "clover bud" champion in a new York roundup category for seven-year-old 4-H beginners. Exhibitors were selected solely on showmanship abilities, rather than for calves' type.

Chad Trimmer, East Berlin, earned champion honors in the junior showmanship competition, over reserve winner Greg Gemmill, Fawn Grove. In the intermediate showmanship age group, Kelly Jo Myers, Thomasville, was named champion, with Dixie Doll, Glen Rock, taking the reserve title. Senior showman champion was Angie Lang, York, and Rich Bupp, Seven Valleys, the reserve winner.

Type conformation judge was Jerry Myers, extension agent, Harford County, Maryland. Showmanship selections were made by judge Don Welk, Jr., Lancaster.

Wide Array Of Turf Topics At Field Days

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Turfgrass Field Days will be held Wednesday, August 29 beginning at 1:00 p.m. at the Joseph Valentine Turfgrass Research Center at the Pennsylvania State University.

On Thursday, August 30, the tour will begin at 9:00 a.m. at the Landscape Management Research Center and conclude at approximately 3:30 p.m.

Included in the activities during the Field Days will be tour stops at ongoing research projects. These projects include fertilizer evaluations on a number of turf species, perennial ryegrass and bentgrass breeding and evaluation trials, pre- and post-emergence crabgrass control, broadleaf weed control, growth regulator evaluations on several species, leafspot, dollar spot, brown patch, pythium, and other disease control trials.

Other projects are insect studies on bluegrass billbug, control studies on white grub and chinchbug, evaluations for soil hardness relating to athletic field management, water quality research associated with nutrient and pesticide applications to turf (both runoff and percolated water), evaluations of liquid applications of fertilizer sources, minimum maintenance grasses, research on the effects of pre-emergence herbicides on transplanted sod, and various IPM projects.

This year there will be a barbecue on the evening of August 29. There is no registration fee for the Field Days but there is a charge for the barbecue.

For additional information, contact Dr. Joseph Duich, Department of Agronomy, 16 Tyson Building, University Park, PA, 16802, (814) 865-9853 or the Pennsylvania Turfgrass Council, P.O. Box 417, Bellefonte, PA, 16823-0417, (814) 355-8010.

Despite Depressed Prices, Lamb And Wool Sale Up

UPPER SANDUSKY, OHIO — Facing an economy of depressed lamb and wool prices, the National Columbia Show and Sale grossed more than $161,000. and set many new sale records. The 247 head sold for an average of $652.94.

Executive Secretary Dick Gerber was elated with the sale prices and success of the convention activities. Columbias, "The Gentle White Giants," a dual-purpose breed for meat and wool, are fast becoming one of the most popular breeds of sheep in the world.

At the July 14 sale, the rams averaged $1,294 per head and the ewes averaged $470. The top selling ram was the National Champion Ram consigned by Lynn and Shirley Frey of Granville, North Dakota. This big, 410-pound yearling sold for $6,400 to Stanley Poe & Sons of Franklin, Indiana. The reserve champion ram shown by Twin Creek Columbias, Proctor, Montana, sold for $6,250 to Evan Kreps Jr. and Family of syracuse, Indiana. Twenty-two rams sold for more than $1,000 per head.

The champion ram lamb, a fall born ram, shown by David and Jane Smith, Earl Park, Indiana, sold for $1,100 to Westwood farms, Ltd., Menlo, Iowa. The top selling fall born lamb shown by Timber Creek Farm, St. Louisville, Ohio, sold for $1,500 to Bayliss Columbias, West Mansfield, Ohio. Don Woolstenhulme, Coalville, Utah, had the first place spring ram lamb and top selling lamb going to Steven Kitzan and Lynn Frey of North Dakota for $2,000.

The grand champion ewe shown by Rich and Mary Ann Johnson, Lakewood, New Jersey, sold for $1,550 to the Krepps Family of Indiana. The reserve champion ewe consigned by K-J Columbias, Franklin, New York, sold for $2,000 to David and Jane Smith of Indiana. The third place yearling ewe topped the ewe sale at $2,200. This was a Wilson Holiday Farm entry from Stratford, Wisconsin, selling to Steinhaus Columbias, Briggsville, Wisconsin.

David Cook, New London, Ohio showed the champion fall born ewe lamb selling for $1,300 to Jason Stillwell, Frankfort, Indiana. Wilsons Holiday Farm, Wisconsin, consigned the first place spring ewe lamb that sold for $1,350 to Westwood Farms Ltd., Menlo, Iowa.

The grand champion pair of ewes shown by A & K Columbias, Newcastle, Wyoming, sold for $1,600 to Twin Creek Columbias of Montana. The top selling pair of ewes were consigned by Gooder Columbias, Cresco, Iowa, and sold for $3,100 to Bret Meona, Norris, Illinois.

In the National Youth Show, Shawna Marie Bayliss of West Mansfield, Ohio, had the champion ewe on a fall born ewe lamb. The reserve champion ewe, a yearling, was shown by Adam Julian of Manson, Iowa.

SAFE CLEANER FOR FARMERS BARN FLOORS

We have a biodegradable product that replaces the caustic cleaners that can be harmful to humans and animals. This product is water based and can be put right down on the floor, wiped up in a very short time, or can be rinsed off with a hose. It is used very successfully by large adhesive and paint companies. Samples are available upon request. Please contact us with any questions you might have and we will be more than happy to answer them. Thanks for taking the time to read this article.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
★ Introductory Price $695.00
★ Will Be Introduced At Ag Progress Days

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows:

*5 yr. - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 yr. - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit

Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and carries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty
*Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00.
We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets
NEW price on ramps & carries - $200 00

Ford FORD NEW HOLLAND

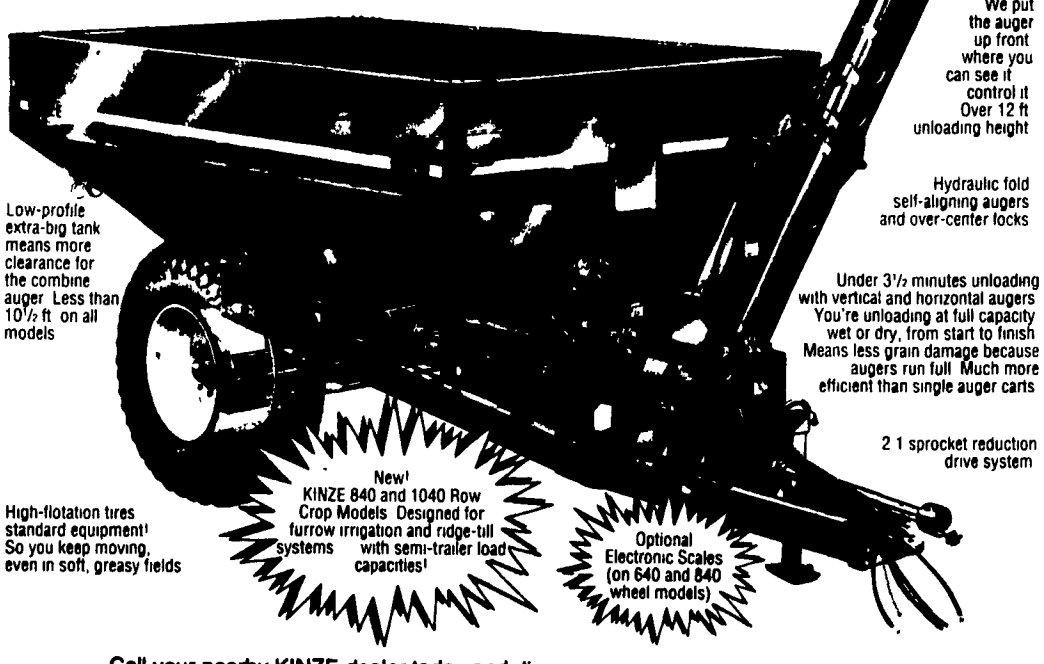
How KINZE designed the world's best Auger Wagon.



We put the auger up front where you can see it control it Over 12 ft unloading height

Hydraulic fold self-aligning augers and over-center locks

Under 3½ minutes unloading with vertical and horizontal augers You're unloading at full capacity wet or dry, from start to finish Means less grain damage because augers run full Much more efficient than single auger carts

2 1 sprocket reduction drive system

Low-profile extra-big tank means more clearance for the combine auger Less than 10½ ft on all models

High-flotation tires standard equipment! So you keep moving, even in soft, greasy fields

Optional Electronic Scales (on 640 and 840 wheel models)

GET THE EXTRA EDGE

Put a Vicon three-bladed disc mower conditioner through wet, heavy, tangled crops. Then compare the difference.

With almost double the number of cuts per minute over two-bladed disc competitors, and six times the cuts per minute over sicklebar systems, it's easy to understand the clean, fast, NO PLUG performance of Vicon KM disc mower conditioners.

BUY NOW! special price

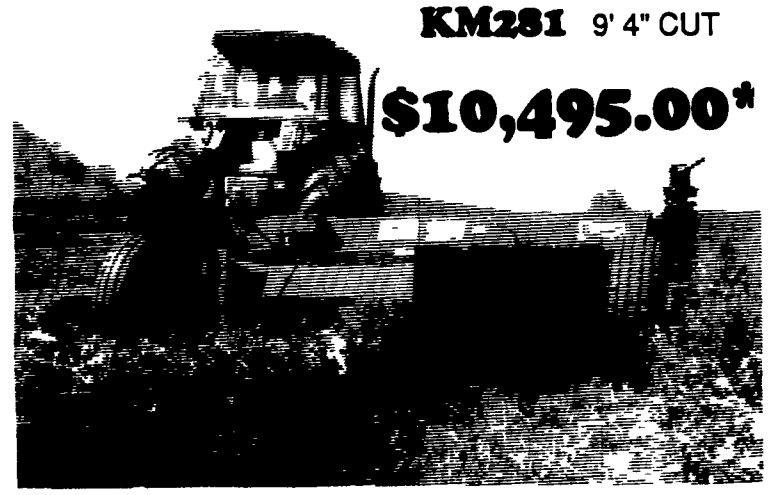
KM281 9' 4" CUT

$10,495.00*



Add the extra suction created by Vicon's unique triangular discs, the full swivel hitch that lets you cut square corners on the move, and gentle, full width conditioning, and you're looking at a high capacity machine that puts productivity in a whole new dimension. Four models cut from 7' to 10'6" widths.

Vicon's got the edge. The extra edge.

RUFF-TUFF POLY SILO LINERS
for Upright Silos

If Your Silo Needs New Life...

Try Our Poly Silo Liners

-THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER-

- Spoilage is reduced around doors.
- Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
- Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.
- Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
- Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
- Quick installation.
- Effectively seals silos from air and weather.

Ruff-Tuff Poly Silo Liners Come In Standard Lengths Of 40, 50, 60 and 70 Feet. The Liners Are Manufactured To Fit Most Standard Diameter Silos.

"We Eliminated Nearly 14,000 Pounds Of Fluid And Still Got Great Traction."

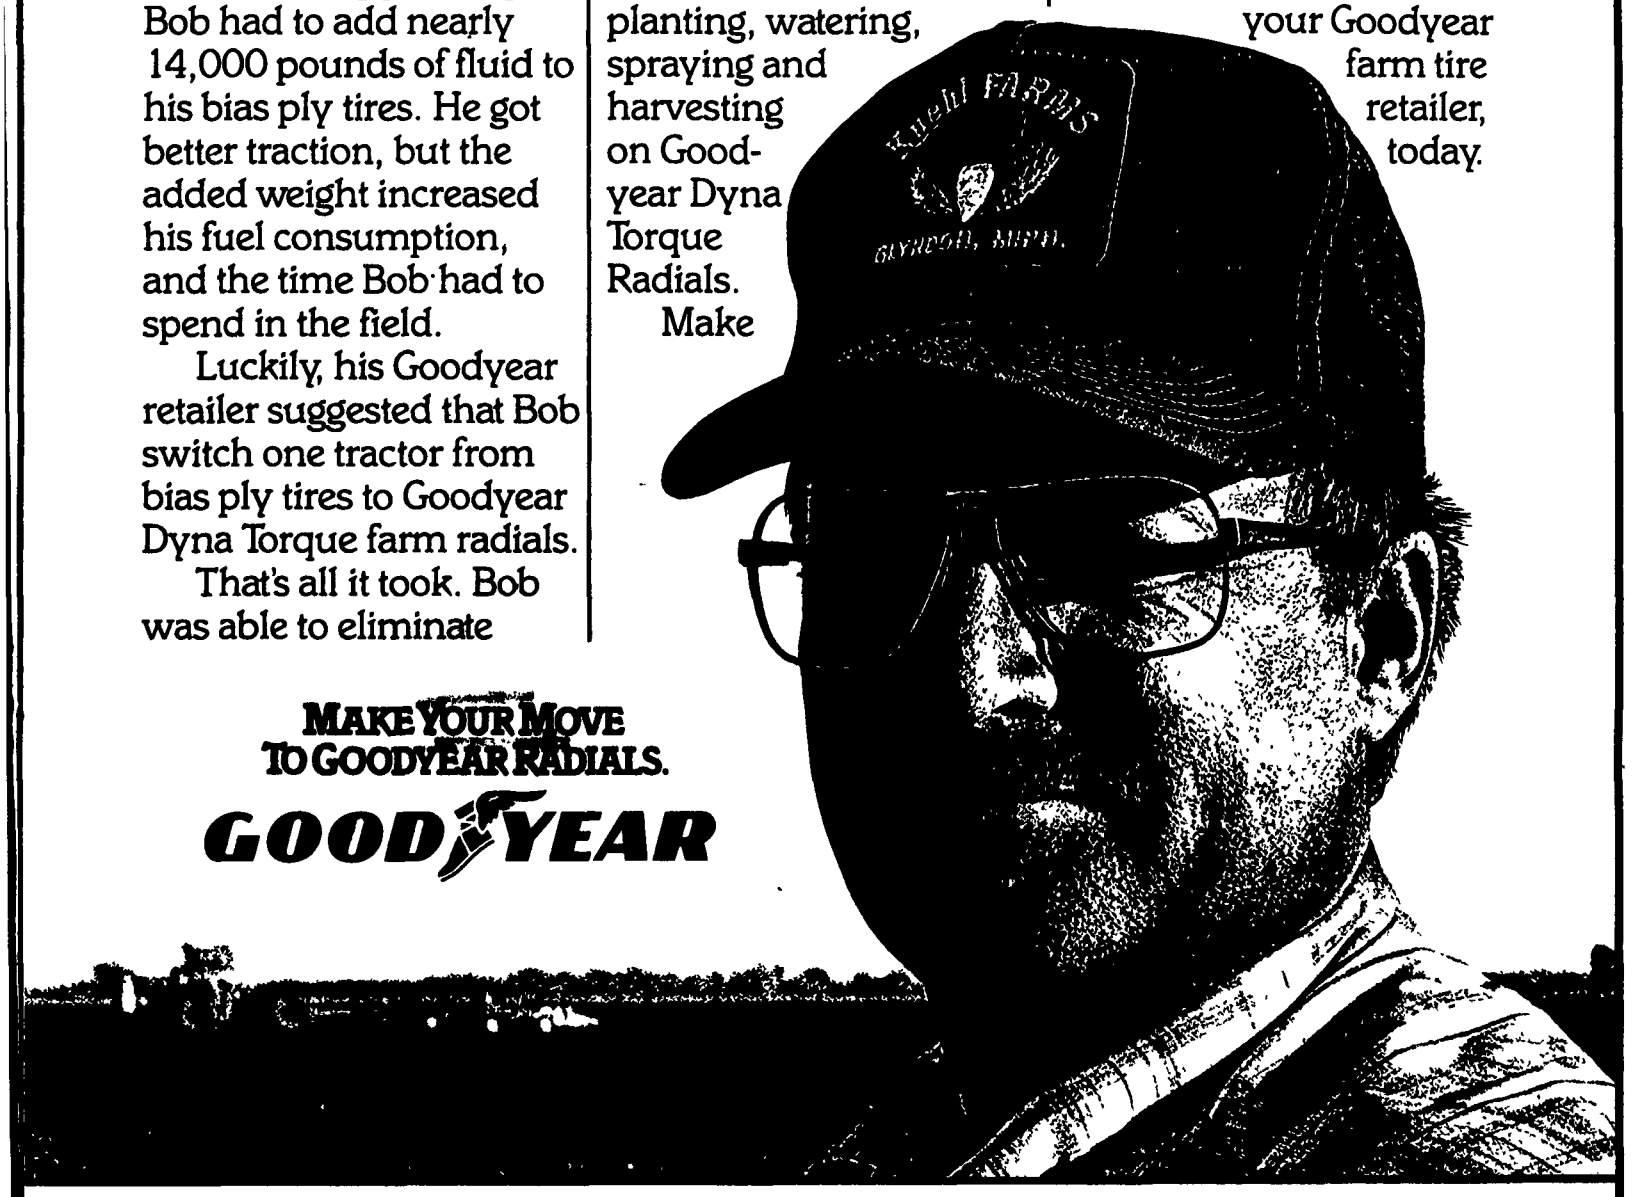
Bob Kuehl
Glyndon, Minnesota

Bob Kuehl is a row crop farmer in Glyndon, Minnesota. In order to get enough traction from his tractor during plowing, Bob had to add nearly 14,000 pounds of fluid to his bias ply tires. He got better traction, but the added weight increased his fuel consumption, and the time Bob had to spend in the field.

Luckily, his Goodyear retailer suggested that Bob switch one tractor from bias ply tires to Goodyear Dyna Torque farm radials.

That's all it took. Bob was able to eliminate excess fluid and get all of the traction he needed. He was so satisfied with the results, that all of his tractors now do tilling, planting, watering, spraying and harvesting on Goodyear Dyna Torque Radials.

Make your move to Goodyear farm radials. You'll spend less time in the field at lower overall costs than on bias ply rears. Contact your Goodyear farm tire retailer, today.



MAKE YOUR MOVE TO GOODYEAR RADIALS.

Hog Show Kicks Off Lebanon Fair

Scott Nolt swept the heavyweight category in the market hog show at Lebanon with, in front, a 250-pound Hampshire/York cross, and in the back, with the same breed and same pound weight hog.

CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — You know you always have to impress the judge.

"It doesn't matter which one you say's going to win, it's what the judge says," quipped a member of the audience.

The exhibitors tried to just that at the 4-H and FFA market hog and fitting/showmanship contest at this year's Lebanon Fair on Monday morning at the fairgrounds.

In the 4-H and FFA market hog show, more than 160 participants bred and fed their pigs to face the ultimate test, competing in one of 20 weight categories. When it was all over, it was the entries from Arnold Hog Farms in Wolmesdorf and in nearby Lebanon that racked up nine, yes nine, of the 20 categories.

"It's all in the breeding," said Larry Arnold, of Arnold Hog Farms in Wolmesdorf. Larry has been showing hogs since he was in 4-H, and some of the lessons he learned over the years in showing and breeding hogs (Arnold operates a hog seedstock operation, with mostly Yorks and York/Hampshire crosses) has been passed down to the family, including Jennifer, Kara, Laura, and Jeramiah, who all placed high in the competition.

But in the end, it was judge Nelson Beam of Elverson who was faced with the decision.

Early in the competition, Beam said, "I'd like to commend exhibitors in here for some high quality hogs." It was difficult sometimes to make a decision because of the work many 4-Hers and FFA members undertook to get their pigs to the leaness and muscle demanded by the industry.

In the end, when announcing the market hog grand overall champion award (presented to Brian Kreider, who exhibited a Hampshire/Duroc cross weighing 243 pounds), Beam said, "I think we've some exceptional hogs here. The exhibitors have done an exceptional job."

A new category, bred-and-owned, sponsored by Agway, was picked up by grand champions Daryl and Darren Grumbine.

A word of caution was suggested by judge Beam: Exhibitors shouldn't hit the pigs hard because you can put a good mark on them. "The key to showmanship is getting your animal to look as good as it can look. Hits detract from its overall appearance. Take the minimum amount of hits."

FLOOR LITTER — BED OF LIFE

Herbert C. Jordan
Associate Professor
Poultry Science

Chopped straw, shavings, or other material under animal's feet as bedding are alive. Microbes, pathogens, eggs, insects, and worms can live in poultry litter.

Examine the quality of floor litter every day. Never allow litter to damage animals. Market or sell litter and you will discover it has quality factors or parameters such as the following:

- Microbes: Aerobic microbes or bacteria are friendly because they breathe fresh air (if you stir litter). Compost litter to improve odor and plant nutrient quality. Anaerobic microbes do not breathe air and cause toxic gases such as methane, hydrogen sulfide, and ammonia to develop, along with skatole and indole odors, which stink. Toxic manure gases can kill people, so prevent them. Warning: Stirring or aerating poultry manure too infrequently can cause toxic ammonia gas to overcome people.
- Litter usually builds up with a higher percentage of manure in it each week; this causes heavy metals to increase, such as copper, lead, cadmium, and aluminum. These heavy metals can get so high that the litter should not be eaten by any animal.
- Eating litter: Diagnosticians and researchers tell us that nearly all birds eat litter (sick and well birds alike). Some researchers believe that one percent of all material in the gut is litter. Some turkeys eat enough litter to die or become ill. Feeding some insoluble (granite) grit allows birds to eat litter and not suffer crop binding. The behavioral trait of eating litter allows poultry managers to succeed with clean litter or fail with contaminated litter.
- Toxic gases or odors from poorly managed litter cause eye or respiratory disorders in the young bird. Litter kept dry with adequate ventilation and with new bedding added each week seems to prevent bird health disorders from toxic gas.
- Insects in litter can be harmful or beneficial. Consult your local entomologist or veterinarian about insect damage from litter-borne insects.
- Litter or bedding is being neglected on some farms — keep litter clean and high quality or clean it out early.
- Methane gas from anaerobic microbes in wet litter or manure can help cause the greenhouse effect around the earth and, according to some scientists, reduces the quantity of ozone in the upper atmosphere.
- Poultry litter should be kept high quality — after all, the law of solid waste management is "We cannot throw anything away on this planet."

THE PENNREADY FEEDER CALF MARKETING PROGRAM

A feeder calf marketing program has been initiated in Pennsylvania this year. Labeled the "PennReady" marketing program, it is intended to meet three objectives.

First, increased profitability of the cow-calf enterprise is needed. This is to be accomplished by providing a value-added product to potential buyers; that is, the feeder calf produced and sold through the program will be recognized as meeting certain certification standards for health and management. The calf will be labeled with an ear tag to signify it has met those standards. The calves will be merchandised in a competitive marketplace that may include cooperative sales, electronic sales or private treaty.

Second, it is intended to provide Pennsylvania feedlot operators with a ready source of feeder cattle that have the potential to be profitable. Having met the standards of the PennReady program is one way to help insure the calves have such a potential. The fact is that most of the cattle fed for slaughter in the state were not produced here.

One reason given for importing large numbers of calves from neighboring states is that there is not a consistent or quality supply of calves within the state. This program has a major objective in the packaging and quality control of calves to be offered for sale. It is imperative that the state's feedlot industry remain profitable and large enough to service the major processing plants located here. One way of doing that is to provide a quality resource of feeder cattle.

Finally, the lessons learned by calf producers in such a program will be important. Management schemes, nutrition programs and marketing awareness will be enhanced through participation.

One example would be in herd-sire selection. Since consistency and quality will now be valued to a higher degree in the market, the selection of quality bulls and careful planning of breeding seasons would become more important concerns. Cooperation among local producers will be an important aspect.

How does the program work? It should be emphasized the PennReady program is a continuing process that will be conducted in the manner that will best increase returns to the producer. This year, it will focus on a value-added calf sold at weaning or as a yearling coming off grass. It will include a series of vaccinations at least three weeks prior to sale, deworming and castration of all male calves.

The calves will be inspected for quality and consistency and be consigned to a telemarket either in West Virginia or Virginia in the fall. Both of these states have an excellent electronic marketing program in place and it will not be necessary to duplicate that effort here. The calves will be sold over the telephone without leaving the farm from video and printed descriptions provided to buyers prior to the sale. Transactions are handled through a local bonded agent, usually the local auction barn, even though the calves may not ever enter the barn. Delivery is made within 10 days after the sale to a central point with certified scales. Sellers are paid on the delivery weight.

This program will not be able to serve all calf producers in Pennsylvania because of the necessity of having either half or full truckload lots available to sell. This is 20,000 to 40,000 pounds (40 to 80 average calves.) However, some smaller producers have discussed combining their calves to make a single lot. It is also important to have sufficient numbers in one locality to keep transportation costs down. Local cattleman's groups are an excellent source of information on calf availability.

If you would like to have more information about participation in the PennReady program, contact your local extension agent or call Dr. John Comerford at Penn State (814) 863-3661.

EPA Grants Registration For Accent

WILMINGTON, Del. — Du Pont Accent herbicide has been granted full registration by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Corn growers now have a way to control tough grasses including shattercane, rhizome and seedling johnsongrass, quackgrass, wooly cupgrass and foxtails.

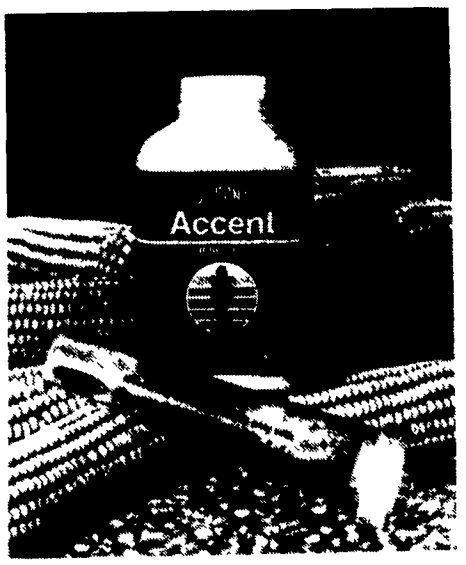
"Accent will allow farmers more freedom to grow corn where and how they see fit," said Du Pont product manager Don Weir. "Farmers can grow corn in areas where heavy grass weed pressures have prevented that. They also can no-till corn where grass weeds such as johnsongrass have prohibited conservation tillage.

"Registration came too late for use on most corn acres of the nation," Weir said. "Therefore, this year's emphasis will be in the Ohio River valley where a lot of corn was planted late. Accent will be sold nationally in 1991."

The new herbicide is a member of the sulfonlyurea family of chemistry. Accent is used at extremely low rates — 2/3 ounce per acre in most situations — and is gentle to the environment.

Accent is applied postemergence and has a wide window of application. It controls shattercane, seedling johnsongrass, and sorghum almum at heights of 4 to 10 inches. Rhizome johnsongrass can be controlled at 8 to 12 inches and foxtail varieties stopped at 1 to 4 inches tall.

The broad spectrum herbicide also controls giant yellow, bristly, and green foxtails; fall and Texas panicum; barnyardgrass; broadleaf signalgrass; field and longspine sandbur; wooly cupgrass; quackgrass; broadleaves such as ivyleaf and tall morningglory; smooth and redroot pigweed; annual smartweed; and jimsonweed.



Du Pont Accent herbicide is packaged in 10-ounce bottles complete with handy measuring guide. The new corn herbicide has received full registration by the EPA.

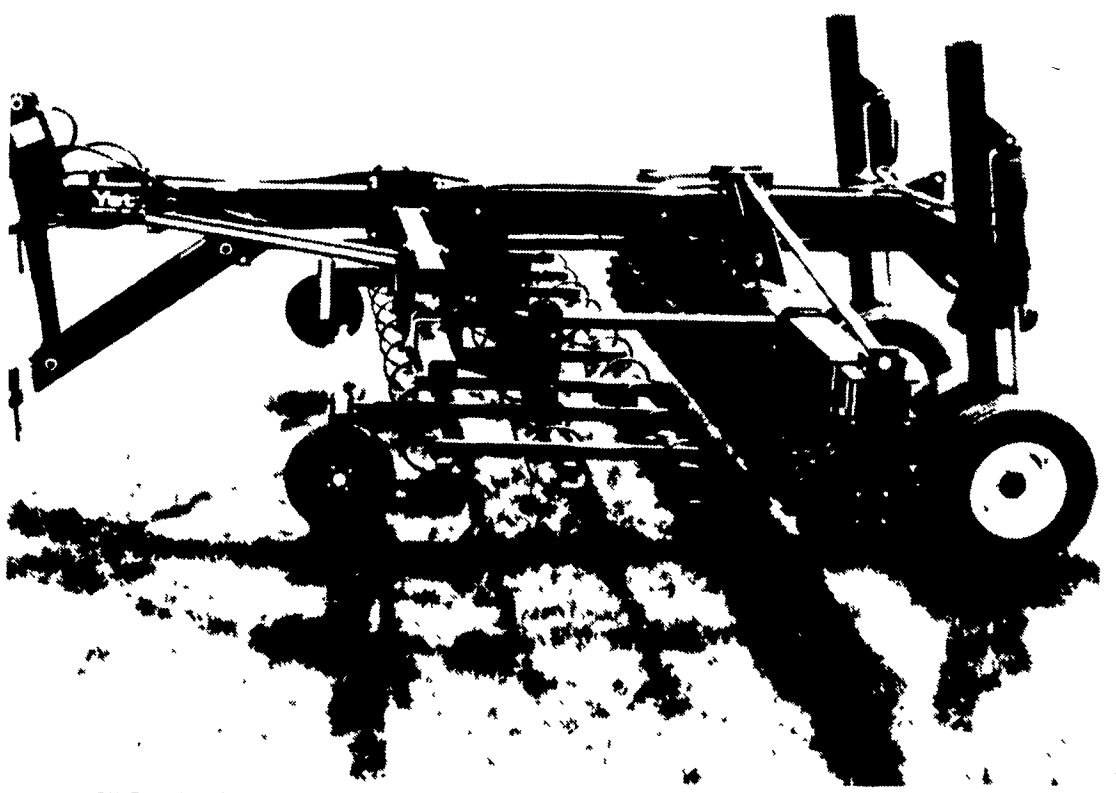
Roller-Tine Has Adjustable Wheels



PEORIA, Ill.— The Yetter Roller-Tine package for use with the Yetter 6600 Series coulter cart is a secondary tillage tool for a variety of crops, including soybeans, wheat, and others requiring a fine, level tilth. Adjustable vibrating tines shatter the crust, loosen the soil and effectively remove tire track compaction.

The following roller crumbles clods, pulverizes, and lightly packs the surface to reduce moisture loss and prepare a fine, level seedbed. Adjustable gauge wheels control tine depth. The tine and roller operate independently of each other.

Keystone Farm Credit Hires Lancaster Officer

SHOEMAKERSVILLE (Berks Co.) — Brian R. Detwiler has been hired as a loan officer by the Lancaster branch of Keystone Farm Credit, ACA. Detwiler will be servicing the agricultural community in the north central section of Lancaster County.

Detwiler was raised on a dairy farm in New Enterprise, Bedford County where his family milked 50 head of Guernseys. As a youth, he was a 4-Her and was in the FFA Chapter of North Bedford High School from which he was graduated. In 1982, he received a bachelor of science degree in dairy production from Penn State.

Prior to joining Keystone, Detwiler was a special accounts loan officer for Farm Credit Service of Mid-America, ACA in Mt. Vernon, Ohio. He resides in Mountville and is a member of the Lancaster Jaycees.

Industrial Chemicals From Corn Possible

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Scientists are inching closer to more cost competitive production of industrial chemicals from corn, according to a dozen researchers.

Attendees at Corn Utilization Conference III, co-sponsored by Ciba-Geigy Seed Division and the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA), heard progress reports on the search for efficient, high-yielding and economical fermentation techniques for producing ethanol, acetic acid, acetone, butanol, and lactic acid.

The production of 1 billion gallons of ethanol consumed nearly 400 million bushels of corn in 1989, but limits to current fermentation technology keeps the fuel from being cost competitive without federal subsidies, according to Dr. James Gaddy, head of chemical engineering at the University of Arkansas.

Corn producers are shut out of the 3 billion pound per year U.S. acetic acid market by inefficiencies in current fermentation technology, Gaddy said, but researchers are close to a technological breakthrough. If new microorganisms or engineering processes can be found to increase the yield and lower the cost of corn-based acetic acid, corn growers could tap into the fledgling calcium magnesium acetate (CMA) market.

CMA is an environmentally friendly alternative to the rock salt used to de-ice highways. Currently petroleum-based CMA is too expensive to be used widely.

Acetone, butanol, and lactic acid are smaller volume, but still significant commodity chemicals which also will benefit from current research, Gaddy said.

"The farmer ought to be supportive of research in this area," he said. "It will take breakthroughs in at least one of several areas to keep corn, and not some cheaper feedstock, the primary course of ethanol. And it will take improved microorganisms or concentration processes to let these corn-based technologies compete in the petroleum-dominated market for bulk chemicals."

Polled Hereford Association Submits Long-Range Plan

KANSAS CITY, Mo.— Members of the American Polled Hereford Association's (APHA) Strategic Planning Committee have issued their report to the association's delegates and board of directors. The breed's long-range strategic business plan, called Vision 2000, includes a new vision statement and clearly defined objectives, strategies, and action plan.

The new vision statement reads "To install a commitment to superior product quality; to become the association and breed of choice by the year 2000 by advancing the opportunities for profit for members and customers."

"We looked into the future economics of the beef cattle industry and molded our plan to serve our customers," said APHA Board Chairman Bill Yowell, Killeen, TX. "Our membership has asked us for some bold steps. They have been very specific with their ideas and suggestions for effecting change. You'll find this plan, which includes a 50-page document, to be different from any other beef breed's plan. We believe we're on the cutting edge of a new era of economics in the beef industry. This plan defines the role Polled Herefords will play to make more profit for cattlemen."

Responding to surveys and member "listening post" sessions, breed leaders and planners have identified four major objectives to accomplish during the 90s: expand quality, enhance image, involve people, and strengthen services.

In explaining the four top objectives, Yowell said, "The entire business plan is based on producing quality animals for our customers -- in other words, striving for superior product quality for Polled Herefords and Polled Hereford crosses to provide optimum products for the entire beef production chain."

Image enhancement calls for increased promotion of Polled Hereford and Polled Hereford cross genetics, the association and its members with the nation's cattlemen, members' customers' and key industry influencers.

The people involvement section defines increased member involvement in association policies and activities to encourage new and continued membership and leadership and to strengthen affiliate associations.

Services will be strengthened to provide increased services and programs for APHA members, our customers, and the association in order to fulfill the vision statement by the year 2000.

"We believe this plan, when put into action, will help move Polled Herefords to the economic forefront of the beef cattle industry," Yowell said. "Specific programs will be released as the plan is approved by our policy leaders and adopted by our members."

Reverse Decision On BST, Says NFU

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.— National Farmers Union (NFU) officials are asking the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board (NDB) to reconsider a decision reached in April which would establish an educational campaign about the controversial cow growth hormone, bovine somatotropin (BST).

During a meeting with Dairy Board members in Minneapolis recently, NFU officials said that since many milk producers oppose the use of BST, and since the NDB collects funds from mandatory assessments of every dairy producer, spending money on BST promotion hardly seems appropriate.

At an April 5 meeting, the NDB authorized that negotiations begin with a Washington, DC-based advertising agency for an "information and education campaign designed to minimize any negative effects on dairy products consumption arising from consumer concern about the use of BST.

Farmers Union leaders call the action premature, since the U.S. Food and Drug Administration is not expected to make a decision on BST approval until at least next year. "Even if it's approved, farmers who oppose it shouldn't have to spend money promoting it," said NFU President Leland Swenson.

"There are better ways to spend dairy farmers money," said an NFU statement presented to the NDB members. NFU says the Dairy Board could fund independent research on the effects of BST on animal or human health. "Without this, the NDB would be relying solely on information from the manufacturing companies -- hardly justifying the NDB's claim of an impartial education program." In addition, NFU suggested developing a test for detecting BST in dairy products, and a general promotion effort on the safety of animal drugs.

NFU has argued against BST use, saying it would lead to greater overproduction of dairy products, driving milk prices down and dairy farmers out of business. "It was not the purpose of NDB's creators for that agency to promote a private product that well may increase government surpluses by simultaneously increasing supply and decreasing demand," said the NFU statement.

NDB officials contend that their purpose is simply to reassure consumers about the safety of dairy products. But Swenson asked, "If that's true, then where were they when the rest of the industry was fighting off inaccurate stories regarding sulfamethazine use?" referring to recent press accounts of use of drugs on animals.

Capitol Hill's The Destination For Agri/Chem Dealers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Approximately 250 dealers who supply fertilizer and crop protection chemicals to the nation's farmers converged on Capitol Hill recently for the fourth annual Agri-Dealer Legislative Conference, jointly sponsored by the National Agricultural Chemicals Association (NACA) and The Fertilizer Institute (TFI).

The joint grassroots communications effort is a key part of the strategy to let lawmakers know first-hand their dealer-constituents' views. Dealers from 40 states visited 175 congressional offices to deliver the joint NACA/TFI message that agriculture is meeting the challenge of increased regulation while still producing high quality, low cost, abundant food through the application of scientific technology.

The agricultural chemical and fertilizer representatives expressed their concerns over the 1990 farm bill, the threat of environmental or energy taxes, the need for relief from commercial drivers license requirements, and chemical export restrictions.

"It is significant that member companies from both our associations strongly supported this effort and focused on critical issues common to both industries," said Gary Myers, president, TFI, and Jay Vroom, president, NACA, in a joint statement.

NACA and TFI are planning to co-sponsor the Agri-Dealer Legislative Conference in 1991 and broaden participation among other agricultural retailer industries. The Fertilizer Institute represents, by voluntary membership, more than 90 percent of the nation's fertilizer industry. The National Agricultural Chemicals Association is the non profit trade organization representing manufacturers, formulators, and distributors of crop protection products employed in agricultural production.

THE NEW LEADER IN BARN CLEANER CHAIN

BARN CLEANERS

Super Drive Power! Super 500 barn cleaner...for pulling up to 550 feet of chain
Super 750 barn cleaner...for pulling up to 700 feet of chain

SUPER 500 DRIVE: The Super 500 spur gear (not roller chain) drive unit handles up to 250 ft. of chain with 2 H.P. up to 350 ft. of chain with 3 H.P. and up to 550 ft. of chain with a 5 H.P motor.

SUPER 750 DRIVE: The Super 750 drive unit with 7½ H.P. motor handles up to 700 ft. of chain. The main gear is cast from ductile iron to provide the extra strength required for cleaning large barns
Both units are packed with power and built to last

J-STAR BARN CLEANER CHAIN - Face The Facts

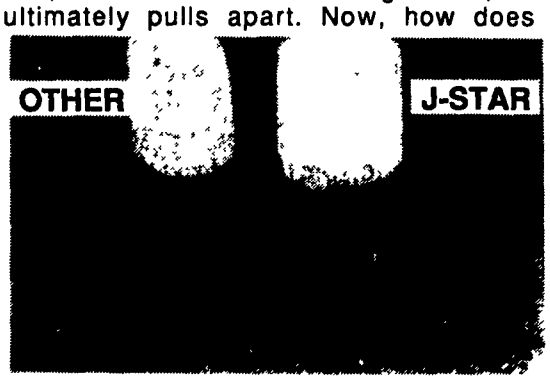
FICTION: The Stronger the Chain the Longer it will Last...

FACT 1. The life of barn cleaner chain is not directly affected by its tensile strength. The strength of a new chain considerably exceeds the maximum pull of the drive unit. For example, the pull of a J-Star model 750 drive unit - the heaviest and fastest drive on the market - is only 33% of the tensile strength of J-Star's hook link chain. Enough said!!!

FICTION: All Hook Link Chain is Basically Alike...

FACT 2. The life of barn cleaner chain, for a given installation, is affected by its wear area and hardness. The greater the wear area, and/or the harder the wearing surface, the longer a link will wear before it ultimately pulls apart. Now, how does J-Star chain stack up?

* J-Star chain is hardened by the same process to the same hardness range as all competitive hook link chain — NO DIFFERENCE HERE!

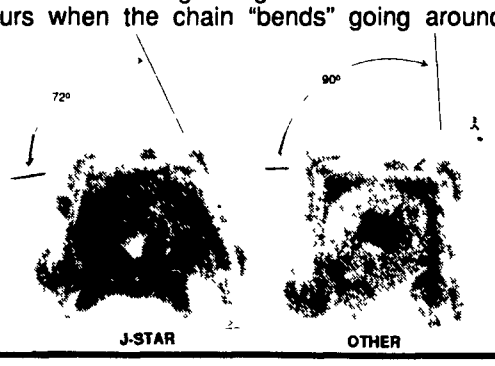


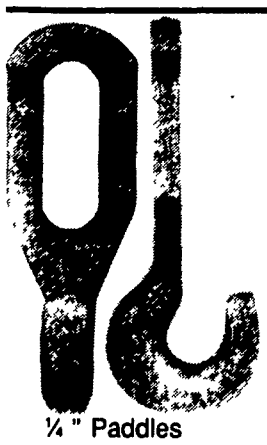
BUT...

* The first point in a chain to fail from wear is usually the end of the eye. J-Star chain, as compared to the other brand for example, has 35% more area in the hook link eye. Note the graphic difference shown below.

FICTION: The Life of a Barn Cleaner Chain has Nothing to do with the Kind of Drive Unit Used With It...

FACT 3. A chain wears at the point where the links contact one another. The rate of wear for a given installation increases as the amount of "grinding" between hook and mating eye increases. This "grinding" occurs when the chain "bends" going around corners, such as corner wheels, reverse curves, hold-down shoes or wheels, and around drive sprockets. Most competitive barn cleaners are about equal in the degree to which they "bend" the chain going through most of these points. HOWEVER - hook link chain does "grind" less when it goes around the J-Star 5-tooth drive sprocket than when it goes around the other brand 4-tooth sprocket.





¼" Paddles

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain of the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

Store Round Hay Bales Inside

EDWARD J. WOODS
County Agricultural Agent

Store Round Hay Bales Inside

Recent data collected in Oklahoma illustrates the need for hay storage structures, even for round bales.

Bales stored under cover on pallets or in an enclosed barn had less than 2 percent dry matter loss. When compared with the 13 percent loss for bales with direct ground contact and without curves, it is easy to justify a storage structure.

Penn State research during the late 1970s gave similar results of 3 percent and 14 percent lost for inside and outside storage, respectively. These numbers do not consider the negative impact of outside storage on forage quality, which can be even more important than the quantity loss.

In addition to the increased storage loss, feeding and handling losses are higher when round bales are stored outside. research conducted in Missouri indicated that round bales stored outside uncovered had a 25 percent feeding loss. Comparable feeding loss for bales stored inside was about 12 percent. Thus, a 13 percent reduction in feeding loss was attained by storing round bales inside.

The combination of storage and feeding dry matter losses can be cut in half by sorting round bales inside rather than outside.

Prepare Grain Bins

We are approaching barley harvest season with wheat not far behind, so I would like to remind our grain producers that now is a good time to clean up your grain bins in preparation to harvest. First, clean out all the old grain, sweep down all the sidewalls and floors, making sure to remove old grain lodged in the cracks.

Next, spray the floor and walk with a residual insecticide. Malathion and Methoxychlor are still very effective -- follow the label for directions. Finally, prevent birds and rodents from entering the bins. Repair holes with metal or other rat-proofing materials. Clean up all spilled grain around the bin to discourage the various pests from the area.

Remove Excessive Fruit From The Young Trees

Young trees loaded with fruit may be a source of pride to home orchardists, but unless the excess fruit is removed, they will be small and trees may be damaged.

The first few years after planting, devote your efforts to developing the framework. A few fruit on the side limbs will not interfere with this structural development. Young branches bend easily under a fruit load.

If a branch-bending load of fruit is allowed to remain on the tree until harvest, the branch usually will not return to its original position after harvest.

Light to moderate bending helps spread the branches from an upright growing position to a position of about a 30 to 45 degree angle with the trunk.

The main trunk of a young fruit tree is especially vulnerably to bending from fruit load. This bending changes the leader into a fruiting branch and the central leader is lost. Dwarf apple trees especially are likely to lose their central leader from fruiting.

Remove all of the fruit from the 1- and 2-year portions of the central leader. Do the same for the branches excessive bending starts.

After a strong framework has been developed, heavier bearing can be obtained. But excessive bearing can alter the structure of well-trained trees.

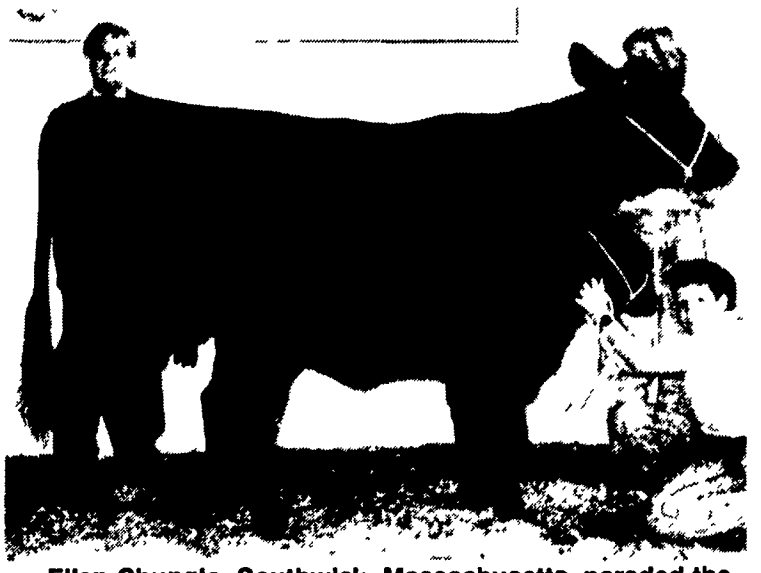
In the cow-calf pair category, Ellen Chunglo, Southwick, Massachusetts, led the grand champion. The May 1988 cow was sired by Big Apple J A C and is named Foxbard Lassie 827. Her May heifer calf is by Hoff Hi Spade.

The reserve grand cow-calf entry went to a May 1985 cow and her twin heifer calves. Bruce Petow, Kensington, Connecticut, displayed the reserve trio. The cow was sired by Greenbrae Chairman and the April heifer calves were sired by Brost Dan Patch.

Nichole High, Lititz, Pennsylvania, led out the grand champion steer named W A MacKenzie 8917. Her grand winner weighed 1,205 pounds and was sired by Grubbs MacKenzie.

Blake Mahaffey, Pawling, New York, was awarded the reserve grand champion steer honor for his 1,090-pound entry named Fairfield Ernest. The reserve grand steer was sired by Northcote Dakota World.



Ellen Chunglo, Southwick, Massachusetts, paraded the champion cow-calf pair. Her champion May 1988 cow is Foxbard Lassie 827, and the May heifer calf is by Hoff Hi Spade.

The reserve grand champion steer at the 1990 Northeast Regional Angus Preview Show was shown by Blake Mahaffey, Pawling, New York. The April 1989 steer is a son of Northcote Dakota World. Weighing 1,090 pounds, the steer is named Fairfield Ernest.

Color TV Helps Grade Fruit, Vegetables

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — A pair of color television cameras and an expert system may some day be responsible for supermarket apples graded "extra fancy" or potatoes graded "U.S. no. 1," according to a team of Penn State researchers.

"Currently, fruits and vegetables are graded by visual inspection," said Dr. C.T. Morrow, professor of agricultural engineering. "The method is expensive, and the subjective nature of grading makes decisions vary from day to day and between inspectors. Computerized grading would be much more uniform."

According to Morrow, it also is becoming difficult to find people capable and willing to do this seasonal work.

"Because of a shortage of graders, large amounts of produce are not being graded and are sold as 'unspecified' in grade," he said.

The Penn State researchers are working with a color television system and a small computer to develop a portable, computerized system for grading fruits and vegetables. Current focus is on apples, potatoes, and mushrooms.

"Grading is dependent on characteristics such as color, shape, size, surface defects, and bruising," said Morrow. "We'd like to develop a system that can look at the fruit or vegetable, assess these characteristics, and then send the information to an expert system that would then assign the grade.

"Currently, we can detect the size and color well and we can detect some abnormalities," he said. "We are working on determining shape next, but we have not gotten to the point where we can assign grades."

The expert system for the grading process has not yet been written, but the criteria for assigning grades to apples, potatoes, or mushrooms are well-established sets of rules. According to Morrow, this will make creating the expert system relatively easy, but the difficult part is assessing the produce.

The system uses two color television cameras with each camera imaging the item of produce being evaluated. The produce is placed in front of a blue background for contrast.

The pictures are digitized by assigning numbers to all possible colors and then assigning corresponding numbers to each pixel. A pixel is the smallest part of an electronic screen image.

Once numbers are assigned to the picture, characteristics such as overall color can be evaluated. Greening, which occurs when potatoes grow too close to the surface and are exposed to the air, can be identified and assessed by finding the percentage of a range of greens in the picture.

Because of the contrast with the blue background, the shape can also be determined. The number coding for the blue of the background will not be assigned to any pixel in the produce image so the outline will be clearly defined.

"For mushrooms, we are looking at size and color," said Morrow. "We are also looking at whether the cap is open or closed and how symmetrically the cap and stem are placed.

"Even though mushrooms have an odd shape, they are actually easier than apples or potatoes," said the Penn State researcher. "They have fewer variations in shape and do not suffer from skinning as potatoes do or cuts that cause abnormalities in potatoes and apples."

The equipment is intended to be portable and easily operated by relatively untrained personnel. The researchers hope that the system also will be low-cost enough for large storage houses and packing plants to have their own permanent grading equipment.

The Penn State research team includes Morrow; Dr. P.H. Heinemann, assistant professor of agricultural engineering; Dr. H.J. Sommer, III, associate professor of mechanical engineering; and Y. Tal and Z. Varghese, graduate students in agricultural engineering.

USDA Extends Flavorings Label Deadline

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Safety and Inspection Service is extending to March 1, 1991 the date for a final rule that requires companies to label "flavorings" used in meat and poultry products by their common or usual name. Previously, the effective date was Aug. 28, 1990.

"We found that both the industry and FSIS simply needed more time to make the necessary label changes," said Dr. Ronald J. Prucha, FSIS associate administrator.

The rule better defines and limits the substances which can be designated as flavorings on meat and poultry labels. In the past, substances such as proteinaceous materials derived from livestock, poultry, eggs, milk, plants, or yeast could be listed as flavorings.

Prucha said the new requirements will better protect the public health and serve the consumer's right to know. FSIS was concerned about a marked increase in the use of these ingredients during the last decade, indicating that some manufacturers might be using the substances inappropriately as low-cost meat replacements.

FARM MANAGEMENT

MANAGING FARM FAMILY FINANCES

Patricia L. Powley
Extension Home Economist

Do you find it difficult to know how much to spend each month for family living needs? Many farm families do. For many farmers, income is both irregular and unpredictable.

Although living standards on the farm have become more and more comparable to those of nonfarm families, there are some important differences in managing farm family finances.

Differences

•Income is irregular and uncertain. Except for some enterprises such as dairy and poultry production, farm income fluctuates widely and is often received in a few large amounts. Prices and costs can vary widely from projected levels.

•Housing expense is often low. For many farmers, a large portion of their housing costs is included in the farm rent or mortgage payment.

•Food expenditures may be lower than for nonfarm families. Home gardens and homegrown meat and produce can trim grocery bills.

•Insurance and health costs may be higher. There are usually no employers to pick up part of the cost of employee insurance plans.

•Farm and home compete for surplus cash. Deciding whether to reinvest profits in the farm business or to make expenditures on the home or family is a difficult matter for young farm couples.

•Household expenses are small compared to farm expenses. Controlling family expenditures may be difficult when a farm couple is accustomed to spending large sums for farm inputs.

•Business items are tax deductible. Many items, such as vehicles, office equipment, machinery, and travel expenses, can be at least partially tax decutible but are often used for family purposes as well.

Allocation of income

Families engaged in business for themselves, such as farm families, have several potential sources of income that can be used for family living expenses. Once they have decided on the source, families may have to decide how much to allocate.

The sources of income are farm/business income, off-farm business income, and unearned income. These are the main three sources of income that families use for family living. Are there other sources?

How do families allocate income? Some families know what their family living expenses are likely to be and so they set aside the known amounts for family living. Some families allocate a percent of farm/business income to be used. It's up to the family to live within that amount.

Others transfer a fixed amount per period — usually each month or some agreed-upon timing. This fixed amount needs to represent some agreed upon decisions. Some families use only off- or non-farm/business income.

This could also be a pooled amount, with several family members contributing to family living expenses. Still other families have no idea what family living costs and they just spend as needed. Families that have only one checking account and do not keep records will have a difficult time in making some decisions about family living costs.

Cash Flow

Cash flow is matching the income with the outgo expenses. This is probably the most difficult family financial management process for farm families. The family's income and cash flow management can be influenced by both the timing of the income and the amount of the income.

The timing and amount is either known or unknown. The difficulty of the cash flow process depends on how these concepts come together for each family.

•Known timing - known amount. Regular/constant flow. This is a situation with a regular paycheck. Some off-farm income is like this for a salaried wage earner. This is the easiest of all cash flow concepts to manage.

•Known timing - unknown amount. This is regular but with a variable amount of income. Many farming operations with some laborers have this situation. This is usually easy to manage, especially if income allows for some flexibility.

•Unknown timing - known amount. This is irregular timing, but the amount is always known. Income like this is the price per job or by the hour with no guarantee of how long or how many jobs can be completed. This is often difficult cash flow to manage. Seasonal workers would be an example of this type of worker. Milk checks and dividends fit this category.

•Unknown timing - unknown amount. This is very irregular income and its variability in both aspects makes it the hardest to manage. Income from sale of livestock, crops, timber, vegetables, etc. fits this category as does that of custom work. Effective resource management which provides for family needs and wants is a challenge in "good" times as well as the "not so good" times.

Planning the use of your financial resources is an essential part of resource management. Involving family members in the plan for use of resources will help make ends meet. Communicating about money within the family goes a long way toward successful use of family resources.

(Next article: "Making Ends Meet.")

Scotch Highland Cattle Show Set

AVON, Mass. — The annual fall show and sale of the Northeast Scotch Highland Breeders Association (NESHBA) will be held at the Manheim farm show livestock barn, Adele Ave., in Manheim, Pennsylvania on Saturday, Sept. 22 at 1 p.m. The Appalachian Highland Cattle Society joins NESHBA this year as hosts for this outstanding show. The finest animals from both associations will be shown in 18 classes. Judging the classes will be Dr. John W. Comerford of Penn State University.

Foraging Around

It's Seeding Time Again

During the past two years or so you've had your problems getting and maintaining good stands of alfalfa and other small seeded species. We all remember the drought of '88 and wet weather problems of 1989 — and the resulting losses in stands and forage quality due to harvesting problems, insects and diseases.

Then came the spring of 1990, and we had high hopes. Thousands of acres were seeded to alfalfa, alfalfa-grass mixtures and other forages. And, while there were many, many successes, there were also many partial or complete stand failures. Frankly in my nearly 40-year career as a forage specialist I can't remember a year when I've had as many questions on seeding problems. In fact one source told me that in New York State an estimated one out of every 4 acres seeded this spring to alfalfa or an alfalfa-grass mixture resulted in a partial or complete failure.

I followed up on as many problems as I could — from Northern Virginia to Northern New York. Frequently I came up with an answer. Often I didn't.

Overall the method of seeding wasn't the problem. And in no case did I find seed quality an issue. Except for one very acid field I ruled out low p^H and low fertility. Herbicide residues were generally not the problem this spring, although triazine residue had to be suspect in one or two fields. Considering the weather, seedling diseases were not a major factor, although individual diseased seedlings could be found in most fields. And likewise, while I did find slug damage again, overall, insects were ruled out as a major cause of stand loss. In two fields, however, there was definite evidence of Eptam damage from incorporating Eptam when the surface soil was too wet.

But two problems did surface frequently. One was loose, poorly prepared seedbeds. Firm, fine and mellow on the surface is one way to describe the ideal seedbed for small seeded legumes and grasses — critical for moisture and also to permit uniform, shallow coverage of seed. Last spring I visited several fields that were chisal plowed and the seedbed prepared in a hurry to make a seeding before rain. The result — loose, fluffy seedbeds and seed buried too deep. With patience some of these seedings resulted in satisfactory stands. But emergence was slow and weed pressure often severe. The prolonged cold, wet weather after seeding was a constant concern. Compaction and crusting, the opposite of a very loose seedbed, proved to be a problem in some fields. But very low temperatures (25° - 27° F) when seedlings were at a critical stage of growth was the culprit in several fields. We saw the same damage last year on a field or two of very early seeded alfalfa on a prepared seedbed with no protection from either a grass or companion crop. In fact this year we encountered more problems on very early seeded fields than on those seeded in late April or early May.

Seeding In Late Summer

So much for the problems of last spring. Late summer is also a good time to seed alfalfa and most cool season grasses. In fact late summer is especially ideal for many cool season grasses because of cool nights, adequate rainfall and warm soil. In general, grasses sown in the late summer root more deeply because the slower top growth is conducive to better root formation. Success for most grasses is most often achieved when at least 8 to 10 weeks of good growing weather after seeding precede winter dormancy.

For alfalfa and alfalfa-grass mixtures August is a great time to seed. Insect pressures are usually less at this time of year. The same with weeds, although chickweed and other winter annuals can be a problem in some fields. Moisture, too little or too much, can be a problem in late summer as well as spring.

August is usually an excellent time for no-till seedings in small grain stubble. Overall, results have been good assuming you've done a good job of controlling weeds and suppressing existing vegetation. One caution — in recent years we have noted more of a problem from the disease Sclerotinia Crown and Stem Rot in late summer no-till seedings in stubble or sod — especially in Virginia and Maryland.

To assure a good stand for a seeding made this August you'll need to follow all of the rules. I'll mention just three:

1) Be sure to prepare a firm seedbed.

2) Seed on time to provide that 8 to 10 weeks of good growing weather before freeze-up.

3) Be sure your seed is well inoculated with the proper strain of bacteria. Even if the seed is pre-inoculated, if it is carried over from spring, re-inoculating with a fresh culture just prior to sowing may be beneficial. And if you're seeding alfalfa on a field that has had no recent history of alfalfa I'd especially urge you to inoculate the seed with two to three times the recommended amount of inoculant just prior to sowing.

Maryland Extension Honors Workers

A Carroll County agricultural agent for 25 years, Bay is the sixth person to be honored since the award was established in 1985. Award sponsors standing behind him are left to right, Richard F. Price of Phoenix (Baltimore County), representing Southern States Cooperative; Bruce W. Hotchkiss of Easton, editor, "The Delmarva Farmer," and F. Grove Miller of North East, Cecil County, president of the Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society.

Polled Hereford Show Draws 400 Head

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — A total of 426 Polled Hereford heifers, cow/calves, and steers owned by junior members from across the nation gathered at Lincoln, Nebraska, on July 15-20. The drawing card was the 17th Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum held at the Nebraska State Fair Park.

In addition to the heifer and steer shows, exhibitors participated in numerous other contests throughout the week-long extravaganza, which focused on leadership, the beef industry, and the Polled Hereford breed.

Judging honors at this year's Junior National fell to lead judge Clint Rusk of Fort Collins, Colorado, and associate judge Paul Slayton of Schellsburg, Pennsylvania. Bob Tiedeman of North Platte, Nebraska, officiated the showmanship contest.

Winning the grand championship trophy from among 357 heifers was 14-year-old Heather Hicks of Cullman, Alabama. Hicks' heifer, VLGP Select Race ET 262Y, is an April 1989 daughter of G&R AJS Raceway 1900. Prior to the heifer's overall selection, she was named the Class 12 winner and the Division III champion.

In the bred-and-owned heifer show, the grand champion was shown by 14-year-old Stanley Hathorn Jr., of Louisville, Mississippi. His Class 18 Winner, HHH Sabrina Y557, was sired by General Motion and born in February 1989.

Forty-eight Polled Hereford steers were led out in the market steer show. Heather McBee, Glenmont, Ohio, was the owner of the 1,200-pound grand champion sired by BT Mohican Dan 544T. The steer posted 0.24 inch backfat and a 2.71 pound WDA.

Other activities at the Junior National included the presentation of the National Junior Merit Award to Dan Moser of Effingham, Kansas. This award, the most prestigious honor bestowed on a junior member by the American Polled Hereford Association, recognizes an individual who has excelled in leadership and citizenship, in addition to beef cattle activities. First runner-up for the Junior Merit Award was Glen Waters, Stet, Missouri, while sec-

The reserve champion steer of the 17th Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum was exhibited by Curt Stockdale, Dayton, Pennsylvania. Curt's entry was sired by Stars N Stripes and weighed 1,205 pounds. Curt will be in seventh grade at Dayton Junior High School this fall and is the son of Dennis and Jo Ellen Stockdale. Junior breeders from across the U.S. showed 426 females and steers at the show, held July 15-20 in Lincoln, Nebraska.

FAIR DAYS

Middletown Grange Fair

The 42nd annual Middletown Grange Fair will be held on August 16, 17, and 18 at the fairgrounds on Penns Park Rd., off Route 413 in Wrightstown.

The Fair will be open from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, and Saturday the horse show starts at 9 a.m., and the Fair closes at 10 p.m.

Thursday's highlights are a rabbit and cavy show, relays, games and contests open to all children ages 7 to 18. There will be a 4-H goat show, Seeing Eye Puppy, demonstrations and a sheep fitting and showmanship contest.

Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., the Grange exhibit buildings will be open exclusively for residents of nursing homes and the handicapped. There will be a 4-H pet show and the Bucks County Holstein Cattle Show, a goat milking demonstration, and the 4-H and Open Sheep Show.

Saturday the horse show starts at 9 a.m., featuring English and Western classes and 12 championship classes. There will be the 4-H Dairy Cattle Show, a sheep shearing demonstration, 4-H Sheep Decorator Class (where the sheep are outfitted in some unusual costumes), 4-H Open Sheep Blocking Contest, Adult Novice Sheep Showmanship Class, and a goat milking demonstration.

An annual tradition at the Grange Fair, the chicken barbecue dinner, will be served each day from 3:30 p.m. until sold out. The cost is $8 for adults and $4 for children.

Camden Co. 4-H Fair

Public Service Electric and Gas Company's (PSE&G's) Energy Conservation Show will appear at the Camden County 4-H Fair in the Lakeland Complex, Blackwood, New Jersey.

(PSE&G's) Mobile Energy Conservation Exhibit, known as the "Energy Conservation Show," will be available for touring on August 2 through August 4, 1990 at the Camden County 4-H Fair from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. on August 2, and from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on August 3 and 4, 1990.

This traveling display is a 30-foot long, self-contained van filled with displays that let visitors actually feel the difference in comfort and savings that caulking, insulation, and other effective weatherization techniques can bring to any home.

For more information, or to book the "Energy Conservation Show" for your public or private event, call the PSE&G Energy Conservation Center (800) 854-4444

Polled Hereford Show

ond runner-up was Leigh Ann Penn, Holly Pond, Alabama.

Moser was also the recipient of the Walter and Joe Lewis Memorial Award, which is based on overall achievement in team and individual endeavors throughout the Junior National week.

Helping to carry out the junior activities and adding to the smooth operations of the show were members of the National Junior Polled Hereford Council. The Council is comprised of 12 individuals who represent the 37-state junior Polled Hereford associations. Elected to lead the National Junior Council in 1990-1991 are Chairman Fred Wingert, Ottawa, Kansas; Vice-Chairman Sally Hart, Pikeville, Tennessee; Secretary Shannon Neal, Osgood, Indiana; and Reporter Crystal Kirby, Lucama, North Carolina.

Returning to the heifer show, the reserve grand champion was shown by Jamie Golden, Arrowsmith, Illinois. Golden's entry, HPH Winning Silence 908, also the Class 13 winner and the Division IV champion, was sired by JDH Hawk Nautique 1U and calved in March 1989. The reserve champion bred-and-owned heifer was exhibited by Brian Birdsall, Homer, New York. Birdsall's entry, BBA Miss Ghost 9Y, is a June 1989 daughter of Ghost Ryder. She was also the first place heifer in Class 7 and the Division II reserve champion.

The reserve grand champion steer was a Stars N Stripes son owned by Curt Stockdale of Dayton, Pennsylvania. This steer followed the grand champion in Class 4. He weighed in at 1,205 pounds, had 0.16 inch backfat and a 2.65 pound WDA.

In cow/calf competition, the reserve standard and overall reserve grand champion pair belonged to Stephen Fritz, Mann's Choice, Pennsylvania. His duo included PS Victoria 514, by Sdbrk Gilead 67K, and her February heifer calf by Ihry GK Race. Crystal Kirby owned the reserve champion bred-and-owned cow/calf. Her pair included CCC Miss Magic Sunrise 1X, by FCF Magic 433, and her March heifer calf, by CCC Klondike Jog 7U.

Tammy Riffel, Enterprise, Kansas, won the Junior National Premier Exhibitor honor for the second consecutive year. She also collected the award for Junior Premier Breeder. Adult Premier Breeder was ACE Land & Cattle Co., Skiatook, Oklahoma.

Reduce Lambing Losses, Labor

Steven L. Milliken, VMD

Being available for lambing to help assist with difficult births and weak lambs can help the sheep breeder reduce lamb mortality.

By synchronizing breeding, lambing season can be shortened and pre-planned. This will allow the sheep breeder to attend more births, reduce overall time spent during lambing season, get a more uniform lamb crop, and accelerate lambing, if desired, to meet market and show needs.

Through estrus synchronization we are able to pre-plan breeding by bringing a number of ewes into heat at the same time so they may be bred to the desired ram(s). These ewes would then lamb within a narrow period of time. Lambing season would be less spread out. Less time is wasted waiting for ewes to lamb. Knowing when ewes will lamb will allow the sheep breeder to assist with lambing, if necessary, thus reducing lamb losses. Ewes can be grouped to get a more uniform lamb crop and to meet desired markets. Synchronization can also be used to induce ewes to cycle earlier in the breeding season for an earlier lamb crop (accelerated lambing).

Estrus synchronization and synchronized breeding are accomplished through controlled introduction of the ram (ram effect) and/or the use of various hormones. Best results are obtained when the ram effect is used in conjunction with hormone therapy. Rams and ewes should be kept separated to maximize the effectiveness of introduction of the ram for synchronization.

A veterinarian can discuss with the sheep breeder what synchronization program may work best with a particular flock. Certain considerations such as labor availability during lambing, the number of ewes to be bred to a particular ram, how many fertile rams are available, the desired time of lambing, what facilities are available for lambing, and the feasibility and expense of different synchronization programs should be discussed well in advance of planned breeding.

Synchronization programs can be simple and economical for small or large flocks; commercial or purebred. Working with a veterinarian to pre-plan your breeding program can help make the subsequent lambing season less frustrating, less time consuming, and more productive and enjoyable.

New Extension Agent

WILKES-BARRE (Luzerne Co.)— A native to Binghamton, NY, Mary Ehret, M.S., R.D. has recently assumed the duties of extension agent for the Penn State Cooperative Extension in Luzerne County.

Ahret received her bachelor of science from the State University of New York at Oneonta and her masters in nutrition at Marywood College. In 1981, Mary obtained her dietetic registration from the American Dietetic Association.

Mary has held the positions of director of food service for Dallas School District and Berwick Hospital Corporation. Prior to working for Penn State, Mary was the nutritionist for Schiffs, Inc., a food company in Scranton.

One of Mary's responsibilities working for the extension will be to supervise a federal food and nutrition program targeted for limited income families with children in six counties. The Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP) is designed to help families with limited incomes to stretch their food dollars to achieve sound diets.

Take Care With Turkeys If Weather's Hot

HERBERT C. JORDAN
Associate Professor of Poultry Science
Penn State University

Several breeder toms died early in July 1990 on a hot, humid still air night. Acute death of breeder toms can cost the owner several hundred dollars per tom annually.

When temperature is above 80°F and relative humidity is above 80 percent, breeder toms suffer. (Note: When night air is still and temperature is above 90°F and relative humidity is above 90 percent, acute death is more prevalent.) Consider the following:

If any toxic gas is smelled one inch above litter, remove litter or reduce ammonia, methane, and hydrogen sulfide to zero. Methane is a gas believed to worsen in the earth's greenhouse effect. Toms breathe more pounds of air daily than feed they eat. Stop all toxic gas from litter.

• Fat toms should be culled, not used or reduced in fat weight by exercise and diet. Obese toms may die quickly, whereas normal toms survive.

• Feather disorders usually predict other disease or health problems and these toms with broken, twisted, molting, stunted, or abnormal feathers may not stand heat well.

• Vent disorders such as flaky, small, dry, yellow, red, swollen, or otherwise abnormal vent that drains urates, mucus, water, or manure should be culled, diagnosed, and treated.

• Head normality -- A clear, clean, normal head, eye, nose, beak, tongue, ear, snood or cleft indicates a healthy tom in most cases.

• Foot disorder should be diagnosed and culled before tom is handicapped or disabled.

• Space per large tom should be 5 to 20 square feet of floor space per bird in hot humid weather and a flock manager should be there hourly to keep down fighting, crowding due to weather disorder, or to break up or respond to any abnormal behavior. A minimum of 18 square inches of floor space per pound of live adult trim body weight is only a guide.

• High litter quality is a must in hot, humid weather. Add clean litter weekly to make a bed of 6 inches of dry, natural, soft litter. Keep excess manure out of litter even if you must remove litter frequently. Reduce odor and toxic gas to at or near zero.

• Water quality and consumption -- Put a refrigeration unit on inbound water supply to keep it at 56°F at the fountain. Water needs to be fresh, clean, unpolluted, and cool. A water meter measuring disappearance of water, if read daily, can help you follow water consumption or waste. Beware of leaks and false readings.

• Fresh air is difficult to measure. Movement of air from a tree-shaded side of a house through the house should be fresher, lower in temperature, and have more oxygen if air comes through tree leaves before entering the pen.

• Hospital pen -- When a tom produces low or poor quality semen, place him in a hospital pen and have a nurse examine him weekly. Administer treatment or therapy if necessary to bring health back to the animal. Take birds to lab immediately if they die and treat sick birds as individuals, if possible.

• Visual condition and tom behavior -- If a tom has long shaft on feathers around the vent on the abdomen, cull him. If a tom fails to walk normally, sits all the time, looks or acts like a hen, has fevered hocks, swollen feet or gout, cull him,

• Energy source in ration: In hot weather, it is best to reduce fermentable carbohydrates in the ration and replace ingredients such as corn with oats if corn is above 56 percent of the ration. To make this new diet isocaloric, use high quality animal or vegetable fat to replace carbohydrates. Consult your nutritionist before doing this.

• Oats in breeder diet: The reasons turkeymen and veterinarians give for adding oats to the diet are whole oats fed with granite grit causes bird to have a cleaner gut with less damage from enteritic diseases, bird is not as fat, feather and skin quickly appear better, and bird is frequently healthier.

• Vitamin-mineral-electrolyte (VME) can be fed to breeder toms at 1/2 recommended strength 2-3 days a week normally without doing any harm. They may help keep toms fertile when hot weather causes low feed consumption. Do not overfeed VME -- they can cause health problems. Clean out waterers or clean out water lines after VME is fed.

• Exercise of toms is very controversial. But it is important to observe that the flocks from farmers who force birds to get up and move some every hour of daylight seem to have better health, reproduction, and performance than flocks allowed to sit around all day.

• Semen collection frequency is highly controversial but it does seem that some toms can produce quality semen with more semen loss than others. Quality poult is your goal, not just quality semen or sperm. Reduce semen collection in hot weather if frequent collection causes a problem.

GET THE EXTRA EDGE

Put a Vicon three-bladed disc mower through wet, tangled crops – even fire ant hills – and then compare the difference.

With almost double the number of cuts per minute over two-bladed competitors, and the extra suction created by Vicon's unique triangular discs, it's easy to see why Vicon CM disc mowers are the choice for fast, clean NO-PLUG performance.

Vicon's got the edge. The extra edge.

Control Sweet Corn Earworm

EDWARD J. WOODS
Country Agricultural Agent

One of the annual problems for sweet corn producers is the corn earworm. This year is no exception. The very hot weather creates ideal conditions for them.

Indications are that the adult corn earworm population is getting pretty heavy and that means possible trouble for the growers of sweet corn. The corn earworm does not overwinter in Pennsylvania but migrates from the south and begins to build up in July. It is the second generation of corn earworm that is present in August through September that becomes a serious problem to the sweet corn growers.

If you are concerned about corn earworm injury, start treatment as soon as eggs are found on the silk. Apply sprays at three-day intervals when ears are 20 percent in silk until a week before harvest. This may mean 5 to 7 applications, but it should produce a maximum of ears free of corn earworm. Carbaryl (Sevin) does a good job. Always follow label directions.

Evaluate Weed Control

By this time of year, any weed problems in your fields are fairly evident and probably beyond control. But now is a good time to develop an effective program for next year.

The easiest way to check for the effectiveness of different herbicides is to leave a small part of your field untreated. This gives you a chance to tell what weeds were controlled and the ones that were missed. There will usually be areas near the ends of the field and will serve your purpose quite well.

If several types of weeds seemed to have escaped control, you should check the herbicide container label as to whether the material was designed to eliminate those weeds.

If your entire weed control program seemed to be ineffective, re-read the label to see if you followed instructions. Just a few simple mistakes during application can result in complete failure.

Either too much or too little rain soon after application can often cause a great loss of effectiveness in many herbicides.

Summer Pinch Black And Purple Raspberries And Blackberries

Want to increase next year's crop of raspberries and blackberries? If so, now is the time to do something.

Summer pinching (or tipping) of black and purple raspberries and blackberries promotes the development of strong, fruitful lateral branching. It also produces stronger, stockier plants that are better able to support the crop and to resist wind damage.

Pinching should be done when the new black raspberry shoots are two feet high, about three feet high on purple raspberries. Erect blackberries can be pinched at three to four feet since they are more vigorous and have stockier plants than raspberries. Red raspberries and dewberries (trailing blackberries) do not require summer pinching.

Pinching consists of snapping off the top two to three inches of the new canes. Early pinching results in maximum lateral shoot development and subsequent yield of large size, high quality fruit.

Pinching should be done when the plants are dry. This will minimize cane diseases. Avoid pinching on wet, or very cloudy days when rain is expected in 24 hours or less.

After the two-year old canes have fruited, they should be pruned out, removed from the planting, and discarded.

The bramble planting has a tendency to become a dense thicket. All and excess canes appearing between the rows should be removed either by pulling or cultivation.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The 1990 Professional Technical Education Institute for agricultural educators was held recently at Penn State.

The institute was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Education Bureau of Vocational and Adult Education, the Pennsylvania State University's Center for Vocational Professional Development, Department of Agricultural and Extension Education, and the Pennsylvania Vocational Agricultural Teacher's Association (PVATA).

Pre conference sessions included "Chainsaw Safety/Operation" by Lee Stoover, Penn State; "Aquaculture In the Agriculture Curriculum" By Ron Frederick, Twin Valley H.S.; Bob Lauffer, Garden Spot H.S., and Carl Everett, Central Columbia H.S.; "Tool Maintenance for Beginning Teachers," Dr. Tom Bruenig, Penn State; "Biotechnology Update on Livestock and Crops," Dr. Robert Patton, Monsanto Corp.; "Aquatic Resources Contest," by Scott Owens, Sugar Valley H.S., and Bruce Stajnrajh, Garden Spot H.S.; "Pennsylvania Young Farmer Update" by Don Robinson, Eastern Lancaster County Adult Farmer Program.

Keynote speaker for the conference kickoff was John Pope, executive secretary, National Council on Vocational and Technical Education in Agriculture. Pope outlined the goals and objectives of the strategic plan for Agricultural Education.

After the kickoff address, the strategic plan was the topic of a series of 10 roundtable discussions designed to obtain teacher input into the mechanism for meeting the goals of the strategic plan on a state level for Pennsylvania.

A series of short presentations showcasing ideas useful in teaching entitled "Exchange of Ideas" was the next portion of the program. Presenters were Robert Garrett, biology teacher at Garden Spot, on "Video microscopy"; Ron Althoff, Solanco H.S., on "Quick Test for Soil Nitrogen for Corn"; Dr. Philip Ogline, Garden Spot, on "How Wet is Our Planet?" and "How Water Gets Polluted"; Jim Palmer, Penn State, on "The Chromatic Color Wheel"; and Lyn Van Tassel, Hamburg Area H.S., on "Consumer Products Development Project" and "The Mushroom Box."

The first day wrapped up with a PVATA business session and the annual agricultural education picnic. The second day of the institute started with a program entitled "Designing and Upgrading the Ag Facility" by Dr. Ken Rhodes, Derry Area H.S., Dr. Tom Bruenig, Penn State, and William Douglass, an architect for Hunter Heiges.

Special reports were made to the group by Larry Redding, state program specialist, Pennsylvania Department of Education; Dr. Earl Ferry, president, Pennsylvania FFA Association board of directors: and Mary Jo Cancelmo, executive director, Pennsylvania FFA Foundation, Inc.

Michelle Rice, Biglerville H.S., gave an update on the PVATA ad hoc curriculum and their joint efforts with the PDE Curriculum for agriculture education in Pennsylvania. Each school district in attendance was given a copy of the curriculum to take back and use in their local schools. According to Rice, the goal is to field test, evaluate, and revise the first year core by February 1991.

Bruce Lemon, Cumberland Valley H.S., made a report on behalf of the executive committee of past PVATA presidents in which he presented a draft copy of "Standards for Quality Agricultural Education Programs in Pennsylvania."

A group of three agriculture education instructors who had just returned from a trip to Japan made a presentation on the International Infusion Project for Agricultural Education. Presenters were Kathy Jones, Lower Dauphin H.S.; Dr. Earl Ferry, Selinsgrove Area H.S., and Jim Harrold, Somerset County AVTS. A PVATA business meeting followed the international agriculture program.

The group then reconvened for the annual awards banquet. Ron Frederick, PVATA president from Twin Valley, introduced special guests. Dr. Sam Curtis, head, Department of Agricultural and Extension Education, brought greetings on behalf of the university and the College of Agriculture. Dr. Ferman Moody, director, Bureau of Adult and Vocational Education, Awards for 25 years of service were presented to, left to right, Dr. Philip H. Ogline, Ronald D. Bower, Mr. Kenneth B. Rhodes, Diversified Marketing representative David Schuh, Elvin G. Summers, Dale H. Gerber, and Roger Michelone.

Outstanding Young Teacher Award went to Carey D. Kalupson, Jr., teacher of agriculture at Solanco H.S.

Donald W. Reinert was recognized with a plaque and honorary life membership by the PVATA after his retirement from teaching at Kutztown Area H.S.

Pennsylvania Department of Education was the main speaker for the evening. Moody, a former vocational agriculture student and teacher in Virginia, pointed out the history of success in vocational education and the need for all of vocational education and agricultural education in particular to continue to meet the needs of a diverse group of students.

The final day of the conference involved several concurrent in-depth technical sessions, including chain saw operation, timber stand improvement, forestry equipment identification, aquaculture, freshwater fish, hydroponics, aquatic resource contest, small animal care and curriculum, Outstanding Building Our American Communities (BOAC) ideas, and the Pennsylvania ReLeaf Program.

In addition, several individuals were honored for their accomplishments in agricultural education.

Special recognition was given to two retirees: Dr. Richard Stinson, recently retired professor of agricultural and extension education at Penn State, was presented with a plaque by PVATA Region E Vice President Kay M. Kring. Kring thanked Stinson for his leadership in helping many agriculture programs across the state in the areas of horticulture and greenhouse crops. Stinson was known for his curriculum development and expertise in horticultural facilities and his ability to teach horticulture to the production agriculture teachers.

Mr. Donald W. Reinert, retired agricultural education instructor at Kutztown Area H.S., was presented his award plaque by Ron Frederick, PVATA president. Frederick thanked Reinert for all the support and advice he had given to many teachers in his unofficial role as "the Dean of the Berks County Ag Teachers" during his successful career at Kutztown.

The Outstanding Young Teacher Award went to Carey D. Kalupson, Jr., New Providence. Kalupson has been an agricultural education instructor and FFA advisor at Solanco H.S. for 10 years.

In presenting the award to Kalupson, PVATA treasurer, Ron Althoff described Kalupson as a hard worker who thoroughly enjoys what he is doing. "Carey's attitude has always been not to say "No, I can't do that" but rather, "Give me time to learn how, and I'll try it."

Kalupson was commended for the excellent job he has done as advisor to the Solanco FFA, including helping to organize a community drinking water testing program which received national recognition in the "Successful Farming" magazine's "Well Aware" program. Kalupson serves as Lancaster County FFA advisor and PVATA Region J vice president in addition to his duties at Solanco.

First-place award winner in the Ideas Unlimited competition went to Roland J. Duperron, Northern Potter H.S., for his entry of an agricultural mechanics project which was a combination of storage box and binder for newspaper recycling. Second place was MeeCee Baker Houser, Greenwood H.S. Third place went to Dominic Centonnze, Manheim Central H.S., and fourth place to Carl Everett, Central Columbia H.S.

Twenty-five years of service awards were presented to 10 agriculture education instructors for having completed 25 years of teaching agricultural education in Pennsylvania. Each received a gold watch presented by Diversified Marketing, Inc. Honorees were:

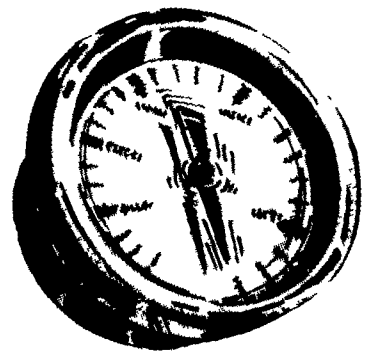
Call if you're under pressure to improve your hydraulic system

If you're under pressure to upgrade your hydraulic system and reduce operating costs, we can help. Our pumps have proven themselves in millions of applications worldwide



Our variable displacement radial piston pumps can be used in pressure compensated, load sensing, torque limiting and displacement control circuits, as well as numerous variations.

Tolerant to communication, these highly reliable pumps incorporate a unique check valve design that also makes them less sensitive to cavitation than other designs.

PURINA

Dairy Tips By Dr. John Clark, P.A.S.

Purina Mills Dairy Consultant

Sometimes in trying to use all of the new technology available for feeding the high producing dairy cow, some basic principles of dairy cow nutrition can be overlooked. For maximum production at the most economical cost, total feed intake must be maximized before anything else is done.

After attaining maximun intake, the ration can be properly balanced to get correct amounts of nutrients to the rumen microbes for efficient rumen fermentation. After the rumen microbial population has been satisfied, a proper balance of "by-pass" nutrients can be fed to maximize efficiency of delivering nutrients to the intestines.

Production & income will suffer when feeding excessive rumen by-pass nutrients if either total feed intake is too low or rumen fermentation is too slow.

LAST CHANCE!!!

This is your last chance to make better feed for your cows. The weather, and the silo, and the crop, and the machinery are all set in place. The only thing you can do is choose the right silage additive. Put Maxi-Sil to work for you in making your silage the best possible quality. A recent Penn State study proved the enzyme treated (Maxi-Sil type) forages produced these benefits:

Research Benefits:

- 2% to 10% increase in dry matter intake
- 1% to 5% milk increase (up to 3 pounds more milk)
- break down of plant cell walls for greater digestion
- greater silage stability

CHOOSE FROM THIS FAMILY OF MAXI-SILS TO MAKE BETTER FORAGE AND GRAIN SILAGES

Maxi-Sil Enzyme	Maxi-Sil WD	Max-sil Inoculant
- has forage enzymes	- water dispersible	- 300,000 c.f.u./lb forage
- kills molds	- 1 pack treats 50 tons	- 18 months stable
- stable & non corrosive	- ideal for mechanical distr.	- treats HM grain at 1 lb/ton
- 1 lb. per ton	- warranted live bacteria	- special bag

Lancaster Farming

Dairy of Distinction Supplement to Lancaster Farming, Saturday, August 4, 1990

The 1990 Dairy Of Distinction Farms

Not only a Dairy of Distinction, but considered a family of distinction by the local community, from left are Christopher, Julia, Stephanie and Vincent Wagner. Julia takes care of the flowers and ornamental aspects of the farm and helps out with feeding calves. The children both help out and Vincent takes care of the cows, crops and feeding. Now president of the county Holstein Association, Vincent Wagner was not always looking at a bright future in farming, now the family owns their own.

This farm family is typical of the many outstanding Dairy of Distinction winners across the state of Pennsylvania. Attractive homesteads, personable people and fine dairy cattle seem to go together. And they are an encouragement to everyone to do everything possible to make milk and milk products appealing to the consumers who come from urban or city locations and know very little about farming.

From Nothing To Farming, It Can Still Be Done

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

REISTVILLE (Lebanon Co.) — Many would-be farmers shake their heads and toss their hands in the air when talking about getting started in farming today.

The common thinking is that — without an outright inheritance of land, buildings, equipment and machinery, or a generous benefactor — it is an impossibility for someone in high real estate value Pennsylvania to own and operate a family farm.

But Vincent Wagner doesn't buy that.

Horatio Alger he's not, but through dairy farming Vincent Wagner has litterally gone from having nothing to making a respectable living and working to pay off a farm in the southern part of Lebanon County — one of the best soil areas in the state, and some say the world.

According to several members of the agricultural community in Lebanon County, in his own way, Wagner has kept alive the traditional American dream.

This is the American dream that has a man go from owning nothing to working hard and eventually owning property and supporting a family. It is a dream that knows no class restrictions or social limitations, but allows that individuals have equal chance to succeed or fail.

The modern version of the great American dream is rife with quick deals and swindles, treasure hunts and lottery windfalls, lawbreaking or bending and getting away with it.

If Wagner's story was told 25 years ago, it would have been more believable. A hundred years ago it was common.

Today it is not.

Wagner's story is straightfoward: he had an unhappy childhood; left the family farm after high school with nothing; worked as a hired hand on several different farms; met his wife, the daughter of the fourth farmer to hire him; eventually the two rented a farm; saved money for a down payment, got a bank loan and bought a farm.

It has taken years of work for the two. There continue to be day-to-day decisions of what is most important and what is not absolutely needed, and sacrifices.

But perhaps most important of all, it has taken the 16-year-old marriage and close relationship of Vincent and Julia to provide the strength to keep going when things didn't look good.

"When we got married, all I had was a pickup truck and loan payments (for the truck)," Vincent said. His wife owned five cows and four heifers. That was the start of their current herd that averages 60 milking Holsteins and about 60 replacements.

Currently, Wagner is president of the Lebanon County Holstein Association, The couple has one of the best herds in the county, their daughter Stephanie is alternate county dairy princess, and the farm is a Dairy of Distinction.

Successful Program Into Fourth Year

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

Eighty-one farms were added to the list of Dairy of Distinction winners across Pennsylvania this year. This totals 361 beautiful dairy farms so designated since the program began four years ago.

Each year, the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction Program undertakes the ambitious task of selecting the most attractive of the state's 13,700 dairy farms. Teams of judges working in 10 districts survey several hundred farms entered in the competition. These judges rate each farm for neatness, maintenance and roadside appearance. In the Pennsylvania program, the sanitarian for the farm's milk handler or cooperative is included on the team of judges. The program is run on a very low budget and involves person who act as volunteers in each district.

Funding has come from both the American Dairy Association/ Dairy Council and the Pennsylvania Milk Promotion Program at the state level. Numerous business organizations have helped at the disrict level. In addition, Lancaster Farming provides a color portrait enlargement of each farm from negatives supplied by each district.

Each Dairy of Distinction receives a farm sign and a certificate from the Pennsylvania state program in addition to the color portrait from Lancaster Farming. These awards are presented as an incentive to keep farms beautiful and to help consumers to have a favorable impression of the source of their dairy products. In addition, the awards provide incentive for

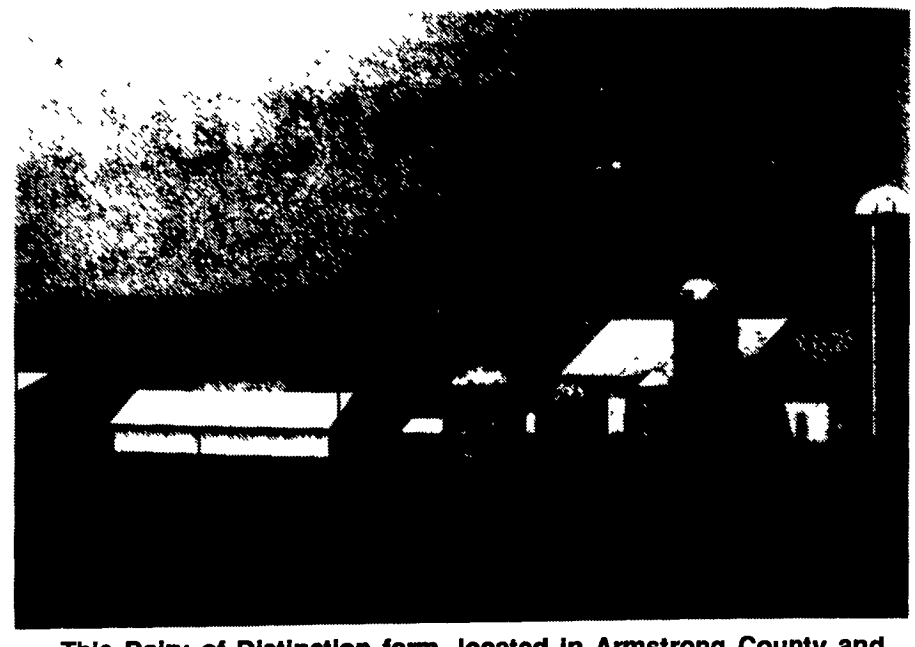
John and Bonnie Hess are not alone in milking 180 grade and registered Holsteins on this 1,500 acre farm. All four children, John II, Josie, Jayne and Joy and three hired hands (one full time, two part time) and John split duties to bring in a herd average of 18,500 pounds of milk per cow, take care of 170 head of young stock and cash crop a lot of corn silage, haylage and hay. In addition to meeting the needs of an every hungry herd, the cash crop business comprises about 30- to 40-percent of the sales from the farm. The girls in the family do all the cow work and beginning with June, they switched to a noon and midnight milking schedule. The result: cows eat more, produce more milk, and are saved from stress during the hot days. Although the schedule is a trial, Josie said it will probably stay this way. Formerly the schedule had been at 3 a.m. and 3 p.m. Feeding times have not changed, but feed available and eaten during other times of the day, she said. Additionally, Josie said the traditional milking times still in use probably are now just hangovers from times before electric lights. Whether or not cows were best milked at those times is not known, but logic shows that sunup and sunset milkings best fit human activity without the aid of electric lights. The high producers in the herd also get cooled with a sprinkler system and the milking is done in a California flat parlor. The farm has been in the family for 23 years.

Armstrong County



This Dairy of Distinction farm, located in Armstrong County and operated by E. Stuart Claypoole, is located on 250 acres. The average for this 60-head Holstein herd is 16,000 pounds. Fifty young stock are maintained on the farm, in the family for 60 years. Stuart operates the farm with his son, Donald, 35. They use a tie stall and feed a mixture of corn, haylage, and corn silage. They also operate a dry manure storage system.

James McKee, Kittanning

This 300-acre Dairy of Distinction farm, located in Kittanning, is operated by James A. McKee. Although they don't belong to DHIA, the farm, operated soley by McKee, has been in the family 114 years. The tie-stall operation includes 40 head of Holstein and 95 young and dry stock.

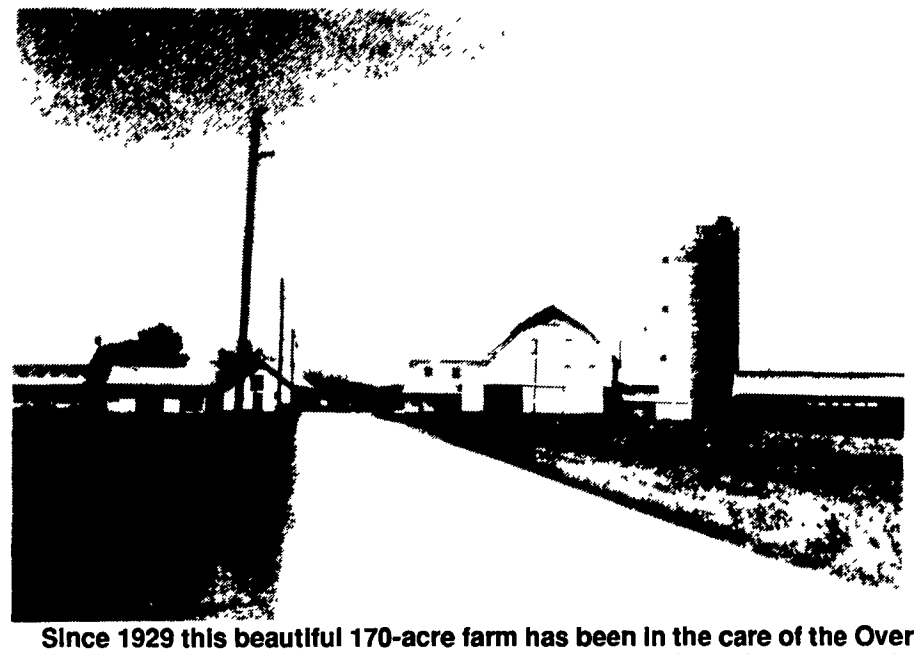
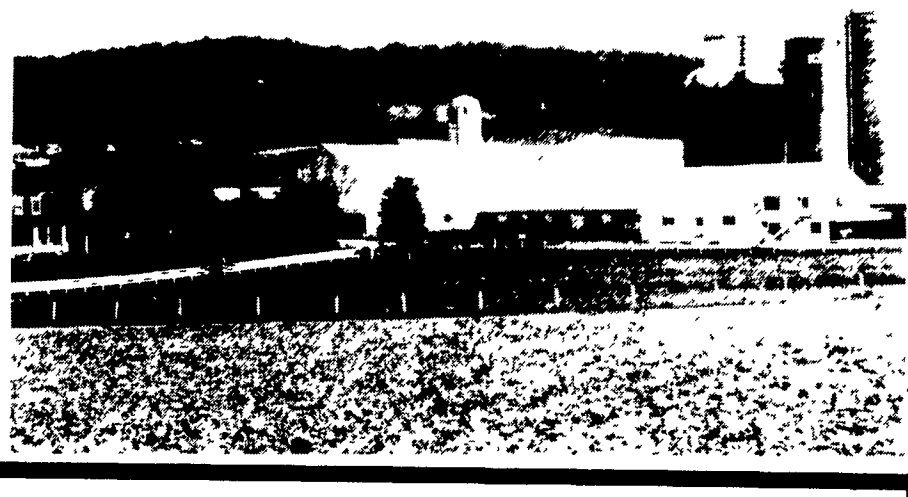
Fair Farms is plural for good reason; Ralph and Geraldine Fair have about 600 acres on 6 farms that were combined over four generations to create the dairy operation. The main farm is located about 4 miles west of Mann's Choice on Rt. 31. The couple milk 65 grade Holsteins that are not on test. They keep about as many young stock for replacement. Of the couple's children, two help out on the farm and three are currently going to University of Pittsburgh.



Since 1929 this beautiful 170-acre farm has been in the care of the Over lineage. Now husband and wife Byron and Delma keep Cove Crest Farms in business with a herd of about 64 milking Registered Holsteins and about 40 young stock. The place is located along Rt. 36, about 5 miles south of Roaring Spring. The registered animals produce and average 21,900 pounds of milk for the couple with a 792 butterfat and 704 protein content marketed through Atlantic Dairies. Some hired help keeps things moving on the strictly milk sales operation. The barn is free stall and the manure is handled through a semi-solid system.



This 1,300 acre farm is run by a father and son team, Obie and Bruce Snider. Located along Rt. 220 at Imler, the farm is called Singing Brook Farms and the team milk about 200 registered Holsteins and cash crop corn on anywhere from 200 to 250 acres. According to Obie Snider, the rolling herd average is 19,800 and replacement stock number about 185. The farm has been in the family since 1951 and has seen some changes. The two milk with a rotary parlor twice a day and have a liquid manure system. Other sources of revenue to the farm include the sale of breeding stock, bulls, and embryos.

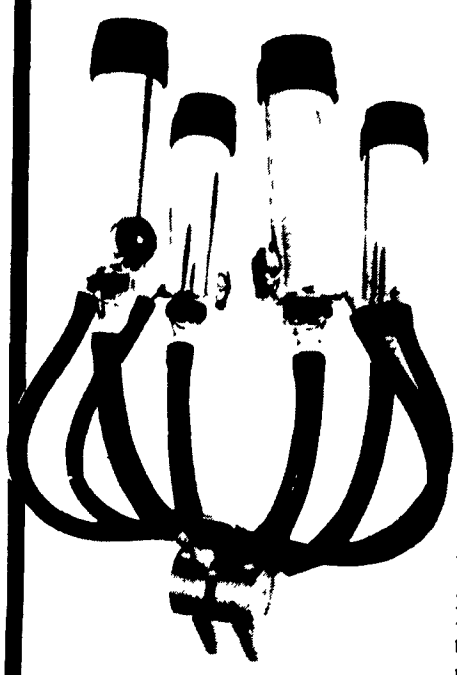
WESTFALIA SYSTEMS

THE WESTFALIA BIO-MILKER

WESTFALIA SYSTEMS

It's Something Else!



Would Fast Milking, Good Clean Milk Out, Minimal Liner Slip And Reduced Udder Stress Benefit Your Cow's Performance?

WHO IS THE PATENTED BIO-MILKER FOR?

Any Dairyman Concerned With Both Udder Health And Milking Efficiency.

The Bio-Milker features a synchronized automatic air-inlet valve just under the teat tip. Air enters only during the release phase. A perfectly timed air burst quickly moves the milk away from the teat. This reduces the risk of infection by limiting teat impacts. Also, vacuum is utilized to provide a biologically desired pressure release of teat tissue. Westfalia's Bio-Milker is the ultimate in milking quality.

In 1920, Dalton Biehl's grandfather purchased a 100-acre farm in Kutztown. Today Biehl and his wife Vickie manage the Corner View Farm that is owned by his parents, Leroy and Mildred.

Both families live on the farm. Biehl built a house on the land while his parents remain in the stone homestead.

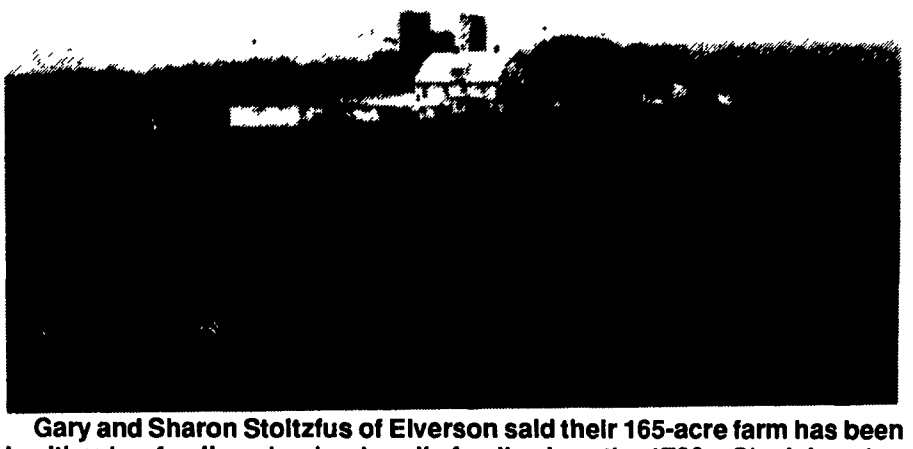
Dalton and Vickie have two children Bradley, 10; and Kelly, 8. Bradley helps with the milking and according to his father, "He wants to do more than he should."

Kelly was the 1988 Little Miss Berks County Dairy Miss.



Gary and Sharon Stoltzfus of Elverson said their 165-acre farm has been in either her family or her husband's family since the 1700s. She jokes that she married her husband to get the farm back in the family. The farm is owned by Gary's dad, Marvin.

The Stoltzfuses have three children, ages 4,6, and 8.

Cross Country Farms, located two miles south of Williamsburg, near Clover Creek Road, includes more than 500 acres of land, although only about 300 is actually farmed. The farm has been in the family since 1875 and has just qualified for a Century Farm this year. J. Edward Biddle and son Michael milk about 115 mixed grade and registered Holsteins and keep about 125 young stock on hand. In addition to a double-six herringbone milking parlor, the Biddles have used a computerized feeder for the last four years that the Biddles claim has paid for itself in the first year. The farm is also a farm vacation home that goes by the name of Clover Paradise and is run La Donna Biddle, wife of Edward. She said the vacation home is designed for couples with children who would like to enjoy the country and expose their young to rural life and farm animals. Additionally, Edward has converted the top of an old barn into a small museum for farm equipment.

McCutcheon's Maple Kroft Farm comprises 410 acres of mixed forest and tillable soils and serves as the site of a 55-cow milking herd of mostly grade Holsteins. To make life at the farm even sweeter, the maple trees that line the farm lane give up about 5 gallons of pancake syrup to the father and son-in-law operation. In the family since 1950, Joseph and Vevala McCutcheon and Vevala's father and mother, Joseph C. Sr. and June, keep about 35 replacement heifers and calves and the milking herd produces about 16,650 pounds of milk testing about 3.6 butterfat. History is reputed to surround the farmsite: The barn was built in 1851 and probably housed the cavalry during the Civil War. Located between Altoona and Tyrone, along Rt. 220, in the mountain basin of Sinking Valley, Vevala said the family has the best of both worlds; being able to commute to either city for shopping trips and retreating back over a mountain ridge to the calm and quietude of their home. The woodlands on the farm are primarily walnut and cherry hardwoods and are harvested from time to time. Joseph and Vevala have three daughters, Racheal, Leah, and Sara.

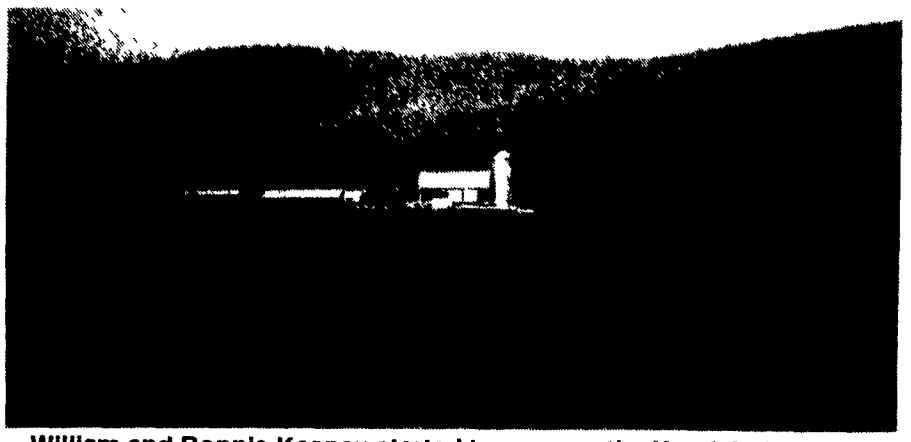
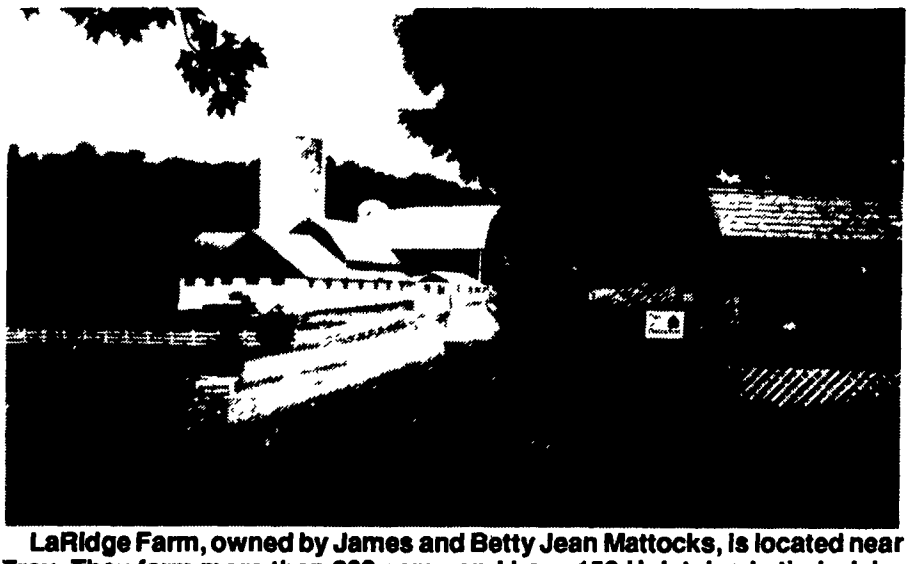
At Bid-Mor Farms they farm 650 acres to feed their 200 head dairy herd of Holsteins. John Morley with his son Don and grandson Stan farm the place along with Herbert VanDerpoole and his son Kevin. Stanley Bidlack owns the farm since 1949. They have a tie-stall barn with a pipeline milker.



William and Bonnie Keeney started to manage the Kendale farm twelve years ago and later bought the business and started to rent the farm. They have Registered Holsteins with a 17,500 lb. herd average. The family includes William Jr., a freshman at Delaware Valley, Mercena, a junior in high school, Ellen in grade eight, Nick in grade two and Paul in grade one. The farm is located near Wyalousing and the Camptown race trail runs through their farm.



LaRidge Farm, owned by James and Betty Jean Mattocks, is located near Troy. They farm more than 200 acres and have 150 Holsteins in their dairy herd. The farm has been in the family for over 100 years. Son David and his wife Gail and three daughters: Stacy, 11; Holly, 9 and Jolene 6, are part of the farming operation. In addition, the Mattocks have two other married children, James Kevin and Sandra and five more grandchildren.

Will-Val Farm, located near New Albany, is owned by a family partnership of Frank and Marilyn Carr and includes 250 acres, 115 Holsteins, and a saw mill and logging operation. The farm has been in the family for 30 years. The partnership includes Frank Sr. and sons Richard and Frank Jr. and son-in-law Jay Stanton. Richard and his wife Katie have three children, Richard Jr., 16; Brian, 14; and Colleen, 10. Frank Jr. and his wife Connie have two children, Shauna 3, and Brandon 1. Jay and Sue have two children, Jason 13 and Kelly 9. And an older sister Bonnie is married to William Keeney. The Keeney family, also won a Dairy of Distinction award and are featured under Kendale Farm.

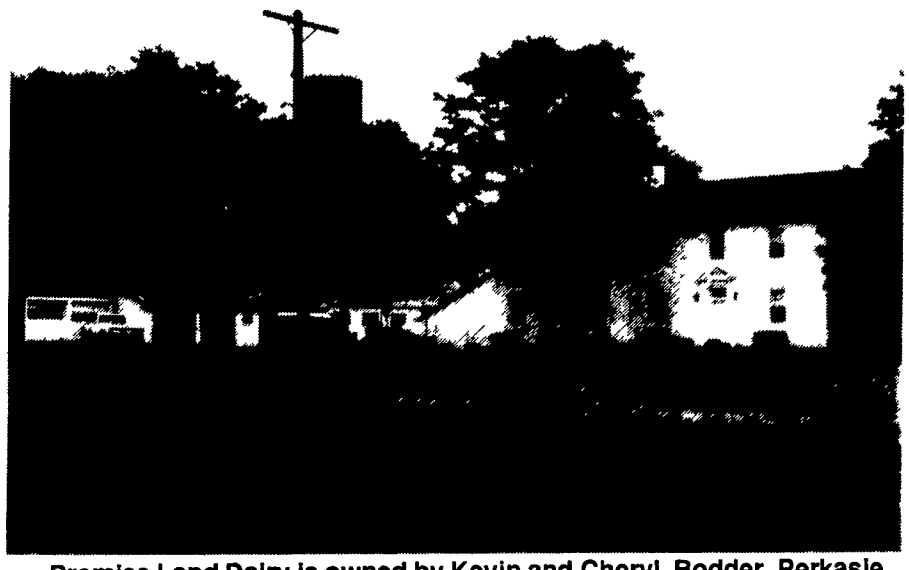
The dairy herd at Delaware Valley College has three breeds, Ayrshire, Brown Swiss and Holstein and is used as a teaching facility for students. They have 50 milk cows and 50 heifers and calves. The dairy herd was moved to the new barn in February, 1989. A double-five parlor features computerized quick-exit milking and TMR feeding is also computerized. The barn has 51 free-stalls and when completed will also include comfort stalls. The Holstein herd average is over 19,000 lbs. of milk.



Promise Land Dairy is owned by Kevin and Cheryl Bodder, Perkasie. They started on their own three years ago, but the farm has been in the family for more than 40 years. The 70 registered Holsteins produce over 20,000 lbs. of milk and are housed in a tie-stall barn. A computer feeding system is used. The Bodder have one son, Justin, who is 14 months old.

Cambria County

Just 2.½ years ago, husband and wife Larry and Pattie Baker bought this 110-acre farm to milk 90 grade and registered Holsteins. Located 2 miles south of Loretto, the Baker farm is run by the couple with the help of a hired man. Up until now, they have kept no replacement stock, but are getting started with young stock. The herd has recorded about a 19,200 pounds milk rolling herd average on a twice a day milking. The couple moved from Blair County after dissolving a brother partnership on the home farm, but have retained the heritage of the family farm — that farm is a Dairy of Distinction also.

Dairy of Distinction
Dairy Farm Beautification Program

Crawford County

John Schmidt operates this farm in Conneautville, where he grows alfalfa, claiming sole proprietorship of the "only field of alfalfa grown here in the valley, because it's do dry." Schmidt farms 150 acres and raises 49 head of Holstein and 20 young stock. His milking average is 22,500 pounds. He purchased the farm in January this year.

Dan and Lydia Ann Yoder in Hartstown, Pennsylvania, operate this 150-acre Dairy of Distinction farm in Hartstown, Pennsylvania along with five children, Margaret, 17; Virginia, 15; Faith, 11; Daniel, 9; and Aaron, 5. They milk 42 head of Holstein and maintain 35 young stock on this farm, in the family for 20 years.

Cumberland County

This farm run by M. Thomas and Cindy Sheaffer sits on 400 acres and is home to a herd of registered Holsteins, split down about 60 milking, 60 heifers and about 30 bulls for breeding. The husband and wife operation is located along Lebo Road, and has been in the family for seven generations. The herd averages about 19,500 pounds milk and has a BAA classification of 108.4. In addition to selling milk, the Sheaffers sell a number of bulls for breeding.

Cumberland County

Everything to this Dairy of Distinction may not be evident to the eye. John III and Diane (Balsh) Stamy farm about 1,000 acres altogether, but the main farm, has about 245 acres. The original Balsh family farm goes back to 1859, and its 64 acres is included in much larger Stamy operation. The farm is located along Balsh Road. Two sons help out on the farm. John IV works fulltime and does all the AI works. The other son, Neil, is helping until the end of summer when he goes to Delaware College. An avid athlete in high school, Neil is pursuing studies in agronomy and environmental science. For the time being he is helping his father and brother with registered milk herd of 226 on test. Altogether the operation has about 350 head of dairy cattle at any one time. The farm claims a rolling herd avarage of about 16,900 pounds milk. Diane is a fulltime math teacher at Big Spring High School and head of the math department. To help out with the large operation, the family hires three men; one fulltime milker, the other fills in with field and milking and the other is part time. The milking is done in a double-six parlor and recently the family doubled the size of their free stall barn. Additionally, a bull pen is under construction. The operation keeps at least one good bull in the herd, especially if there is any problem cows. John and Diane originally started farming in at his father's place (originally an Ayrshire herd, that switch to Holstein) in Newville, then in 1969 took over the herd of 150. In 1976 the couple purchased the Balsh family farm and since then, two adjoining farms. Apparently being ahead of their time, the Stamy home farm, Diamond Jubilee, was written up in 1954 for being an all-electric farm. John III has been involved in large scale dairy farming all his life. The Stamy's are very committed to registration of their herd. Currently they have three grade animals. The couple has a grandson, Ian, 3, and John IV and his wife, Stephanie live on the second farm.

Elk County

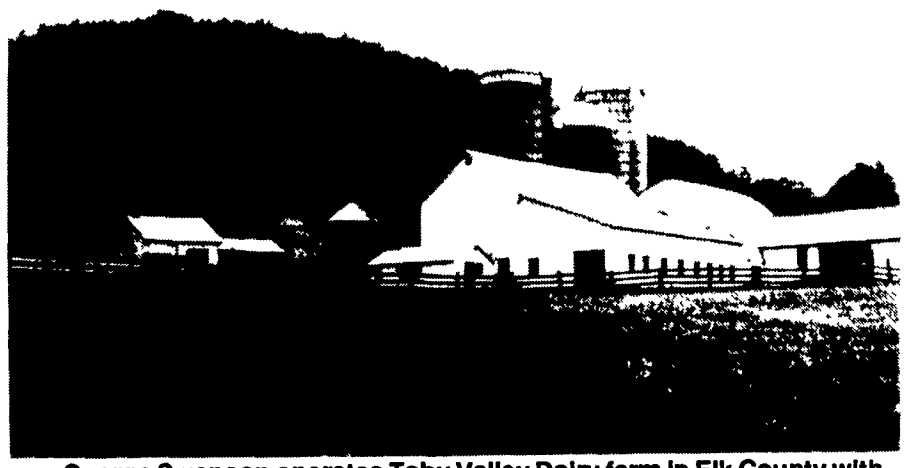
Ayrshire Dairy Farm, in Elk County, is operated by Charles Uhl, his brother James, sister Gertrude Hippchen, and James' son Timothy, 21, and nephews Steven, 19 and Wesley, 19. More than 300 acres are farmed, with Ayrshires and Holsteins numbering about 110 head, and the young stock numbers about 35. The farm has been in the family for about 74 years. Ayrshire Dairy also operates a dairy store on the farm which has self-service gas. An Ayrshire cow, made of fiberglass and measuring 15 feet tall, 20 feet long, and 5 feet wide at a total of 1,200 pounds has greeted visitors for 25 years — and has often been the background for many wedding and other pictures by vistors to the farm, said Gertrude.



George Swanson operates Toby Valley Dairy farm in Elk County with 300 acres. The herd average for the 35 head of Holsteins is 14,000 pounds and 40 young stock are maintained on the farm. The Dairy of Distinction farm has been in the family about 50 years, according to George's wife, Ann. The farm is operated by George A. Swanson, Ann, and nephews Pete Vollmer, 18 and Pat Vollmer, 16 and Scott Vollmer, 21, in addition to a stepson, Allen Ginther, 14. While farming may be hard and time-consuming, the Swansons also drive three schoolbuses for schools in the St. Marys area.

Erie County

Robert McLaughlin, his wife Jan and son Joe, 12, operate this 135-acre farm in McKean, Pennsylvania. They raise 35 head of Holstein and their herd average is 16,900 pounds. The farm has been in the family about 110 years.

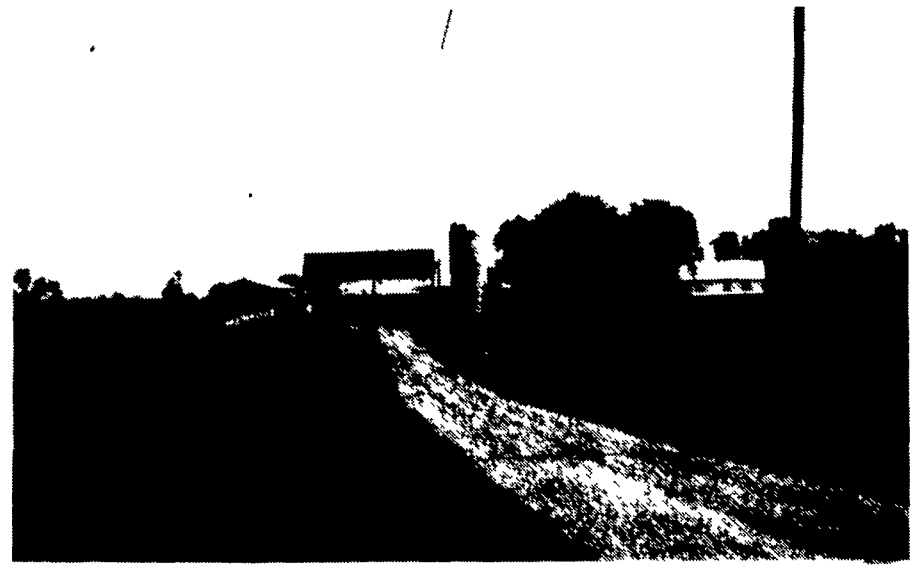
Barry and Carol Coffman, Normalville, farm 100 acres to feed their 100 registered Holstein dairy herd. They milk in a double three herringbone milking parlor and house their cows in free-stalls. Carol's great grandfather built the farm buildings in 1910. Barry and Carol have two children, Justin, age 4 and Joshua age 2.

Franklin County



Robert and Rhodena Eckstine own about 170 head of registered Holsteins, and milk about 45, keeping about the same number in young stock. The average milk production is about 17,500 milk, about 3.7 percent butterfat. The husband and wife operation has been in business about 20 years.

Franklin County

The husband and wife operators of this farm are second generation tenants. Lester and Tina Lehman rent this 130-acre dairy from Melvin Hargleroode who had also rented the farm to Tina's parents, J. Elden Eby and Marie. The young couple have two sons who will most likely grow up on the property — J. Colby, 3, and Timothy, 2. The Lehmans milk about 40 registered and grade Holsteins and have another 40 in reserve stock. Production is around 14,500 pounds milk. As tenants, Lester said "I didnt' do it (win the Dairy of Distinction award) alone. It was along with the landlords, they keep the buildings neet and we keep surroundings neat. That was the way I was brought up (on his father's farm) it is the home farm. We always tried to keep the place cleaned up," he said. The couple milk with a noteworthy and fully functional double-two parlor. If not the first, it was one of the very first parlors to have been installed in Franklin County, according to Lehman. It was installed about 1958. The milkers have been updated several times over the years. The cows at the farm are kept on loose housing on a manure pack and although the property doesn't really have pasture, is does have a sizeable dry lot. The rest of the acreage is split up to about 25 acres of alfalfa, 20 acres wheat, 15 acres barley, and about 70 acres corn.

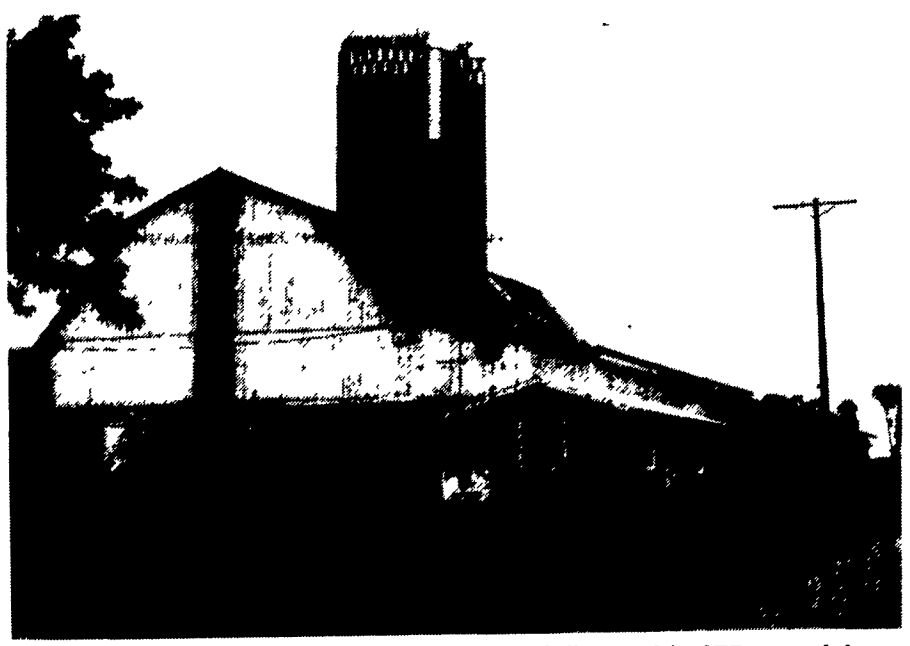
This 180-acre farm sits at the base of South Mountain in a region marked with limestone outcroppings and spring creeks high in pH. For five years, Lynn and Sue Eberly have been in partnership with Lynn's parents, Eugene and Janet Eberly. Altogether the foursome work about about 700 acres of land and milk a mostly registered Holstein herd that averages about 155 in number. About the same number of replacement animals are kept in reserve. A family farm for about 30 years, milk production averages about 18,000 with 680 butterfat. In addition to raising feed for the herd, the Eberlys do some custom crop work for neighbors and raise about 60 acres cash crop of wheat. Through custom, Robert said he does about 1,000 acres of corn and 400 to 500 acres of small grains in the summer for neighbors. He's been doing custom work for seven years. "There was a good need for a combine in the area. Been good to us," he said. Additionally, he also is growing about 130 acres of soybeans for his own use. They are roasted and included in a TMR. He feeds mostly haylage, silage and high moisture ear corn. Two fulltime hired hands help also. The milking is done in a double-six parlor with indexing fronts that have been in place about six months. The barn is free stall. Dry cows are kept in loose housing on bedded pack. The operation relies on a cleanup bull and have their breeding interval right at 13 months average.

Indiana County



Paper bedding has been used successfully on this 375-acre dairy farm in Marion Center, Pennsylvania. About 100 head, comprising mostly Holstein and some Jersey, are maintained on the farm, in addition to about 80 young stock. Herd average is about 20,000 pounds. The farm, in the family about 200 years, is operated by Timothy Wallace, wife Leslie, and Tim's brother Tom, wife Kathy and the brothers' father, Lawrence and his wife Georgina. "We recently incorporated paper bedding and have had some good results," said Leslie. "We have a paper shredded and have had no problem getting paper."

Juniata County

The 190 acre Will-Mae Acres Farm is located near Mifflintown. William, Anna Mae and Son Kevin Peoples have a family operation with 42 Holsteins in the milking herd that produce over 17,000 lbs. of milk. They have a tie-stall barn. The farm has been in the family for more than 120 years.

From Nothing To Farming, It Can Still Be Done

Vicnent said. "I worked at different farms and it was the best education I ever had.

"I saw how to do things right. I never thought at the time that what I was doing would benefit me in the future," he said.

When talking about the farm, Wagner seems almost in disbelief that he actually has the farm. It seems apparent that in his inner struggle to better himself he, with the help of his wife, has created an external vision of quality — the family farm.

A visit of the Wagner farm reveals how practicality can go hand in hand with beauty. There is not a wasted inch of space on the 52-acre farm. His wife takes care of the ornamental aspects of garden and flower beds and her ornamental horticultural studies in high school and taste are apparent.

Wagner said he is committed to maintaining a high quality ration for his herd, even to the point of buying 22-percent protein hay from Colorado, having his total mixed ration (TMR) calculated and managed by a consultant, and stressing one thing over all others — making milk.

"You have a certain amount of costs, no matter what you have. With breeding you may pay $10 to $15 extra to breed a cow, but in the long run that extra could prove to be cheap (investment)," he said.

Ventilation was not adequate in an area adjoining the tie-stall area. With the help of a carpenter, the roof was raised and extended over an area for dry cows.

The result has been better ventilation and cooler conditions for not only the dry animals, but improved ventilation and lower summer temperatures has extended to the milking barn and other areas.

His herd averages 21,456 pounds of milk, 827 pounds butterfat and 677 pounds protein.

He has high quality animals also. He currently milks five home bred Excellents and has one line that has currently is displaying good genetics — No. 163 made 1,000 bf as a 2-year-old, the third generation to make more than that.

Her dam, No. 119 is at 1,248 bf in current lactation and is projected at 1,400 bf.

The herd is traceable to three significant cow lines. One from his wife's original nine animals. One of those went on to be rated Excellent and made a lifetime record of 248,000 pounds of milk.

With the help of his family, including young son Christopher, he runs his farm pretty much according to the way experts are recommending it be done. His calves are held isolated in a small facility and get lots of individual care. Then after about six weeks they are moved into another facility where three or four are housed together to get them used to herd life. From there they go to another area and join more young heifers until they get to breeding age. Dry cows are allowed to stay in with the heifers.

He keeps a separate freshening area and is strict about disease control. A foot bath and regular toe trimmings are part of the regular herd maintainance.

But in addition to the milking, Wagner also markets bulls.

He lives in a dairy community populated by many Plain people who don't use aritificial insemination or in addition to AI, like to keep a "clean-up bull" on hand.

Wagner doesn't have to do much advertisement to market these young bulls. He hangs a sign that he has bulls available and they are usually quickly taken.

Currently he has one bull he is going to try to proof on his own, rent out services to local dairymen instead of selling the bull outright.

But this difference in operation, this sideline from strict stressing milk production, is another aspect of Wagner's varied on-farm education.

"The first place I went to — I was thinking big farms — had 200 cows and 1,000 acres. I didn't like it. We never got caught up with the work," he said.

"The next place, he just farmed. The third place, he taught me a lot about cows and the fourth place was Roy and Betty Sattazahn's," he said. They are his in-laws. He was one heck of a field man," Vincent said.

The rounded education has given Wagner the ability to grow good crops with high feed value and maintain a high producing herd.

His attention to detail and total involvement in the operation and functionality of the total dairy operation has also made it an attractive and clean place to work.

"I would advise anybody who wants to start farming to work on a least two different farms," Wagner said. He said that today's farmer has to be more than a specialist in one area. He must be a specialist in several different fields, but also he must be able to tailor his farm operations to what works best.

According to Wagner, it is because so many people manage farms differently, getting a first-hand working experience of how several farms operate is the only way to develop an individual style. It's the only way to have a wide variety of experiences to fall back on when problems arise and solutions are needed.

"I started with nothing and it can be done today too," he said.

"You just have to do with less. There are time in this business, I could quickly throw it up, the frustration. But you got to look at all the good things."

A Letter From President Baker

As I reflect back to the first meeting that was held to organize Dairy of Distinction in Pennsylvania, the question was, are we going to get any applications? We did know the farms were out there and now in our fourth year after designation more than 250 farms already, we still had 151 applications and named 82 winners for 1990.

There are many more farms that have not applied, farms that would score 90 or better. I hope in the near future that these farms will apply for this prestigious award. In addition, some have applied who did not make it because of higher scoring farms in the early years. They should try again.

For the farms that have their signs, we hope you will continue to keep your farm up to the 90 score. Each year the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council and the Pennsylvania Milk Promotion Program have supported the Dairy of Distinction program. Why? Because, a clean and neat dairy farm helps to sell milk.

We hope that in the future, other businesses and organizations will also help support this fine program.

The program is run by volunteers. And we want to thank all the volunteers for their hard work and dedication to the Dairy of Distinction program, for making 1990 another great year.

See you at Ag Progress Days!

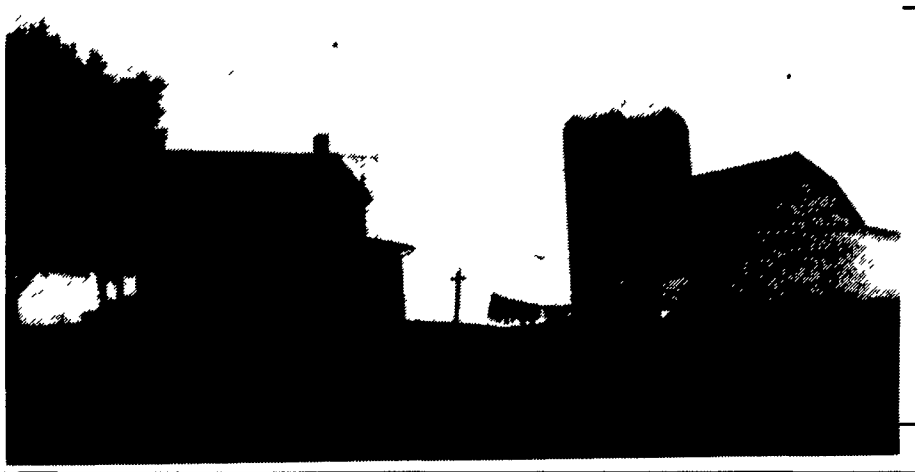
Charles and Ruby Wochley, Mt. Pleasant Mills, farm three farms for a total of 420 acres. They have 60 Holstein milk cows and raise all their calves--the heifers for replacement in the milking herd and the bulls for steer beef. Charles was a boy when his father bought the farm 45 years ago. The Wochleys have three married daughters, Colleen Ritter, Jeanett Kauffman and Diann Sheaffer.

Lawrence County

Lawrence-Haven Holsteins are behind this Dairy of Distinction located near New Castle. Owned by Paul and Penny Lawrence, the 60 milk cows produce over 18,000 lbs. of milk and are housed in a new barn. A fire destroyed the old barn last spring. The farm has been the family for 15 years and they sell jug raw milk at the farm. Since they are the only farm family in their school district, they have many opportunities to host school children on visits to their farm. They try to do their part to promote dairy products right at home. Paul and Penny have five children, Matthew, 14; Jess, 12; Greg, 9; Mark, 5; Eric 3, and Amy 1.



Lawrence County

Dave and Dewayne McConnell operate this 300-acre dairy farm in Volant, Pennsylvania, which includes 52 head of Holstein and 50 young stock. Although the farm is not on DHIA, approximate herd average is 15,500 to 16,000 pounds. They operate milking tie stalls, have added three stalls and an additional 45 freestalls. The farm has been in the family about 40 years and is operated by Dave, Dewayne, and father Richard, in addition to Dave's wife Virginia and daughters Danielle, 10 and Valerie, 8. Virginia said that not enough credit goes to Dave, who, despite having multiple sclerosis, continues to farm "because farming is in his blood," she said.

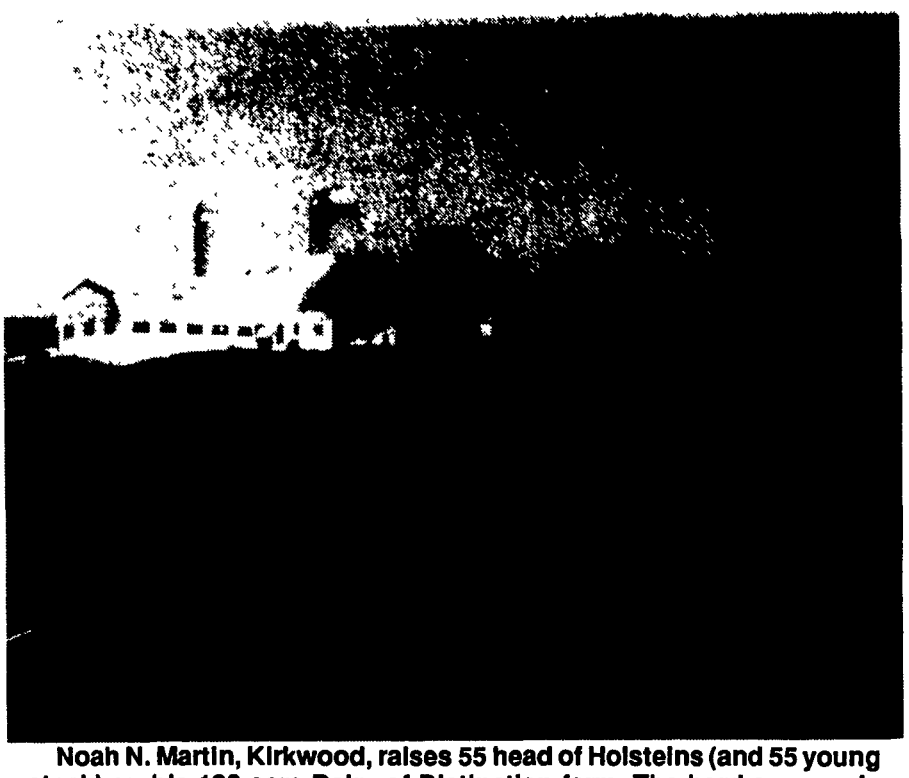
Jay Richard Groff, of Rick-Rac Holsteins, operates a 130-acre Dairy of Distinction farm in Manheim and markets his milk through the Mount Joy Farmers Co-Op. Jay milks 110 head of Holstein and maintains 120 head of young stock. DHIA herd averages 20,500 pounds. The farm has been in the family for about 50 years.

Landyshade Dairy, based near Landisville, boasts about 350 total acres. Landyshade, operated by John L. Landis, his wife Doris, and son John, operate a freestall setup and milk about 268 head of Holstein and 200 young stock. DHIA herd average is 18,000 pounds. The farm has been in the family about 35 years. John also operates a bark mulch business on the side, called Landyshade Mulch.

Dale R. Hershey rents this 87-acre farm from G. Hershey Hostetter. The Hersheys milk 42 head of Holsteins and maintain about 30 young stock. The DHIA herd average is 20,000 pounds. Dale farms with his wife, Debra. They have a daughter, Debra, 15 months. The farm has been kept looking beautiful, according to Dale, by his family and the Hostetters.



Noah N. Martin, Kirkwood, raises 55 head of Holsteins (and 55 young stock) on his 130-acre Dairy of Distinction farm. The herd average is 17,500 pounds. Noah markets his milk through the Atlantic Dairy Co-Op.

J. Kenneth (Ken) Hoffer runs this Manheim Dairy of Distinction farm on 93 acres. He milks 46 head of Holstein and maintains 40 young stock on this farm, in the family for 75 years. Ken is in business with his wife, Lois, and their son, Kevin, 28.

Maplebrook Farms in Manheim boasts 85 Holstein cows and 110 young stock. J. Kenneth (Ken) Miller farms about 400 acres, and the location has been in the family about 55 years. Milking herd average is 18,500 pounds, and Ken farms with his wife, Dorcas, and son, Kervin, 26, in addition to Kervin's wife, Darlene, and their sons Wesley, 3 and Brent, 2. They have one hired hand. Ken also sells Vigortone premixes from Vigortone Ag Products, based in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Dorcas operates a cake decorating business in her own home, with two ovens.

Lebanon County

The Wagners buy all the hay and 65 percent of the grain needed for their Ju-Vindale Holsteins, which has 60 registered Holsteins, 60 young stock, and four bulls that are AI studs. The herd averages 21,456 pounds with 827 pounds fat.

Vincent said, "We take good care of our cows. We put more emphasizes on cows than on farming a lot of ground."

The Wagners buy all their hay and 65 percent of the grain. "That way we don't need a lot of big equipment," he said.

The buildings are clean and neat; the grounds landscaped with flowers and shrubbery, the roadsides neatly mowed.

"I hate weeds," Juliet said, "so I keep the place clean while my husband manages the dairy. We like to ship a quality product; and we encourage our children to pursue ag careers."

Daughter Stephanie is the 1989-90 Lebanon County Alternate Princess.

The 127-acre Myerstown farm was actually a beef farm until 10 years ago when the Zimmermans switched to dairy because beef was not selling well enough.

The Zimmermans milk 65 Holsteins of which half are registered. In 1989, they averaged 21,200 pounds of milk. The Zimmermans keep about 50 young stock.

The husband and wife team have a milking parlor and freestall setup. Two years ago, the Zimmermans switched to three times a day milking. They noticed a big difference in milk production that first year with an average of 2,500 pounds per cow.

Another characteristic of the Zimmerman's herd is that they are fed a total mixed ration that includes chocolate from Hershey.

Dale Hoover, Lebanon

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hoover purchased their picturesque farm in Valley three years ago.

They have 70 milking cows, 70 young stock and they fatten 200 steers. The dairy herd averages 19,900 pounds of milk with 690 pounds of fat.

The Hoovers own 94 acres but farm 175 acres with Dale's two brothers who live on adjoining farms.

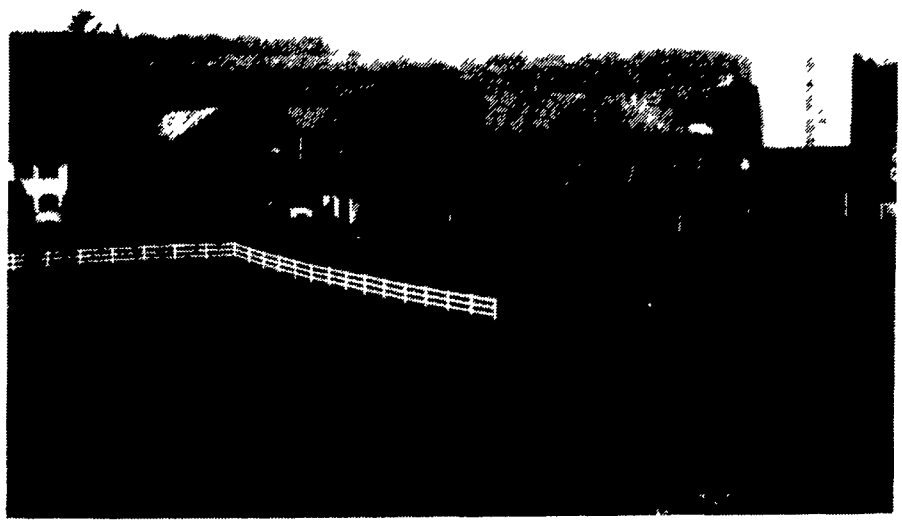
Lehigh County



Ray and Karen Moyer are the proud managers of Junge Farms Inc. The Lehigh Valley farm in New Tripoli has 864 acres, and the Moyers farm an additional 300 rented acres.

The Moyers milk 90 Holsteins of the 200-head herd. They fatten the bulls and a litter of pigs, have them butchered, and sell them by the half.

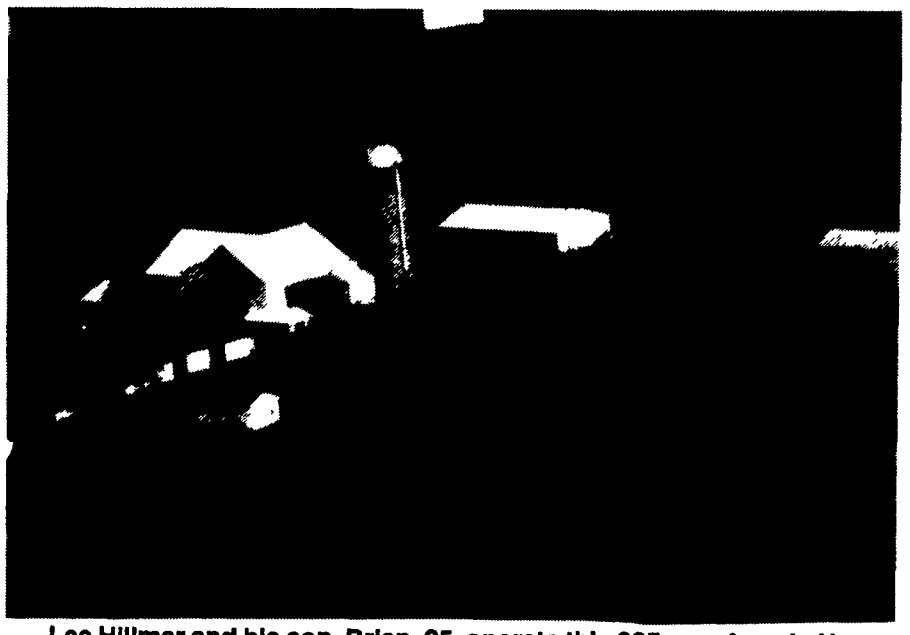
The herd averages 21,784 pounds with 840 pounds of fat.

For 21 years, the Moyers have managed the Junge farm. Karen said, "Even though we aren't owners, we feel responsible to be good stewards and to conserve the land."

The Moyers have three children, ages 21, 18, and 16, that help on the farm. They also have four fulltime employees for the farm, which does its own embryo work.

Daughter Suzanne is the current Berks County Dairy Princess. She works with the calves and also has a miniature horse business.

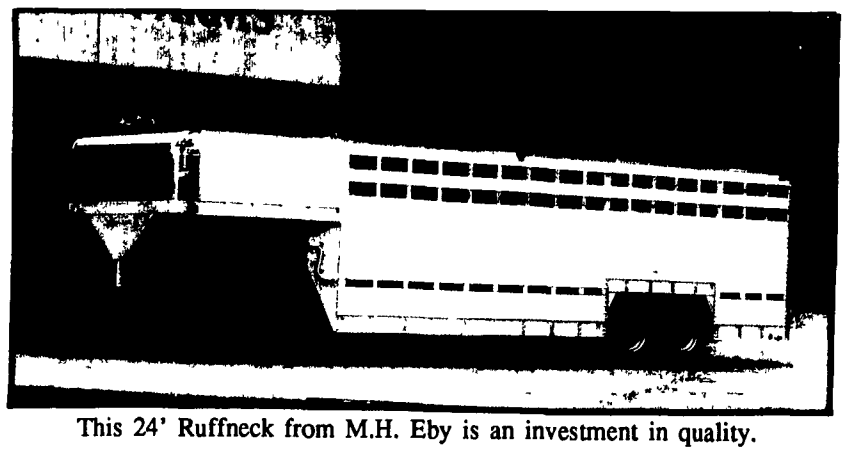
Mercer County



Lee Hillmar and his son, Brian, 25, operate this 265-acre farm in New Wilmington. They raise 50 head of Holstein and maintain 70 young stock. Herd average is 15,000 pounds. The farm has been in the family for 20 years.

Mercer County

This farm, operated by Paul Sprinkle in Sandy Lake, Pennsylvania, stands on 150 acres. The milk cows are 43 head of Holstein, and Paul purchases all replacement stock. The farm, in the family for 16 years, is operated by Paul and stepson Duane, 16.



This 24' Ruffneck from M.H. Eby is an investment in quality.

Your cows deserve the best

A new aluminum trailer, like this one from E.M. Eby, Inc., looks bright and clean when it comes from the factory. The surprising thing is it stays bright and clean for years — with very little maintenance.

Aluminum offers another big advantage over conventional wood and steel trailer construction. It's lighter — as much as 35% lighter.

Dairy of Distinction

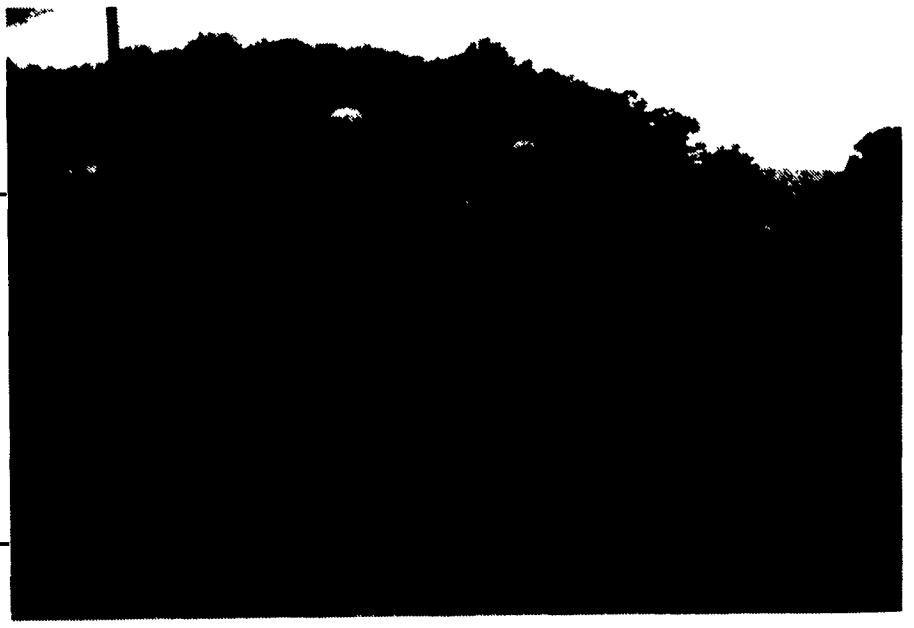
Mifflin County

William and Michael Ammon are father and son partners in this Dairy of Distinction farm located near Lewistown. They farm 300 acres on two farms and have 70 cows and 75 heifers and calves. The herd average is over 20,000 lbs. of milk. Michael is the fifth generation of Ammons on the farm and he has two sisters, Ellen, a freshman at Lancaster Bible College and Cristine, in high school.

The top herd in Mifflin County last year was the registered Holstein herd of Russell and Debra Kline located near McVeytown. The 100 head of dairy cows and young stock are identified by the prefix, Vern-Lee and produce over 23,000 lbs of milk and 900 lbs of butterfat. The Kline family moved from Lancaster County in 1984.



LaRue and Faylene Maurer, have a milking herd of 45 Holsteins (mostly registered) and 30 heifers and calves. They have owned the farm since 1973 and have combined their names to form their prefix, La-Fay Farm. The most recent herd average was 19,446 lbs. of milk and 711 lbs. of butterfat. The farm is located near Lewistown in Mifflin Co.

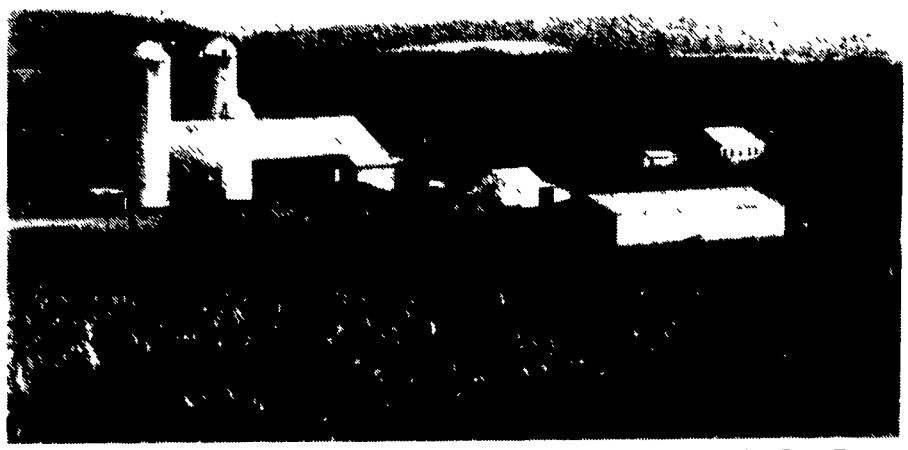
The Barnview Farm of Robert and Berneice Gabel family is located at New Port, and has been in the family 99 years. They have 45 Holstein milk cows that average between 19,000 and 20,000 lbs. of milk. Total dairy animals including young stock is 100 head head. Son Robert is a senior at Penn state in dairy production and daughter Roxanne works in Navy personnel. Two long-time employees help with the operation. Ed Trout has been on the farm for 18 years and Corey Mullen for four years. The Gabel's have been actrive in the Dairy of Distinction program since it started in Pennsylvania.



The Frank and Lorena Rice family farm 325 acres near Blain. Son Danny and daughter-in-law Jane have the dairy herd and David, an attorney and daughter Loretta help out on weekends. The prefix for the herd of 175 Holsteins is FLR Farms. The home farm was purchased by the Rice family in 1954 and another farm was added in 1984. They grow corn alfalfa, wheat and oats.

Schuylkill County

The 250 acre Dairy of Distinction farm of Wilbert and Elaine Moyer is located near Schuylkill Haven. The 75 head of registered Holsteins have El'Bert as their prefix and average over 19,000 lbs. of milk. Grand dad bought the farm in 1914 and cows have made the living since that time. Wilbert and Elaine have three grown children, Nelson, Megan and Mechelle.

"Since my owner is using natural fly control I feel so much better! I'm giving him more and better milk and I don't need to work as hard - especially since I'm not bothered so much with those pesty insects!"

DIATOMACEOUS EARTH INSECTICIDES

Diatomaceous Earth (DE) Insecticides are non-toxic and possess certain qualities that make it possible to kill insects without harming animals, plants or people. If insects lose as much as 10% of their body fluids, they die. D.E. Insecticides help them lose that 10% or more. Because the killing process is "mechanical" rather than "chemical", the insect cannot become immune. This process is safer for animals than any chemical treatment and has widespread applications.

Snyder County

Ernest and Kathy Adams farm 200 acres near Richfield in Snyder County. Their 55 head of Holstein milk cows have just been put on official DHIA test and promise a 20,000 lb. milk average. The Adams family includes three daughters, Jolene, 11; Tina, 8; and Kimberly 6. They started farming in 1980 and began their dairy in 1985. They rent their Dairy of Distinction farm from Gerald and Norma Shaeffer.

The Ric-Be Farm of Richard and Betty Weller is located near Middleburg. Alfalfa and corn are raised to feed the 48 Holstein milk cows and 45 calves and heifers. The operation includes a new manure storage system (gravity flow) and only newspaper bedding is used at the dairy. The Wellers pay their church youth group to keep the farm supplied with newspapers. Richard and Betty have two married children, Steven and Karen, and two grandchildren.

Somerset County

No sideline businesses on this Dairy of Distinction. The 510 acres of Gladview Farms are run by James C. Kimmel, with help from a pair of son-in-laws. Production by the 60 to 75 grade Holsteins averages about 5,800 pounds every other day, according to James, and he keeps about 60 heifers and calves in reserve.

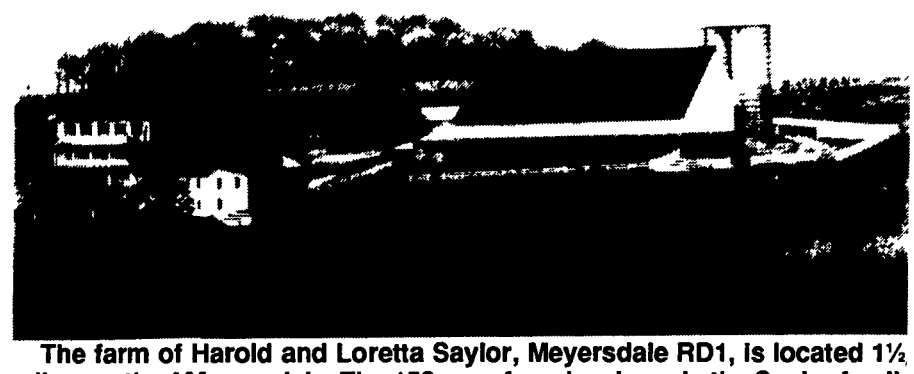
Somerset County

Hillcroft Farms is located about four miles south of Somerset, off Rt. 281. Brothers Roger and Jeff Ling run the farm through a partnership they formed to purchase the operation from their father, Hayes, making them the third generation on the farm. Roger said Hayes still helps out. The two currently milk about 60 grade Holsteins, that average about 19,000 pounds of milk, and the brothers keep about 30 replacement stock on hand. They also raise all their own feed on about 200 acres, 190 tillable acres of the 283-acres farm, and 11 rented. The barn is a 60-stall stanchion. Roger and his wife Ginger and Jeff and his wife Mary live on the farm.



The farm of Harold and Loretta Saylor, Meyersdale RD1, is located 1½ miles north of Meyersdale. The 150-acre farm has been in the Saylor family for more than 100 years and the husband and wife team milk 50 to 55 registered Holsteins. The couple strictly sell milk and currently keep 42 replacement stock.

Not too long ago, this farm was host to 1,000 people as part of the county June Day On The Farm program to promote farm education in the area. With 200 acres and another 50 rented guests got to see fields in barley, corn and alfalfa, a combination tie-stall and free-stall facility, a couple acres of apple orchard and small plot of potatoes for home sales and about 50 registered and grade Hositeins that have been producing about 17,500 pounds of milk on average. There are also about 45 replacement animals. The farm has been in the family since 1923 and, though not an official partnership, now is run by the father-son team of Michael and Dennis Zimmerman. Son Dennis is married to Jane, a registered nurse and the two have a son, Scott, and Brenda, 9 who help out with chores. The farm is located 9 miles north of Somerset, just off Rt. 985 near the village of Sipesville and has a Boswell RD2 address.

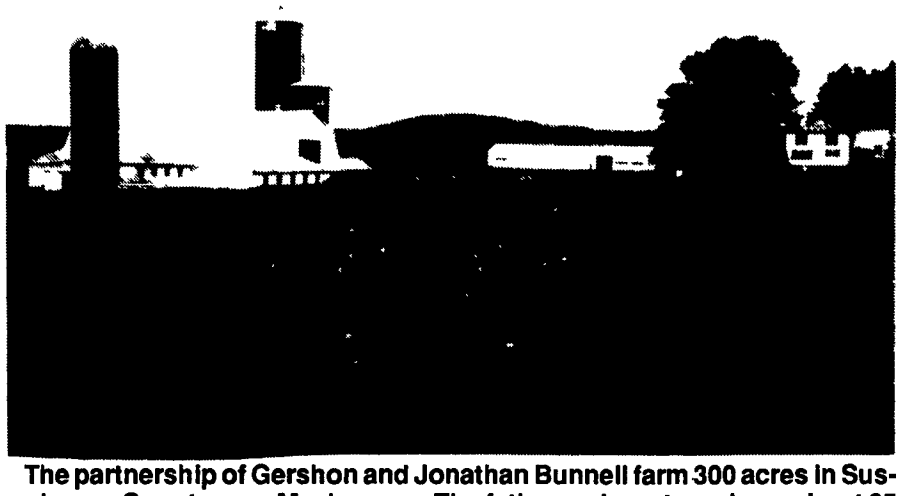
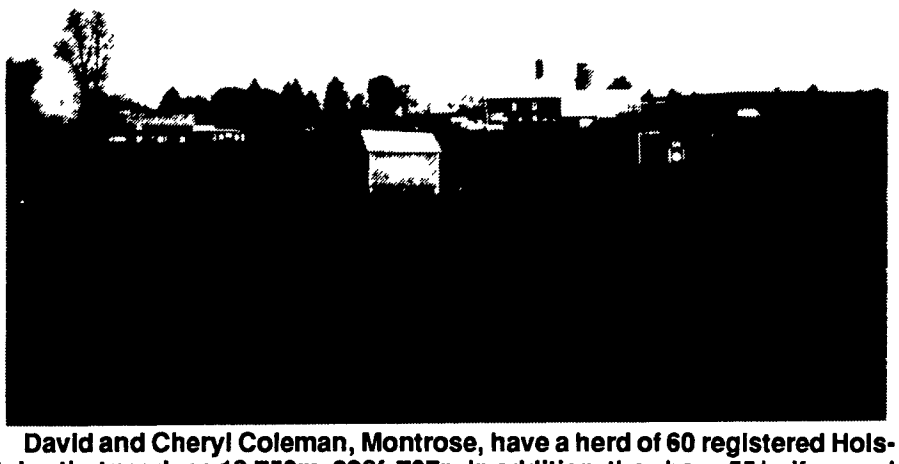
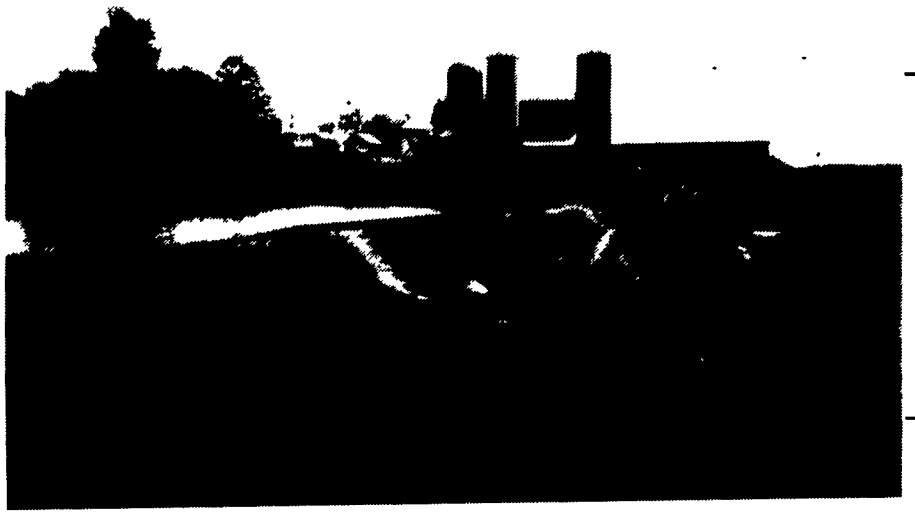
Susquehanna County



The partnership of Gershon and Jonathan Bunnell farm 300 acres in Susquehanna County near Meshoppen. The father and son team have about 65 Holsteins with a herd average over 17,000 lbs. of milk. Designated a century farm, Jonathan represents the 6th generation on the farm. They have a tie-stall barn and feed mostly haylage.



David and Cheryl Coleman, Montrose, have a herd of 60 registered Holsteins that produce 18,750m, 698f, 707p. In addition, they have 55 heifers and calves and they use Coleman Crest as the herd prefix. David's dad and mother, Roy and Jean Coleman, moved to the farm in 1954 and retired four years ago. They have a tie-stall dairy barn and free stall heifer facility. They raise mainly corn silage and alfalfa as feed for the dairy herd.



Dean and Jane Mack have 220 tillable acres on 410 acres that includes woodland. Dean's dad bought the farm in 1950 and still helps on the farm. The free-stall barn includes a double-four herringbone milking parlor and the dry cow and heifer barn has the new curtain type sides that work very well. The prefix for the 130 herd of reigstered Holsteins is O-Mac. Dean and Jane have three children, Lucas, 5; Shana 4; and Dustin, 6mo.

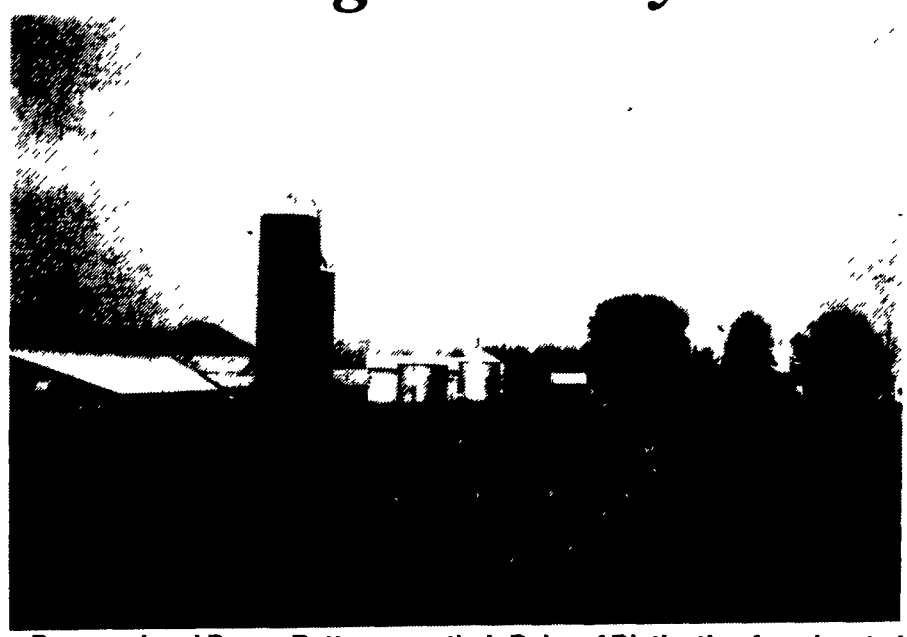
Susquehanna County

Bernard and Rose Zembrycki have a 275 acre Dairy of Distinction farm near Herrick Center in Susquehanna. Son Bernard Jr., took over management of the farm this year. Their 100 head Holstein herd averages over 19,000 lbs. of milk in stanchion barns. The farm was purchased in 1935. In addition to Bernard Jr., they have three grown daughters, Romaine, Carol and Audry, and five grandchildren.

Tioga County



Raymond and Peggy Butters own their Dairy of Distinction farm located near Morris. They farm 350 acres, have 131 Holsteins in their dairy herd and have some cash crop hay they sell in Lancaster County. Three sons, Terry, David and Glen work on the farm operation and another brother Gary, has a mobile home business. Grandchildren on the farm include: Erick, 3; Jillian, 1; Jamie, 13; Angie 10 and Andrew, 6. The herd is milked in a double 6 herringbone parlor that features a computerized feeding system.

Tioga County

The Dairy of Distinction farm of Willys and Barbara Hamilton is located near Millerton in Tioga County. Their farm is next to the old homstead built by grandfather Hamilton. Willys and Barbara started 42 years ago and built their farm from buildings that had no plumbing to the present show place. The Hamiltons have 80 registered Holsteins and farm 250 acres. They have three married children and six grandchildren. Son Joe and daughter-in-law Kathy and two of their grandchildren live on the home farm.

Warren County

Everett Clark & Son Farm in Warren County boasts 300 acres. Fifty-eight head of Holstein and five head of young stock are maintained on this farm, in the family for 22 years. Everett operates the farm with his son, David, 34, wife Jane and son-in-law Paul Jones.

Alan Ludwick, Sugar Grove

Maple Place Farm, operated by Alan Ludwick and his son, Brad, 23, farm 300 acres in Sugar Grove. The Dairy of Distinction farm has 46 Holsteins and 50 young stock. Herd average is 20,800 pounds, and the farm has been in the family for 115 years.

Washington County

Curtis and Chris Hamilton operate this 500-acre Dairy of Distinction farm in Avella, Pennsylvania. The farm, which goes back four generations, maintains 80 head of Holstein and a replacement stock of about 100. Herd average is about 20,000 pounds. The Hamiltons operate a stanchion barn and roate out of freestalls, milking three times a day, which Chris attributes to a 10 percent increase in milk production.

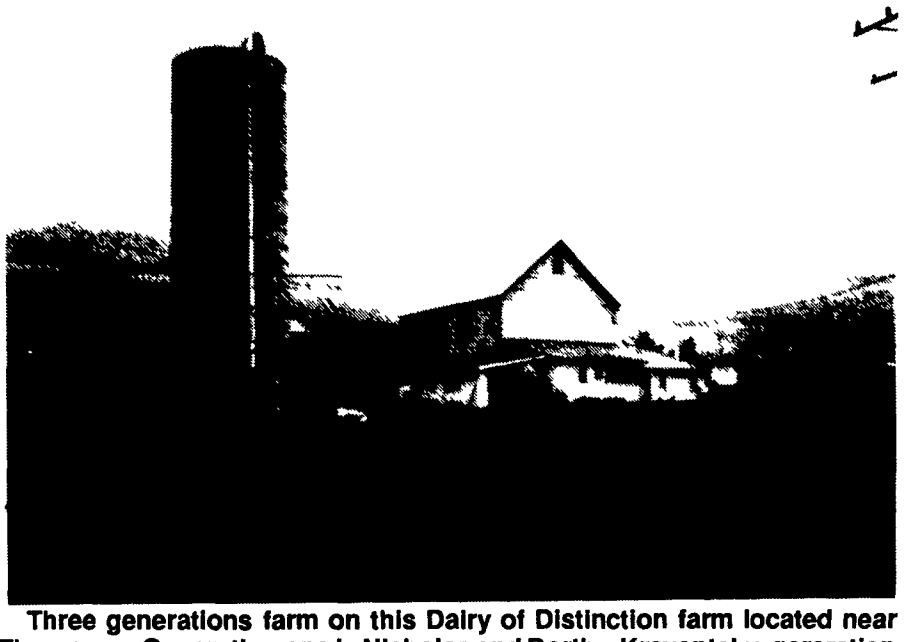
Washington County

This Washington, Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction farm is solely operated by William R. Paxton. It includes 200 acres and 40 registered Holstein, with 25 young stock. Herd average is 19,200 pounds, and the farm has been in the family for about 85 years. The all-hay ration feed works well in this tie-stall operation, according to Paxton.

Wayne County



Three generations farm on this Dairy of Distinction farm located near Thompson. Generation one is Nicholas and Dorthy Kraventsky, gereration two, Gary and Lois Kravetsky and grandson Stephen who is eight years old. The Holstein dairy herd has a 17,000 lb. milk average and has Coxton for a prefix. The 130 acre farm has been in the family for 70 years.

Westmoreland County

The 206 acres of rich farm land in the Dairy of Distinction is located near Mount Pleasant in Westmoreland County. The milking herd of registered Holsteins produce over 18,000 lbs. of milk and carry the Fern Spring Farm prefix. William Buttermore's dad bought the farm in 1930. Now two sons are in the partnership, William G and Ronald. The Buttermores operate a farm supply and grain business along with the farm.

We have been using Fertrell s feeding program with our milking herd for the past 2 years and we can say it s the best program we ve ever used Our production has increased along with a 2 point jump in butterfat test Herd health has been much better Udder edema in our fresh cows has been reduced and we have been able to breed our cows with increased efficiency

Kore J. Peachey
Milroy, PA

We started using Fertrell s Rumi-Cult 40 in June of 1987 and have been very happy with the results Their knowledge about nutrition has helped us immensely I appreciate the honest starightforward approach to helping us increase and maintain our butterfat We place a great deal of trust in the knowledge of their nutritionist, Dave Mattocks

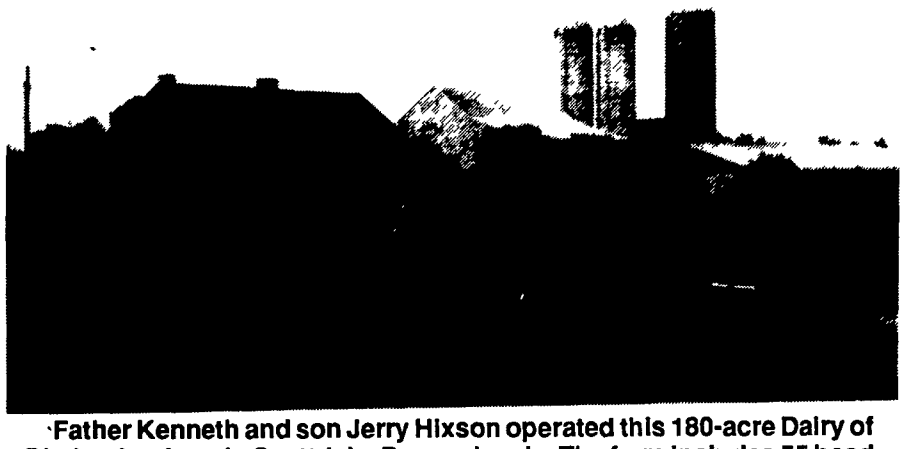
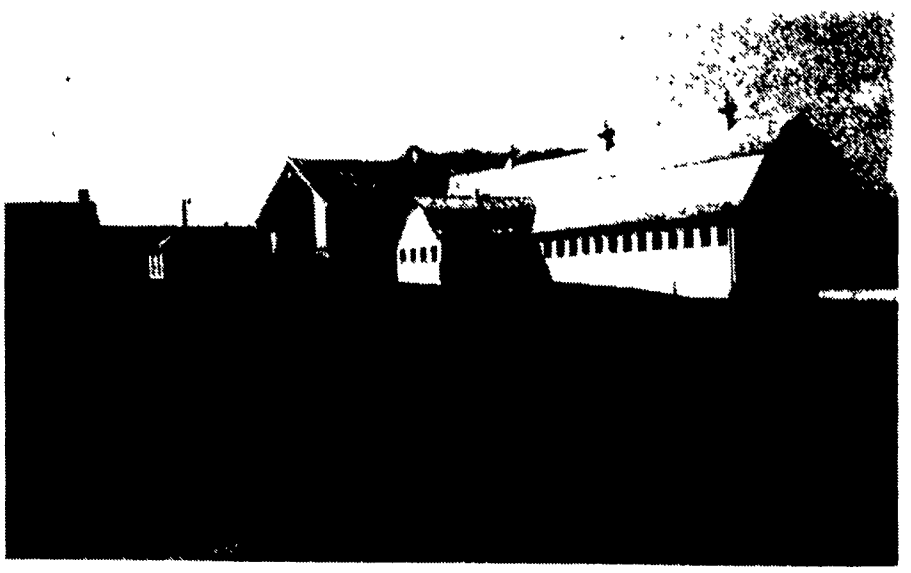
Westmoreland County



Father Kenneth and son Jerry Hixson operated this 180-acre Dairy of Distinction farm in Scottdale, Pennsylvania. The farm includes 55 head of Holstein and 35 young stock. Although the farm is not on DHIA, the herd average is 17,000 pounds. The farm has been in the family for more than 100 years. Jerry operates the farm with his dad, Kenneth, Jerry's mother, Betty, and Jerry's wife, Barbara.

York County



Blue-Knoll Farms in northern York County contains about 500 acres broken down to about 200 acres corn, 100 acres hay, mostly alfalfa, and about 75 acres of wheat. The rest of the acreage, outside of building and yard, are in pasture. Pasture management is used. The brother partnership of Howard and Ralph Fetrow, the farm dates back at least three generations with the promise of lasting into more. The entirely registered Holstein operation milks about 85 cows and keeps about 200 head altogether. There are four Excellents in the herd, three of which are home bred. The June DHIA report shows a rolling herd average of 22,417 pounds milk, 778 bf, and 707 protein.

Howard Fetrow has been hauling milk for about 30 years on the side. He started on his own and nows hauls about 3½ days a week for Rutter's Dairy. His son, Ronald, is herdsman. Also helping are one fulltime hired hand and Ralph's grandson, Charles Bingham, who helps out around a high school schedule. The farm is enrolled in the Chesapeake Bay Program and have an inground circular tank of poured concrete for stored manure. Last year the farm was recognized through the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service's Clean Water Award program. The Blue Knoll Farms is actually three farms together and is one of the few remaining in nothern York County. It is located near Zion's View between Manchester and Dover on Lewisberry Road.

Successful Program Into Fourth Year

On Wednesday, August 15, at 2:30 p.m. in the special events building at Ag Progress Days at Rock Springs, all present and past Dairy of Distinction farm family winners have been invited to meet for a special time of fellowship to get to know each other and to exchange ideas with other winners from across the state. At the same time, portraits of this year's winning farms will be shown.

As in the past, 10 district committees comprised of volunteer members ran the program in the local areas. They made arrangements for the judging and set up the presentation of awards. This year, the district chair persons are as follows: District 11, David Dowler; District 12, Wally Jackson; District 13, Susan DuFour; District 14, David and Janet Hilemon; District 15, Sam Maclay; District 16, Berneice Gabel; District 17, Kevin Barrett; District 18, Allen Roszel; District 19, Lisa Risser; District 20, Russell Rooks.

Dairymen who applied for the award but didn't win and all others who would like to receive the award are encouraged to apply next year. Information about the judging criteria and application forms are available from Secretary Nichols, ADADC, 1853 East Third St., Williamsport, PA 17701. Phone: (717) 323-2552.
